Pa. grasslanders host national conference

BY JACK HUBLEY

HERSHEY — For the first time in 25 years of service to the forage industry, the Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council brought the American Forage and Grassland Council home to Pa. for the joint PFGC-AFGC Conference held at the Hershey Convention Center Monday through Wednesday.

Representatives from 40 states, two Canadian provinces and Europe converged on Chocolate Town for the national meeting and PFGC silver anniversary celebration.

Highlights of the three-day event included scientific presentations by more than 50 scientists from across the continent, as well as recognition of those who have made outstanding contributions to the forage industry.

Pennsylvania was in the forefront during Tuesday night's AFGC award ceremony, garnering one of only three Distinguished Grasslander Awards offered nationwide, as well as one of 10 Merit Certificates awarded.

Recipient of the Distinguished Grasslander Award was Dr. John E. Baylor, retired Professor Emeritus from Penn State, who was a driving force behind the formation of the Pa. Forage and Grassland Council in 1960. A graduate of Rutgers University, Dr. Baylor became associated with Penn State in 1955 as a graduate student, and went on to be named forage extension agronomist in 1957.

Richard C. Hann, director of agri-business at Milton Hershey School Farms, Hershey, was Pennsylvania's Merit Certificate recipient. Graduating from Penn State with a Dairy Science degree, Mr. Hann began his career at the Hershey School in 1966 as a dairy manager. A staunch advocate of grassland agriculture, he has served as PFGC's secretary-treasurer for the past 17 years.

Block to evaluate egg marketing order

DECATUR, Ga. — At a meeting of the United Egg Producers' marketing order committee held in Chicago on Monday, Mar. 3, members voted unanimously to present the final egg marketing order draft to Secretary of Agriculture John Block.

According to UEP spokesman Ken Klippen, presentation of the marketing order to the Secretary will take place sometime this coming week, despite the fact that a congressional recess has resulted in the cancellation of a UEP Board of Directors meeting originally scheduled for Monday, Mar. 11. Presentation of the order was originally slated to be part of this meeting.

Klippen also noted that a group of producers has organized in opposition to the marketing order's provision for quantity controls.

"It's up to the Secretary to decide if the opposition warrants not allowing the marketing order to progress to the hearing stage," Klippen noted. Klippen said that, upon the Secretary's approval, the marketing order will then be the subject of hearings to be held across the country. "It will be there that we'll find out the strength of the opposition," Klippen said.

The hearings will then be followed by a nationwide referendum, with the entire process taking about 18 months, Klippen said. The UEP spokesman speculated that the marketing order in its present form would receive Secretary Block's approval.

Though the UEP's marketing order committee has been instrumental in drafting the document, Klippen stressed that United Egg Producers maintains a neutral stance on the concept of an egg industry marketing order.

WASHINGTON — The timing couldn't have been better. Protests, a veto of farm credit legislation, the start of hearings on a monumental new farm bill.

That's the turbulent environment 200 Pennsylvania Farmers Association representatives found themselves in this week, as the association made its annual "Washington Tour" in search of support and votes from the Pennsylvania delegation to the U.S. Congress.

Each of the state's 23 Representatives and two Senators were visited by PFA members. And the amateur lobbyists, carefully instructed by PFA staffers in the ways of politics, labored diligently to make sure they got answers to their questions.

Specifically, the groups queried the Congressmen about their stands on a variety of issues, some of which were not directly related to farming. Not surprisingly, the group asked about the Farm Bill and the emergency Farm Credit legislation passed this week.

But the group also polled the delegation on its feelings about the national debt, and the proposal for a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget.

The group was pleased to find a great deal of support for the PFA's legislative agenda. At a banquet meeting Wednesday night in the Capital Holiday Inn, the group recounted their experiences.

The budding lobbyists found almost universal support for the kind of "market-oriented" Farm Bill supported both by the PFA and the American Farm Bureau.

And although PFA members could not ask their congressmen about specific portions of the program, their representatives did assure them that they would carefully review the Farm Bureau's soon-to-be-released version of the Farm Bill.

Their experience on the emergency Farm Credit legislation indicates rough sailing for the proposal, which was being vetoed by the President, literally as they were speaking to the Congressional officials.

The Representatives were almost evenly divided, with 12 favoring an override of the presidential veto, ten opposing it and one undecided. A majority is not enough, however — two-thirds of both houses will have to support the legislation to override the veto.

Even more seriously, they found both U.S. Senators, Arlen Specter and John Heinz opposed to the override. Observers say the proposal will face its most serious opposition in the upper house.

With only a few exceptions, the group found strong support for fiscal responsibility. Many supported a balanced budget amendment, and most agreed the idea was worth trying to implement, with or without Constitutional status.

However, there was a disturbing amount of quibbling over small issues, especially over smaller details like whether or not to give the president the authority to make "line-item" vetoes.

The group also found almost universal support for its stands on the recently proposed Water Resources Bill and two tax issues —

PFA lobbies hard for its legislative agenda...

BY JAMES H. EVERHART

WASHINGTON — Protests, a presidential veto and congressional hearings focused the nation's attention on agriculture this week, as the political system made its way uncertainly toward the creation of a new agricultural policy.

Amid the air of charges and counter-charges, protests and testimony, the shape of an emerging consensus on farm issues came into view.

By listening to the talk from gossips and experts, officials and those in the know, a few things became apparent:

• First, what we have now isn't working.

• Second, government intervention in several markets in particular and in agriculture in general, hasn't exactly been a resounding success.

• Third, the choice is between tight control of production so as not to create surplus, or a much stronger effort to export agricultural products.

• Fourth, price supports and entire pricing systems must be "market-oriented" although no one is really specific about what that means.

Pa. Dairy Promotion Board adopts $1.7 million budget

BY WENDY WEHR

HARRISBURG — Members of the Pa. Dairy Promotion Advisory Board approved a $1.7 million budget as they met on Monday at the Department of Agriculture. The budget will carry the Pennsylvania promotion program through the remaining seven months before the national referendum on the 15 cent mandatory promotion deduction.

With a projected income of $1,350,000, plus $361,000 carried over from the first six months of the program, the Pennsylvania board will have $1,711,000 available for milk promotion. The bulk of the monies was allocated for media buys.

In the approved budget $1.1 million was set aside for purchasing television and radio time. Another $150,000 was earmarked for production of milk ads. Both these sums will be used by HBM/Creamer, the board's advertising agency.

During the meeting, Stan Muschweck, Creamer's account executive, reported the firm's strategy during the next seven months. Among Creamer's goals are continuing the unique advertising approach of touting milk as an adult beverage with great taste and maximizing consumer and industry awareness of the Pennsylvania promotion program.

Muschweck revealed the theme of "Milk doesn't just taste great, it's one of the all-time great tastes" to the board members and

Thursday, March 7

Report supplied by USDA

Market Comment: Ready to cook movement of whole birds was slow to only fair and an occasional seller noted a need to discount to effect satisfactory clearance. Demand for parts centered on cutlets and leg quarters. Most other items were slow in clearing. Slaughter schedules were curtailed by light weights in some quarters; lighter demand in others. Live supplies were adequate to fully adequate. Weights in a wide but mostly desirable to heavy range.

Today's L.T.L. asking prices were unchanged on U.S. Grade A at .49-.56 cents and were generally negotiable.

Estimated slaughter of broiler fryers in Delmarva (000).

Ask the Old Farmer: A friend received a cut glass pitcher. It's about 6" high, 4 1/2" in diameter, and has a sterling silver rim. As there is no spout, it isn't really a pitcher, but it does have three handles. Have you any idea of its use? M.C.D., Chicago
It sounds like an old-time "toddy glass," which came in various styles. They hauled it out when the minister called, and everyone present took a swig.

To Check Pasture

With March arriving and moderating temperatures, our thoughts quicken to early spring pasture. We need to be concerned with pastures and exercise lots along rural roads for discarded junk. Unfortunately, people still throw bags of waste from their cars into nearby fields. Some of the materials may be poisonous to livestock. Every producer should remove these materials before starting to graze. Also, in hay fields the materials should be removed before growth begins. Bottles and tin cans will damage equipment and be a threat to the livestock eating the hay. Be sure your animals are not poisoned through someone's carelessness.

To Treat Farm Pond Weed Early

Pond owners who experienced weed problems last summer will undoubtedly have similar or worse problems this year. Aquatic vegetation will have a tendency to increase where no control measures were taken the year before. These weed problems unfortunately multiply.

Early in the growing season is the better approach to gaining control of pond weeds. Aquatic plants are most susceptible to control by chemical herbicides when the plants begin growing. If mechanical controls are to be used, there will be less bulk in plant materials to contend with now. Control of the unwanted plants before flowering and seed setting occurs has benefits — early treatment means less interference with fishing, boating, swimming or whatever other pond activities are involved.

Always follow label directions carefully where chemical controls are used and be sure you have a permit from the PA Fish Commission before applying any chemical to your pond.

To Prune Fruit Trees

Whether you have a few or several hundred fruit trees, orchard pruning need not be delayed until spring. It may be started in colder weather. But it is a good practice to work on the hardest trees first.

Early pruning can involve some problems from winter injury, but in many cases an early start will be necessary to complete pruning of large orchards before spring. By confining early work to the older, harder trees, fruit growers can keep injury to a minimum.

Apple and pear trees are the hardest of the fruits with plums and sour cherries next in order. Because peach and sweet cherries are most tender, delay their pruning, particularly the younger trees, until late in March.

To Be Aware of Rural Crime

Crime in the rural area continues to climb. Many thieves are drawn to rural communities because of the attitude that crime is a city problem, so it's safe to leave your doors unlocked. As long as this notion persists, rural areas will remain a thieves' paradise. You can make it less so by forcing a burglar to work harder. Install dead bolt locks on all exterior doors and windows. Keep in mind they only work if you use them.

Get to know your neighbors; they can be a great crime deterrent. Agree to watch their place while they are away and they'll gladly do the same for you. It's important to identify your property. Police won't return items unless they're positively identified. Private gas pumps, and storage tanks are popular targets for thieves. Be sure to lock these up whenever you're not around. Exterior lights around your home, garage and barn will also do a lot to ward off burglars.

Background Scripture:

John 14 through 16.

Devotional Reading:

John 16:4-15.

In the classic motion picture, HUD, at the very end, realizing that his nephew is thoroughly disgusted with his life and is leaving the homestead, Hud sneers in these words (or similar): "Why there's so much garbage in this world, you can't hardly walk through it without stepping in it wherever you go."

Hud was right— well, at least in part. There is a lot of "garbage" in this world of ours, call it what you like: sin, corruption, evil, whatever. And it's not just in the less reputable sections of town. It is also to be found in our neighborhoods, our places of business, city hall, and even sometimes in our churches. And, if all you see in the world is that "garbage," there seems to be little reason why we shouldn't all agree with Hud and be cynics.

LEFT ALONE

The world in which Jesus lived had at least as much "garbage" as ours. It was a hard, cruel, hateful existence. The circumstances of his own life would have made many of us bitter. As the last days drew near, Jesus acknowledged: "The hour is coming, indeed it has come, when you will be scattered, every man to his home, and will leave me alone" (16:32). Jesus didn't call it "garbage" but it added up to the same things: hostility, jealousy, prejudice, malice, betrayal and so on. On one occasion he called it "tribulation". "In the world you have tribulation..." (16:33).

But "more to the world than tribulation" and being "all alone."

tells us, "yet I am not alone, for the Father is with me" (16:32). And although it seemed that Jesus had been betrayed and deserted and left all alone, he knew that he was not alone. Though his disciples had forsaken him, God was with him and secure in that knowledge, Jesus was able to see the world, not through the eyes of cynical despair, but of faith and hope.

TRIBULATION, BUT...

Best of all, Jesus assures us that we too can know that same assurance: "In the world you have tribulation; but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world" (16:33). Yes, there is lots and lots of evil in our world, but there is also the presence of Christ and because we are not alone, because he is with us, we can overcome because he has already "overcome the world."

Thus, whenever we are in the midst of some of the world's tribulation or "garbage," we need to remember this promise: "I will not leave you desolate; I will come to you" (14:18).

The key to the Christian hope is not that the world isn't as evil as it appears, but that because of the presence of Christ in our world, the power of love is more potent than the stench of the garbage. Whenever we are feeling lonely and powerless in this world, we need to remember that we are not alone.

OUR READERS WRITE, AND OTHER OPINIONS

Favors tobacco auction

There is nothing to hold us back from an auction except our own doubt. The doors are wide open, so let's get in and take advantage of this great opportunity.

Too many farmers are saying buyers would plan not to bid against each other, but it doesn't work that way in other states so why would it work that way here? I recently talked with a buyer from the deep South and he said, "No, we don't do that. We just keep on bidding to show the farmers we have pride in their crop so they grow it again next year. Sometimes if we come to a wet or poor pile (of tobacco) the price drops way down to 90 cents," the buyer said, "but the next pile is good again and the price goes right back up."

Supply, demand and quantity would make the price. Farmers would be better informed on what prices really are.

And in an auction barn we could make the buyers more relaxed and comfortable. They won't need to drive in the cold wind and snow to look for tobacco, or pay big money to rent the receiving places.

We would also get some new buyers direct from the tobacco companies. We need to show respect to all buyers, old and new, as we need them all. Let them think of us as pleasant folks to be around.

Farmers should all fill out a questionnaire as soon as possible, as it (auction proposal) depends on a vote from the farmers, not the buyers. Our buyers we had in the past may not be recommending it, but if we start an auction they will be there.

If you did not send in your questionnaire, you can answer the following questions on a postcard and send them to Earl Newcomer, Box 174, Rt. 1, Washington Boro, Pa. 17582.

How many acres of Maryland and Pennsylvania-type tobacco do you grow?

Do you favor an auction over the present method of selling tobacco?

Would you commit your 1985 Maryland harvest to be sold at auction?

Would you like to be involved in planning and setting up an auction?

If not, can you recommend someone who might be interested? It will work if we make it work.

Signed: B.S. Beiler, tobacco grower and buyer from Christiana

(Editor's Note: An informational meeting concerning tobacco auctions will be held on Thursday, Mar. 14, at the Blue Ball Elementary School at 7:30 p.m. The school is located east of Blue Ball on Ewell Road.)

About Rosemary Hartter —

This nationally-known and respected farm wife, frequent contributor to Farm Journal and author of her own commodity marketing handbook, has taught down-to-earth basics on farm marketing across the country. She spoke at the annual PFA convention last fall and now is back again by popular demand. Don't miss it!

"Rosemary (Hartter) is an astute individual, who brings a complex subject to understandable and useable terms by her own technique. Being a practical farmer as well as a commodity expert, she has composed a book not for experts, but for knowledge seeking business persons. No matter if your business day is spent in a classroom, on a tractor or in a swine confinement system, this book will be a rewarding positive influence which will enhance your knowledge of marketing."

Dairy Promotion Board

informed them that the P.A. dairy promotion ads will be back on the airwaves in April.

For a sum of $30,000 Creamer is also arranging a Pirates promotion at Three River Stadium. At the baseball game on June 30, the conclusion of Dairy Month, youngsters will be given jerseys with the "Make It Milk" logo. A celebrity milking contest and other promotion activities will also be held that day.

Muschweck also stated that "giving the Pa. Dairy Board an identity as a promotion program" will also be a goal in the coming months. His comments tied in closely with a concern that surfaced several times during the meeting on Monday.

"Recognition problem"

"I'm disappointed with the lack of knowledge and interest of the dairymen," stated board member Thad Woodward. And other board members were quick to express their dismay at the "recognition problem" from which the Pa. promotion program suffers.

Members remarked that as they talk to fellow dairy farmers they are discovering that the producers have little knowledge of the Pennsylvania promotion effort. One person even noted that he's talked to farmers who are confusing the 50 cent diversion program assessment with the 15 cent advertising deduction.

Woodward called for a "means of selling this program," as the board members hashed over the identity problem. "We've talked about this every meeting. What are we going to do?" challenged Donald Duncan.

While Harteis shared a motivating presentation that he has given at dairy meetings, and everyone agreed that they must be willing to speak to farmers about the promotion efforts, no one came up with a clear-cut solution to mobilizing the "army" of more than 15,000 dairy farmers in the state.

"You've got to get it into a package for the farmer who doesn't come out to meetings," commented Larry Yeager, area Extension marketing agent, from the audience. "There are more of them out there than we realize."

Ideas of informing extension personnel across the state and of devising a "fact sheet" about the program were discussed, but action to escape the dilemma was nil.

Local promotion funds

In other action during the meeting, the subcommittee handling local funding requests reported a relaxation of the guidelines for receiving local promotion monies.

With a board decision to extend the application deadline, county dairy promotion organizations can still submit requests. Reporting for the local promotion subcommittee, PDA staffer Bill Smedley said that the consensus of the group was that the guidelines and application procedures were "too negative and too strict" before.

In the last funding period, of $42,000 in requests for local promotion funds, only $9,800 was

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Agriculture today said milk diversion checks for the January-March 1984, April-June 1984, and July-September 1984, quarters that were paid, cashed and processed through December allocated. No funding for travel expenses, dairy princess pageants, radio or brand advertising, or capital investments were allowed in the first six months.

The board will now fund up to $600 per radio station for Make it Milk ads, and up to $1000, one time only, for capital investments. In both cases the state board is requesting 25 percent local matching funds.

In an update on promotional materials Bill Smedley reported that the milk truck decals were delivered and the first decals will be placed on milk tank trucks this week. Other promotional materials that will be arriving or will be reordered include the "Burma Shave" signs, cups with the "Make It Milk" logo, and point of purchase promotion aids.

Also reporting at the meeting was Dr. Robert McCarthy, Penn State food scientist. McCarthy is conducting research, with funding by the Pa. Dairy Promotion Board, on the potential of milk consumption to reduce cholesterol levels. He expects to be able to report back to the board this summer with some results from his study.

Diversion payments total $537 million totalled about $537 million. This is about 90 percent of the payments USDA expects to make for the first 9 months of the 15-month program. Payments have been made on about 92 percent of the contracts under the program.

USDA projects that dairy price support purchases by the Commodity Credit Corporation will be 7.3 billion pounds, milk equivalent fat basis, for this marketing year (FY-1985), a decline from the 10.4 billion pounds last year and 16.6 billion in FY-1983.

The Dairy and Tobacco Adjustment Act of 1983 authorizes price support reductions of 50 cents per hundredweight on April 1 and July 1, 1985, if CCC purchases for the following 12 months are projected to exceed 6 billion and 5 billion pounds, respectively.

Deductions from producers for milk marketings beginning December 1, 1983, totaled about $650 million through December 1984. At this time, deductions exceed payments, but USDA estimates that over the life of the program, deductions and payments will be nearly equal. While the $10.00 per hundredweight diversion payments are funded almost entirely from the 50-cent deductions from the industry, the cost of the dairy price support program to the Government is still averaging near $1.5 billion per year.

USDA said that the drop in CCC purchases has resulted more from increased commercial use and increased farm use than from a drop in production. Production on a daily average basis during January-December was down 3 percent from a year earlier. However, dairy cow numbers were 6,000 above the July 1984 level in December of 1984.

Pennsylvania is 11th nationwide in diversion payments received, with receipts of $15,274,000.

Plan now to correct wet spots, drainage problems

Late winter is the time of year to make your plans for Spring. Remember last year when you were working in those fields and found all the wet spots where you couldn't plant. Now is the time to plan to correct them.

Maybe what you need is sub-surface drainage, or a diversion or waterway constructed. Harry Barnett, Conservation Technician with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service says to do your planning early. Someone from the Soil Conservation Service will visit your farm and give you recommendations on how to correct the problems. By doing this early planning you are ready to start construction as soon as weather permits.

If you wait until Spring to make your plans, it may be too late for this year. Contractors get overloaded with work and just can't get there. Also, by having someone from the Soil Conservation Service visit your farm, they may point out other conservation practices needed that you just didn't realize would help. Don't put off till Spring what you can do this Winter. To help with your planning, contact your local SCS office.

Jersey Cattle Club announces leadership changeover

COLUMBIS, OHIO — Following a long and most distinguished career, James F. "Jim" Cavanaugh has announced his retirement from The American Jersey Cattle Club (AJCC) and National All-Jersey Inc. (NAJ), effective July 1, 1985. He will be succeeded by Maurice E. Core, AJCC Assistant Secretary and Treasurer of both AJCC and NAJ. Cavanaugh will continue as a consultant until January 1, 1986. Cavanaugh joined the AJCC in 1947, leaving the Hoard's

Dairyman editorial staff to become AJCC Assistant Secretary. He later served as acting editor of the Jersey Journal when it was started in October, 1953. He was named Executive Secretary October 20, 1956, the position he has held for the past 28 years, the longest tenure in AJCC history. He has also been Executive Secretary of NAJ since its incorporation in 1957. His leadership of the Jersey organizations has brought the breed to a position of strong second

The players were all heavyweights. In announcing his veto of the emergency farm credit legislation, President Reagan noted that farmers "need our sympathy and support," but asserted that the credit bill would not really help those who need and deserve it. "Let's be clear on one thing — the bill I vetoed would not really help farmers," Reagan said in his message announcing the veto. "It's too late in the season for that.

This bill is merely designed to convey the impression of helping farmers." Reagan also criticized the Congress for failing to do anything about its concerns about the size of budget federal deficits. "In the first major bill since convening in January, a majority (of Congress) proved itself incapable of resisting the very tax-and-spend philosophy that brought America to its knees and wrecked our economy." And in his presentation to Congress, Agriculture Secretary John Block told the Senate Agriculture Committee, "We can't afford to keep mortgaging agriculture's future for a quick fix. It is time to face realities, set the proper course and make the transition as smoothly as possible." Block said his agricultural policy, outline in the 1985 Farm Bill, should be long-term, and sensitive to marketplace considerations. "Farmers want income from the marketplace," Block told the committee. "They don't want to get income from the government." North Carolina Democrat Jesse Helms responded to Block's outline by observing that most of the testimony his committee had heard previously indicated the need for change. And there was a surprising degree of agreement in the speakers' calls for market-oriented pricing and a newly competitive agricultural economy, he said.

Cambria Co. agent to retire

EBENSBURG — Herbert C. Terndrup, a Cambria County Extension agent for 34 years, has announced his retirement. A county agent since 1951, Terndrup initiated the youth leadership training program in Cambria County and developed a working relationship between the extension service and the service clubs and businesses in Johnstown and Ebensburg. He also designed group teaching methods on farm records and accounts. But Terndrup says one of his finest accomplishments was the formation of the Johnstown Farmers Market. "It was direct marketing within the county," he says. "It provided the marketing thrust our fruit and vegetable growers needed. Since Johnstown is a highly populated area, we saw the direct opportunity for a good market." Terndrup's most recent program dealt with farm management in potato production. "We gave farmers in Cambria and Somerset Counties estimates on costs and sales. These counties make up the largest potato producing area in the state, with about 5,000 square acres," he says. Terndrup served in the U.S. Air Force for a year in 1942 before going to Penn State. He graduated with a bachelor's degree in animal husbandry in 1946. He received a master's degree in 1951. Terndrup toured Midwest Extension offices as part of the Dow Study Tour Scholarship he received in 1962. Later in his career, he established the annual Potato Industries Winter Fair, a regional meeting of area potato growers and retailers. He won the Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of County Agricultural agents in 1976.

among the dairy breeds in this country. His continued emphasis on increasing the profitability of Jerseys has helped bring about a dramatic increase in the production level of Jersey cattle. This turn around began with the AJCC's adoption of USDA Sire Summaries in 1968 as the official method of ranking Jersey sires. Under Cavanaugh's leadership, the Jersey organizations have pioneered in developing markets for high solids milk, from the All Jersey program for fluid markets to the Equity program (multiple component pricing) and Jersey Pride Cheese. Core, a member of the AJCC staff for 29 years, will become only the eleventh Executive Secretary in the organization's 117 year history. He has moved steadily upward since starting as an area representative in the Midwest in 1956. He became a Special Representative in the Columbus office in 1959, Administrative Assistant in 1961 and Executive deduction of health insurance premiums and repeal of the I.R.S. mileage record-keeping requirements. "In general, the delegation supports most of our issues," summarized PFA legislative expert Al Myers. "But there still is a small amount of disagreement on how we get there." It's said that Washington is a city of insiders, constantly besieged by pressure groups, lobbyists and tourists from the outside world.

And while more radical groups marched in the streets and shouted their protests at passersby, the PFA chose the "insider" route. PFA President Keith Eckel was asked about the more moderate PFA approach, in a variety of interviews by national media during the group's stay in Washington. "I told them we're accustomed to going inside the Capitol and talking with our Congressmen, not protesting outside," he said.

F.O. 4 dairy producers asked to renew promotion requests

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program Advisory Board is attempting to contact Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Area (Federal Order 4) dairy farmers who contribute to the program, to notify them of the need to renew their requests for funding to the statewide promotional effort.

"The Advisory Board is urging Federal Order 4 producers who wish to continue their support for the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program to again notify the order market administrator and renew their support for this program," said Secretary of Agriculture Penrose Hallowell. "Under Federal Order 4 regulations, requests for these refunds to the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program must be received by the market administrator between March 1 and March 15," he added.

Although the producers originally indicated their requests were made "until further notice," the market administrator for Federal Order 4 has announced that since January 1, 1985, none of these funds will be forwarded to the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program.

Hallowell said the action by the market administrators has cost the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program at least $100,000 for the three-month period through March 31 by not alerting these dairymen of the need to file a re-request.

"The program has been receiving about $35,000 monthly from producers who ship to plants regulated by Federal Order 4," said Hallowell. "These producers must now renew their request to have ten cents of their 15-cent federal assessment be designated for the Pennsylvania Dairy Program.

"Although I feel the market administrators have not acted in response to the obvious desires of affected producers, they are in accordance with their regulations," Hallowell said.

"We cannot directly contact these producers because the market administrators refuse to identify dairy farmers contributing to our own program," he said. "We have asked farm organizations and Federal Order 4 regulated dealers to make their producers aware of this ruling and the need to re-request their funding again be redirected to the state program.

"The Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program was aimed at dairy promotion in non-federally regulated areas of the commonwealth. However, the added contributions of producers from federally regulated plants have helped us bolster the 'Make It Milk' message in these production areas," Hallowell said. "Maintaining an effective milk promotion program has been a major effort. The Advisory Board is committed to a successful dairy promotion program."

Requests should be mailed to Mr. Joseph D. Shine, Federal Order 4 Market Administrator, P.O. Box 710, Alexandria, VA 22313.

Sign-up extended

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block has said the sign-up deadline for the 1985 acreage reduction programs has been extended from March 1 to April 1.

Block said it is his hope that this extension will provide producers with additional time to plan their farm credit needs for the 1985 planting season.

"Twist-Lock" cups: newest innovation from the new leader

...another reason SWISH saves you more labor, more birds, and more money

The newest twist in cage watering makes cup cleaning and maintenance a real snap. It's SWISH's Twist-Lock cups for cage layers and brood-grow watering systems.

Saves labor. No more contortions with hand tools inside a cage — one simple twist of the wrist unlocks and removes the unitized cup and valve. It's that easy to maintain when necessary.

But, with SWISH, it's hardly ever necessary. That's because our cup is self-cleaning. Our patented valve keeps the cup clean by flushing any feed particles out so birds can consume them with the water.

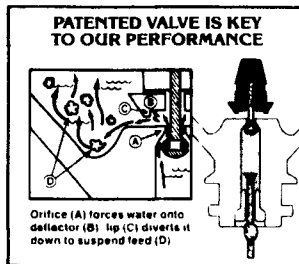

Installation is a snap too with SWISH's new cups. They simply snap into the desired location and the hose attaches to the water line outlet. These are some of the ways SWISH's new cup saves you labor — easy installation, low maintenance, and labor savings between flocks because our cup constantly cleans itself.

Helps save more birds. Because our cup is self-cleaning, algae and bacteria growth is not a problem as with cups that don't flush out feed particles. Clean cups mean less chance of disease and less mortality. And our big cup means good access to water, for a good level of bird health.

SWISH saves you money. That's the bottom line with a system that cuts labor and keeps birds alive and productive.

Get all the facts about our new cup and other SWISH innovations. See your SWISH distributor or contact us.

Lancaster Holstein Club sponsors classification meetings

LANCASTER — The Lancaster County Holstein Club is sponsoring two meetings to coincide with the official classification schedule, one on March 14 and one on March 22.

Classifiers from the National Holstein Association will discuss with local dairymen how the final classification score is reached, and will review classification and linear scoring procedures.

The Thursday, March 14, meeting will be held at the farm of Harold and Lamar Witmer in Manheim. Chuck Coburn will be the classifier at that meeting which will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Friday, March 22, the meeting will be at Galen Crouse's farm in Schoeneck, with Devlyn Harley as the classifier. That meeting will also begin at 7:30 p.m.

To get to the Crouse farm, travel north of Ephrata on Route 272. At the first red light after the Nichols Discount Store, turn left onto Schoeneck Road. There is a PP & L Service Center on the northeast corner of that intersection. Travel about four miles on Schoeneck Road, and the Crouse farm is on the left just before entering Schoeneck.

Refreshments will be served at both meetings.

Northwest colored breeders meet

BY NANCY KUNICK
Staff Correspondent

MEADVILLE — The Northwest Pa. Colored Breeders' Association met recently in Crawford County.

The feature of the evening was a slide presentation about Africa. Robert and Elizabeth Dorchester, of Albion, shared their experiences at the 1984 World Ayrshire Breeders' Conference held this past fall. As delegates, they travelled to farms, villages, and to a bull stud on their three-week trip. Dorchester mentioned that the world conference is scheduled to be held in the United States in 1988.

Prior to the slides, several ideas for 1985 were discussed by the association members. Again this year the group will have a display at Crawford Dairy Day where breed literature will be available.

Plans were made for another raffle also. Tickets will be sold at Dairy Day and through members at $1.00 each with $100.00 to be awarded to the winner at the annual All-Breed Calf Sale to be held April 13, at the Crawford Co.

Farm-City Day, fair week and future meetings were also discussed. The group voted to give $120.00 to the milk promotion committee in the county. Headed by Linda Field, the committee has done radio spots sponsored by individual farms and farm organizations.

89X-C 120 Days NEW, NEW!!-SUPER CHOICE!!

The new 89X-C has all the ingredients needed for top yields. Tests over the past three years shows better standup and higher average yields. Resistance to leaf diseases and drought shows marked improvement. Ears are medium long and girthy with very deep kernels set on a hard cob.

78X-A 114 Days NEW!!-SUPER "A"

The new "A" Version of 78X shows much improved leaf disease resistance which in turn helps standability. Also the "A" retains the big easy husking ear and the ability to make record yields. Very impressive on farms in '83. Responds to thinner planting with bigger ears!! Drought tolerance at a high level.

70X-A 112 Days VERY HEALTHY-SUPER YIELDER

The new A version of 70X shows improved yields, better plant health and a stiffer stalk. The ear height is also lower. Has a good sized ear of deep yellow kernels, ideal for picking or shelling. Excellent resistance to Northern Leaf Blight. A really super "A" hybrid!!

60X-A 100 Days POPULAR AND ADAPTED-BRIGHT FUTURE

An improved 60X, this "A" version is shorter in the stalk, stands better and still retains the yielding ability of 60X. Does especially well as an early corn in the longer season areas. Has a good sized ear both in length and girth. Deep kernels for combining. Doeblers' most popular 100 day hybrid gaining in popularity by leaps and bounds!!

59X 98 Days BIG EAR TYPE-RECORD YIELDS

59X has a medium tall plant, is highly resistant to leaf diseases and has a big easy husking ear. Ear size will greatly expand at lower populations. In competition with 36 hybrids, 59X took the top yield in '82 Penn State Commercial Corn Trials (Early Med. Season) with 152.2 bu. dry shelled corn per acre!

48X 90 Days EXCITING -YIELD CHAMPION

This new hybrid has a medium height stalk, is an excellent stander and is tops in its maturity for yield. In the 1981 Penn State Commercial Corn Trials (early area, 10 locations) 48X was the top yielding hybrid, a full 23 bu. better than the test average. In '82, again 48X was not to be outperformed. It yielded 135.4 bu., 18 bu. better than the test average!!

38X 85 Days HIGH YIELDS-EXCELLENT STANDER

This single is an early version of 48X and fits those who need something earlier. Stalk is stiff and short. Kernels are deep for its maturity. Will stand thick planting and higher applications of fertilizer.

Proof of performance of Doeblers' Hybrids is just a matter of record. Those who study the unbiased university corn yield trials know just how outstanding and consistent Doeblers' Hybrids really are!! And last but not least, the record shows that farmers plant Doeblers' Hybrids in increasing numbers each year.

New technologies maximize milk production, efficiency

BY WENDY WEHR

LANCASTER — In only a few short years, Pennsylvania dairy farmers will have access to the "miracle drug" of the dairy industry. Bovine growth hormone will be available as an implant in 1988 or 1989, announced Brian Perkins, manager of dairy and livestock nutrition at Pennfield Corporation.

In ongoing tests of the bovine growth hormone, or methionyl bovine somatotropin (MBS), daily injections have increased milk production up to 40 percent.

"You've read about it everywhere, from the 'New York Times' to the farm magazines, because the results are just phenomenal," said Perkins, speaking at the Lancaster County Dairy Days on Tuesday.

Through genetic engineering, he explained to the dairy producers, bacteria have been induced to produce growth hormone. Essentially, the hormone, which increases feed intake, sends nutrients to the mammary glands to make more milk. Perkins said MBS will have a direct effect on the mammary system, giving it a greater capacity to produce milk.

He also assured the farmers that no negative effects on reproduction have been indicated. Butterfat percentage will also not be changed by the hormone.

Although all the current research has been carried out with daily injections, the marketed product will probably be an implant. Perkins predicted that MBS will be available in Europe next year and in the United States by 1988.

"It is a miracle drug because what it can do is incredible," acknowledged Perkins. Use of MBS to boost milk production will be an unprecedented development in the world dairy industry. Not even the genetic gains from years of artificial insemination can measure up to the impact that the growth hormone will have on a cow's milk production in just six months, he commented.

Other new technologies for boosting production and efficiency are currently available to dairymen. In his presentation Perkins touched on chemical treatment of forages and grain, alteration of rumen function, and use of supplemental light to increase production.

One example of chemical treatment of forages is treating hay with potassium carbonate, which cuts down dry down time for the stems at the time of cutting.

Advances in forage analysis, noted Perkins, are allowing dairy farmers to more accurately predict how much the cow will eat, how the rumen will react, and how much butterfat she will make.

Altering rumen function also offers promising gains for dairy animals. Rumensin, approved for dairy replacement heifers in the fall of 1983, is a growth stimulant that has yielded positive results.

"Rumensin favors propionic acid which favors body growth. It allows her to obtain 15 percent more energy from whatever home-grown forages you might be feeding her," cited Perkins. Returns are far greater than the costs, too.

Rumensin boosts growth rate, so heifers can calve at heavier weights. "The bigger they are at 24 months, the better they're going to milk for you," added the dairy nutritionist.

Isoacids can also be used to alter rumen function. By stimulating bacterial growth in the rumen, fiber digestion and protein utilization are improved. Use of isoacids increases milk production by eight to ten percent.

Perkins predicted that isoacids, which will be marketed by Eastman Chemicals as Isoplus, will be available early this summer. For a 25 or 30 cent expenditure per day, he estimated, you can expect a 65 cent return in increased milk production.

Speaking briefly about carbohydrate metabolism and protein utilization, Perkins reminded the dairy managers not to rely on a single source for carbohydrates or a single source for protein.

"You must feed the proper blend of structural and non-structural carbohydrates. Don't rely too heavily on a starchy energy source," he advised. "You have to have a blend of carbohydrates for the rumen to function properly."

"Structural carbohydrates are necessary to maintain butterfat. Remember that most problems or successes with butterfat production come from the forage part of the ration."

Perkins also asserted that high-moisture ear corn supports milk production as well as high-moisture shelled corn.

Another new technology that can yield substantial payoffs is the use of supplemental light. Providing 16 to 18 hours of supplemental light can increase milk production by six to ten percent.

The cows will increase feed intake by 6 to 10 percent under supplemental lighting. Also growing heifers will gain 10 to 15 percent faster.

But light intensity must be approximately 13 foot-candles, which, suggested Perkins, is enough light to be able to read the newspaper comfortably if you were standing by the cow's head.

High pressure sodium lamps are the most efficient, said Perkins. A conservative estimate of the payback period for rewiring and adding extra lights would be two years, he added.

To conclude his discussion of new technologies for boosting production and efficiency, Perkins presented the DHI figures for milk production for the past 45 years and shared some projections for the future.

Average production from 1940 to 1985 jumped from 8,133 pounds milk per cow to 16,086 pounds. Based on figures supplied by Dick Adams, at Penn State, Perkins projected a 21,860 pound milk average by 1995, only ten years from now.

How can the dairy industry adjust to the substantial increase in production? "That's a lot of milk

The tall and the short of things? Brian Perkins, manager of dairy nutrition at Pennfield Corp., left, was one of the featured speakers at the Lancaster County Dairy Days. to sell," summed up Perkins. "You'll have to advertise a lot more and find the right markets and hit them hard."

Farming - a dangerous occupation

BY SUZANNE KEENE

LANCASTER — The National Safety Council recently placed farming at the top of its list of hazardous occupations. Dr. Dennis Murphy, a safety specialist with the Penn State Extension, told farmers at Lancaster Dairy Days this week.

Murphy was on hand at Dairy Days to talk about some of the hazards that make farming a dangerous occupation and to encourage farmers to take steps to prevent accidents.

Pesticide application is one potentially dangerous chore most farmers must face. "You should look like an alien from outer space when applying pesticides," Murphy told the farmers. The entire body, including head, eyes, mouth and nose, must be protected from harmful pesticides.

A chemical cartridge respirator is also needed when applying pesticides for protection against respiratory complications. It is important, Murphy noted, to make sure the cartridge is approved for pesticides. "If you can smell the pesticide, you are not being properly protected," he warned.

Tractor cabs do offer some, but not complete protection, because vapors can penetrate the cab. Even with a cab, farmers should wear a cartridge filter or equip the tractor cab with protective filters available from equipment dealers.

But before they head for the field, farmers should read pesticide labels carefully, Murphy cautioned. Such labels, he explained, are legal documents with civil and criminal ramifications if not properly followed.

When mixing pesticides, farmers should fill the container half full with water, add the chemical and then the remaining water to avoid unnecessary splashing. Mixing is one of the most dangerous parts of working with chemicals because they are in a concentrated state at this point.

Pesticides are classified into three categories which are identified by their labels. Pesticides labeled "Danger - Poison" are the most toxic and only a few drops of these substances can kill a 150-pound person. The next dangerous are those labeled "Warning," and can kill with a single ounce. A "Caution" label, found on most household chemicals, indicates that several ounces of the chemical can kill a person.

When finished using pesticides, farmers should rinse the container three times, dumping the rinse water in the field where the chemical was applied, Murphy said. It should not, he stressed, be dumped on the ground where unsuspecting young children might play. The container should be discarded where children cannot get at it.

Any leftover chemicals should be stored in their original containers with the correct labels. Pesticides should be locked in a cabinet where children cannot reach.

Another danger facing farmers is respiratory disease caused by breathing in mold spores that grow on crop materials with a high moisture content, Murphy said. The mold is usually not harmful, Murphy explained, until the farmer tries to work with the hay or silage.

As the mold dries out, it breaks into microscopic particles that penetrate the body's natural filtering system and enter the lungs, where they accumulate. If enough of the spores travel into the lung, they can weaken the lung.

Farmer's Lung and Mycotoxicosis are two diseases caused by breathing in mold spores. While the two diseases are closely related, they are somewhat different. Both are caused by breathing in harmful dust and have similar symptoms, but Farmer's Lung symptoms reoccur and a person can become sensitized to the mold, Murphy said. When a person becomes sensitized to the mold, his body is less tolerant of the mold and it takes less exposure to cause the symptoms.

These two diseases are often misdiagnosed as the flu because of their similar symptoms. The symptoms, which are often delayed about four to six hours after exposure, include shortness of breath, fatigue, dry cough, chills and fever.

Repeated exposure to the harmful mold spores can cause irreversible damage, Murphy warned.

Farm management practices that prevent the growth of mold spores are a good way of protecting farmers from these diseases. These include using mold inhibitors, baling hay, ensiling crops and harvesting and storing grains at the recommended moisture content. Mechanical or automated feed systems are also helpful.

When working around mold spores, farmers should protect themselves with respirators approved for protection against dust. The cartridge type respirator is the best of these, because it has the tightest seal, Murphy explained.

On-farm manure storage facilities also present a hazard to farmers and visitors alike. Experience has shown that manure storage hazards often end with multiple fatalities, Murphy said. Often, he explained, one person is overcome by toxic gases and the would-be rescuer is also affected by the deadly gases.

Of the three types of manure storage facilities — above ground tanks, off-barn holding ponds, and below ground pits — the below ground pits are the most dangerous. "The more totally enclosed, the more hazardous the facility," Murphy explained.

Manure storage hazards include gases that are toxic, asphyxiant, and explosive, he said. Drowning is also possible, especially in open manure ponds.

Hydrogen sulfide gas, formed in manure storage facilities, is a deadly colorless gas that is heavier than air. In high concentrations, it can kill in seconds.

Carbon dioxide, an asphyxiant gas, is also formed by decomposing manure, as are ammonia and explosive methane gas.

These gases are most dangerous when a farmer agitates the manure while pumping it out. The hydrogen sulfide content often increases up to 1,000 times, Murphy said.

Before starting to agitate manure, farmers should get their animals out of the area, start ventilation fans and have an auxiliary generator nearby in case of power failure, Murphy suggested. "Plan ahead and do everything possible to get the place well ventilated," he urged.

It is important to keep the area well ventilated while the tank is being emptied and ventilation

Lebanon Extension reviews year at annual meeting

BY DONNA MC CONAUGHEY
Staff Correspondent

LEBANON—More than 150 people recently gathered for the Annual Meeting of the Lebanon County Cooperative Extension Service.

The evening's program included staff reports, election of officers, a presentation on stress management, and recognition of service to the Extension program.

Marion Wentz of Lebanon was honored for 20 years of service as a member of the Executive Committee in Lebanon County. Marilyn Szerba, office manager of the Lebanon County Extension office received recognition for 25 years of employment.

Members of the Extension staff presented brief reports of their work in 1984. Linda Seigel, 4-H Agent, discussed the results of a questionnaire sent to 4-H leaders. The purpose of the survey was to determine how to better meet the needs of volunteer leaders. Participants in the survey represented current 4-H leaders and those who did not re-enroll as a leader in 1984.

Past statistics have shown that nearly 25 percent of leaders do not re-enroll each year. If this percentage can be decreased, the results for the 4-H program could be significant. All leaders surveyed indicated that they had benefited from their involvement even if they chose not to continue that involvement.

4-H Program Assistant Sue Werner is responsible for coordinating county 4-H events. Sue reviewed several county activities. A new program for Lebanon county is the 4-H Dairy Bowl. The interest in this program has been outstanding and continues to grow.

Ken Winebark, county agent, discussed the dairy industry in Lebanon county. With more than 350 dairy farm families in the county, nearly 46 million dollars in agricultural sales are generated. Factors affecting the dairy industry are significant to Lebanon county.

Mastitis control is one of the factors that is being promoted in the county. If the farmer looks at both the clinical and subclinical cases in his herd, he will discover a large potential income loss. Ken emphasized the need to focus on efficiency rather than just production figures in the dairy industry today.

County Agent Denis Hoke discussed the Alfalfa Grower's Program and the Five-Acre Corn Club in Lebanon county. Several county farmers have won awards on the state level in these programs. In addition, county farmers benefit from their involvement in the contests as they compare their cost budgets for producing the crops to those of other farmers across Pennsylvania.

Nutrition Aide, Jacie Paris discussed what she does as she visits homes throughout Lebanon county. She works with families at the poverty level. Her main emphasis is on one-on-one contacts in the home. The people that need Jackie's help are not "joiners" and will not receive the help they need if group methods are depended upon.

County Extension Director Letie Schadler presented changes in program format as planned for 1985. As more people find they have less and less time there is an increased interest in receiving information by mail rather than in meeting. Also a new technique is being trialed whereby representatives from various community groups are trained to present an educational program to their group membership. The Extension staff will provide all necessary handouts and audiovisual materials. The first program to be presented in this manner is one on the relationship between cancer

New methods of reaching Lebanon County residents are being developed to make the best possible use of county resources and to meet the needs of the county residents.

The evening's program concluded with a presentation on the day to day management of stress by Diane Brown of the South East Region Extension Service.

New officers were elected for the Lebanon County Extension Service Executive Committee. The results of the election were: President - Lloyd Early, Vice President - Harold Bollinger, Secretary - Alvena Kneasel, and Treasurer - Alfred Brandt.

Morris criticizes dairy deregulation

HARRISBURG—The chairman of the House Agriculture Committee has warned that Reagan Administration plans to deregulate milk production would have a drastic effect on the Pennsylvania dairy industry.

Chairman Samuel W. Morris, D-Chester County, who recently attended a national conference in Washington, D.C., on current problems in the agriculture industry, said Pennsylvania farmers are in relatively healthy financial condition compared to the Midwest. However, the Reagan Administration's plans to further reduce prices paid to dairy farmers who couldn't, for economic reasons, participate in the federal milk diversion program will force many Pennsylvania dairy farmers out of business.

"Pennsylvania dairy farmers would be doubly hurt, since none of our milk is surplus at present," the lawmaker said. He noted that Pennsylvania milk production is divided equally between fluid consumption and manufacture of milk products.

Dairy farmers in many other states produce more milk than is commercially needed, and the product is bought by the government for processing and distribution to needy families. The federal government rebates the difference between the milk market price and the diversion program price to these farmers.

According to Morris, the Reagan Administration plans to reduce the diversion program price paid to dairy farmers from $13.10 per one hundred pounds by 50 cents on April 1 and will reduce that price again by the same amount on November 1 of this year and April 1, 1986.

By January of 1989, the Reagan Administration plans to deregulate milk prices entirely, which Morris said could drop the price to $10 per one hundred pounds. That net price reduction of 22.8 per cent could mean early retirement, sell-out, or further indebtedness to many Pennsylvania farmers, the lawmaker said.

"Right now, our dairy farmers are barely breaking even," he said. "Step-by-step price reduction and eventual deregulation can only mean disaster for family dairy farmers in Pennsylvania. Milk production would be in the hands of a few larger farms, which would probably mean higher prices for consumers."

Morris said Pennsylvania dairy farmers produce 120 million pounds of milk annually, which makes the Commonwealth the fifth highest milk producing state in the nation.

Christmas tree growers meet

SCHUYLKILL HAVEN—Christmas tree growers and individuals interested in growing Christmas trees are invited to a program sponsored by Berks County and Schuylkill County Cooperative Extension Services.

Dr. Larry Kuhns, Penn State University Extension Horticulturist will discuss sight selection and preparation along with fertilization of Christmas trees. Dr. Paul Heller, Penn State University Extension Entomologist will update the control of Christmas tree insects. Joe Fitzpatrick, District Manager, Abbott Laboratories, will explain the use of growth regulators and Christmas trees.

The meeting will be held Wednesday, March 20, at 7:00 p.m. at the Penn State Campus (Student Activities Center Building) at Schuylkill Haven.

For additional information, contact either Herbert A. Wetzel, County Agent, Berks County (215) 378-1327; or George Perry, County Agent, Schuylkill County (717) 385-3431.

Northwestern Ayrshire breeders hold spring meeting

BY BARBARA RADER
COCHRANTON — Election of officers highlighted the annual spring meeting of the Northwestern Pennsylvania Ayrshire Breeders, held here March 2.

The new slate of officers includes: Robert Dorchester, Albion, president; Barbara Rader, Connoquenessing, vice-president; Shirley Braddock, Albion, secretary-treasurer; Debbie Lyons, Cochran, and Wilda Kline, Mars, youth chairpersons.

Presiding at the business meeting was vice-president Barbara Rader, who gave reports of the Pennsylvania youth activities and updated members on the 1986 national convention and sale, to be hosted by the Pa. Ayrshire Breeders at Grantville.

Sale dates during the year were also noted for buyers and consignors and other events were announced for the membership.

Debbie Lyons, youth coordinator reported on the junior activities of the western counties. The Ayrshire breeders plan to continue the program which awards a $50 savings bond to an outstanding boy and girl.

Action was taken on several youth programs, including the juniors' plans to attend the national convention this year in Janesville, Wis; teams for the junior dairy bowl quiz; and sponsorship of Northwestern district members who participate.

After considering the western breeders' potential participation in the 1986 convention, the members voted to allot funds that will be dispersed at the executive committee's discretion.

The summer family picnic was postponed this year because the state field day may be hosted by one of the western breeders.

Lyons and Kline were appointed to look into final arrangements for a fund-raising raffle. Final details will be sent to the members at a later date.

The next meeting is tentatively scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 19, at Robert Dorchester's Roshel Farm.

Eastern Reopens cheese plant

SYRACUSE, NY. — Eastern Milk Producers' General Manager, Michael H. Donovan has announced the re-opening of the cooperative's cheese plant in Horseheads, NY.

The plant, leased and operated by Leprino Foods, of Denver, Colorado, has been closed for five months. An increase in milk supplies and continued strong demand for mozzarella cheese are major factors cited by Donovan in the re-opening of the plant and the re-hiring of 25 employees who were laid off last fall.

The Horseheads plant is one of two plants owned by Eastern Milk Producers, which are leased and operated by Leprino Foods.

PROTECT-O-SHIELD Bearings

New Bearing Protection for AMCO Disk Harrows

Rely on AMCO's Protect-O-Shield bearings to help or partially eliminate disk harrow bearing failure.

• ELIMINATE BLOWN SEALS

Too much grease gun pressure can easily blow out the seals in the finest bearings. Protect-O-Shield prevents this, holding the seals in place

• NO MORE WRAP DAMAGE

Rice straw, wheat stubble, baling wire and mud will tear up bearings when wrapped around the harrow axle. Prevent this damage with Protect-O-Shield

Also receiving the Merit Certificate was Pennsylvania native, Dr. Lester R. Vough, of the University of Maryland's Agronomy Department. After growing up on a Somerset County dairy farm, Dr. Vough graduated from Penn State's Agronomy Department in 1966, and went on to attend the University of Minnesota and Purdue University to complete his graduate studies. Following work at Oregon State University, he joined the University of Maryland faculty in 1978 and was instrumental in the formation of the Maryland-Delaware Forage Council in 1983.

The AFGC's highest honor, the Medallion Award, went to Dr. Arland Pauli of Deere & Co., Moline, Ill. A distinguished contributor in the fields of research, agronomic service and administration, Dr. Pauli played a major role in the development of the Max-Emerge planter, North America's leading row crop planter. Dr. Pauli is recognized worldwide for his agronomic expertise.

During award ceremonies at Monday evening's Pa. Forage and Grassland Council banquet, seven past winners of the state alfalfa growing program received the Council's Outstanding Grassland Award for consistency in top quality forage production.

"These are farmers who, year-in and year-out, show us what an outstanding job can be done with forage crops," said PFGC past-president John Rodgers. This year's winners were:

- J. Allen Baker, Bedford County, winner of the alfalfa program for 1982 and '84, posting 10-ton yields for both years.

- Donald and Harold Bollinger, Lebanon County, who placed in the top three for two out of the past three years.

- Herman Espy, Huntingdon County, a 1981 winner with an over-10-ton yield.

- Donald Hoffer, Lebanon County, the 1983 Lebanon County alfalfa champion with a yield exceeding nine tons.

placed among the program's top three producers for two years.

For outstanding contributions in the field of farm management, four Farm Management Certificates were awarded. The recipients were Neil Carstensen, director of the Mercersburg Academy Farm; Alfred S. Dugan, director of research at Milton Hershey School Farm; Larry Hepner, director of the Delaware Valley College Farm; and Lynn Hoffman, superintendent of Penn State's Agronomy Research Farm.

Installed as Lifetime Members were Newton J. Bair, past Lebanon County Extension agent; Kenneth G. Beachley, president of Beachley-Hardy; John Z. Shearer, Franklin County agent; and John Baylor.

forage industry were Dieter Krieg, editor of "Farmshine" newspaper; William K. Griffith, eastern director of the Phosphate and Potash Institute; Robert H. Williams, retired editor of "Pennsylvania Farmer" magazine; and Samuel H. Smith, Dean of Penn State's College of Agriculture.

- Howard Mellott, Franklin County, the alfalfa program's first champion, when the program was established in 1976.

- Milton Hershey School Farms, Dauphin County, represented by director Richard C. Hann, who

AFGC leader foresees greener pastures

BY JACK HUBLEY

Forage crops are coming of age. That was the message conveyed by the American Forage and Grassland Council's president-elect, Walter F. Wedin, during an interview with "Lancaster Farming" at the joint PFGC-AFGC Conference held at the Hershey Convention Center earlier this week.

The Iowa State University agronomy professor took the reins from outgoing president Robert J. Buker during the closing AFGC luncheon on Wednesday.

A 25-year veteran of the AFGC, Wedin feels that forage crops have traditionally ranked among the nation's most underdeveloped agricultural resources. But a number of trends in today's agriculture economy are bringing forages to the forefront, says Wedin.

"Agriculture is going through quite a bit of change in the mid-'80's, and one of these changes is a shift in cropping patterns," notes Wedin. "For some time we had an increase in the row crop acreages that led to a shunting out of the alfalfas and perennial sod crops. What I see now is a shift back to looking at these crops."

One factor responsible for an increase in forage crop utilization is a change in ruminant livestock feeding patterns, says the agronomist.

Wedin

"For example, in my state of Iowa, the fed beef and beef cow numbers are declining, yet there is just as much pasture and forage cropping as there ever was."

Wedin feels that farmer's recognition of alfalfa as a ready source of nitrogen will continue to increase its popularity. "Following one or two years of alfalfa, that first year of corn would need no additional nitrogen supply," says Wedin, "so there would be a savings of 150 pounds of nitrogen per acre, which translates to a per-acre savings of $25 to $30."

Recognition of alfalfa's feeding value and nitrogen contribution has elevated the legume to cash crop status, which in turn, has led to an increased emphasis on market development for legumes, says the agronomist.

And with the an increasing need for soil conservation, grasses and legumes are being recognized for their ability to keep topsoil on the farm.

But the value of legumes doesn't stop with their nutritional, nitrogen-fixing and soil conservation benefits.

"As you grow a corn crop continuously, there is a resistance built up to insecticides and herbicides," Wedin points out, "and you break that cycle when you put a legume in your rotation."

Though the farming community has long been aware of many of the above virtues, Wedin feels that recent research developments have helped to thrust forage crops into the limelight.

"I'm pleased to see that research on conditioning agents is speeding the drying of hay," he points out, "and we now have grasses with higher palatability and digestibility. In the South they now have some fescue varieties that are endophyte-free, and freeing the seed from fungus leads to better gains for cattle."

But even though the benefits of forages will continue to be well documented, AFGC's new president emphasizes that the challenge to communicate this information to the public has never been greater. And AFGC is determined to meet that challenge head-on.

"During the year ahead we feel that it is important that we increase the visibility of forages and grasslands," says Wedin. "We will have an additional publication coming out during the year which will tell many people much more about forages. Also, a great deal of consideration is being given to the production of a scientific publication."

"We are also planning an educational-type thrust to inform those who formulate public policy. And more specifically, it's likely that we will be expressing our concerns about the proposed demise of the Soil Conservation Service. In the absence of the SCS, where does the small farmer get the technical assistance for such things as terracing and crop rotations?"

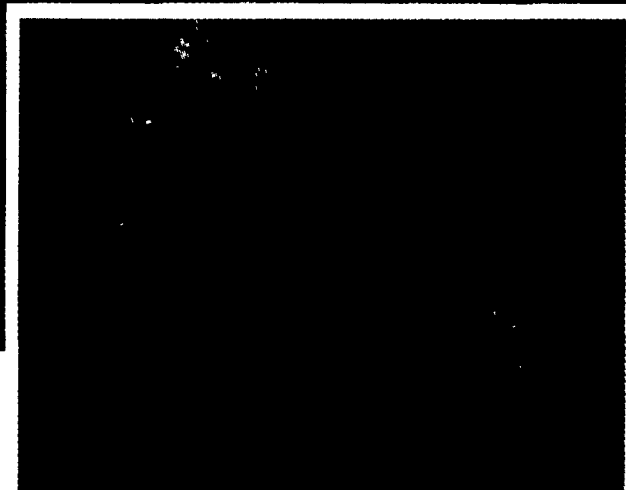

Like all of the members of the AFGC and its 21 state affiliates, president Walter Wedin is sold on the benefits of forages, and he plans to communicate that message during the upcoming year.

"If you have to bet on one crop right now, why not make it alfalfa?" Wedin concludes.

LORSBAN* insecticides:

The only way to protect your tobacco from cutworm damage.

You've got your share of problems raising burley tobacco. But cutworm damage doesn't have to be one of them when you use LORSBAN* insecticides — the only insecticides that effectively control cutworms in burley tobacco.

You'll like the way LORSBAN insecticides stop cutworm damage fast and effectively. But what you'll like even better is their application flexibility. LORSBAN* 15G and LORSBAN* 4E are formulated to fit the way you farm so there's no need for special application equipment or extra trips across your field.

For six years, LORSBAN insecticides have proven their ability to control cutworms. Fact is, you can't buy a better insecticide for prevention of cutworm damage.

This year, don't let cutworms get started in your tobacco. For unparalleled protection and application flexibility, use LORSBAN 15G Granular or LORSBAN 4E Liquid Insecticides.

Regardless of the insecticide you choose, ALWAYS READ THE LABEL BEFORE USE AND ALWAYS CAREFULLY FOLLOW ALL LABEL DIRECTIONS AND PRECAUTIONS for safe use.

Dairy farmers use DHI records in management analysis

John Kline, regional DHIA manager, looks over the shoulder of Vernon Nissley, Manheim. Nissley and the other dairy farmers attending the DHIA workshops used worksheets and actual DHI figures to make management analyses.

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Correspondent

MANHEIM — If you participate in the Dairy Herd Improvement Association testing program you have a wealth of information available to help you manage your herd more knowledgeably and more profitably. This is the message which is being given to dairymen at workshops throughout the state this winter.

According to John Kline, regional manager for the Pennsylvania DHIA, speaking at a workshop in Manheim last week, "The emphasis is to encourage dairymen to use these records in management decisions and to learn to analyze records to spot potential problems." He added that the records can be used effectively to "know which cows are making it and which cows aren't." With the current economic conditions, that information can make a big difference in a successful operation.

Using worksheets prepared for the occasion, dairymen could use their own records or sample records from DHIA to calculate exactly what the cost is of certain problems in their herd, and to really calculate profit per cow.

The somatic cell count program is one which has really grown, with 62 percent of the herds on test taking advantage of this service. According to county agent Glenn Shirk, the somatic cell is an excellent way for dairymen to locate and control subclinical mastitis, leading to maximum milk production.

Somatic cells, or leukocytes, are present with udder inflammation, and even though the milk appears normal, the actual loss in production begins in the 100,000 SCC/ml range. If the count is in the 200,000 to 300,000 range, dairymen are generally thought to be doing a good job, according to Kline.

He said it is more practical to do preventative work when the count is at lower levels, since that is cheaper than treating the whole herd at higher levels. "If used correctly, it is a preventative maintenance program," Kline said. The linear scores on the testing sheets have been changed to make the variance smaller so dairymen can monitor cows more closely. The cost is $.12 per cow per month.

Shirk pointed out that the cell count allows dairymen to really look to find if they have an equipment problem or other cause, and then decide what the corrective measures will be.

Kline encouraged dairymen to group their cows since the sheets are made to provide for four groupings. He said they can mentally split their groups into heifers, early lactation, mid-lactation or late lactation, or split them according to production. Doing this, he said, "offers more management but not more money. Printouts are made for each group."

He told the group new barn sheets will soon be available, and the supervisor will be recording both the beginning and ending time of milkings. They will also record the type and number of the meters being used for easier tracing in case of questions.

Pennsylvania has the greatest number of registered herds in the nation, according to Kline, but is well above the national average for unidentified sires. "I can't impress how important it is to have sires identified to have complete records," Kline noted.

He also said most dairymen do not use the percent change column on the testing sheets as much as they should. He noted that the first and last part of the lactation will show major changes, but that if the record is past 100 days it shouldn't be more than 10 percent. If it is more, there could be feeding or health problems, he said.

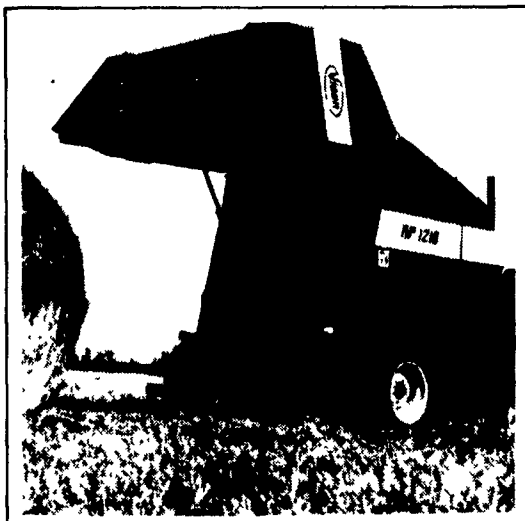

Kline cautioned that embryo transfers must be labeled correctly on the records for proper identification.

A continuing problem preventing effective use of the sheets is that body weights are not updated frequently enough, and records are thrown off. "Your records will only be as accurate as the body weights," Kline said. As a way of updating, he suggested that new cows, heifers and fresh cows be taped each month, and in that way the entire herd will be updated in the course of the year.

Kline welcomed suggestions for changing the codes on the sheets, and said there is now consideration of a code for those not bred back, for those with cancer and those with Johne's disease.

DEALER INQUIRIES INVITED

Milking school stresses cow's good health, your good humor

BY ROBIN PHILLIPS
Staff Correspondent

LEESPORT — Geared toward making professionals out of the 15 dairy people who attended, the annual milking school held in Berks County earlier this week stressed a greater knowledge of the udder, milking equipment, proper techniques, and mastitis.

The two-day program at the Berks County Ag Center included topics about the cow's mammary system, milking techniques and milking equipment. The dairy farmers also made a farm visit to study "cow-side manner," stray voltage, and milk equipment.

"I'm convinced that it's impossible to prevent mastitis without a clean, dry environment," Dr. Dennis Hoshall commented during his discussion on mastitis. In addition to the clean, dry housing for the cow, Hoshall's recommendations included properly operating milking equipment, and proper milking techniques.

"Infections enter the cow through the end of the teat," he continued. "The major loss is subclinical." Also adding, "Keep those somatic cells down there," Hoshall suggested that the dairyman attempt to identify the problem first and then treat accordingly.

He demonstrated the culturing of milk samples in order to identify the type of bacteria causing the mastitis and the proper antibiotic to treat it with. For this practice to work, the dairyman must take great care to obtain an uncontaminated sample from the infected quarter of his cow. The dairyman then refrigerates the sample and takes it to his veterinarian for culturing as soon as possible. Sterile, labeled containers should be used for the samples and can be obtained from a veterinarian.

Teat preparation, like the collection of the sample, should also be done with cleanliness in mind. The teats must be clean and dry.

The samples are then individually cultured on separate plates and organisms are allowed to "grow". Antibiotic discs are then placed on a new plate on which the "bacteria growths" have been smeared. Antibiotics that will work will have clear rings around them where the bacteria could not grow.

Results can be obtained in 24 hours depending on the rate of growth of the different bacteria. The veterinarian can then recommend a successful treatment against that particular mastitis in a dairyman's herd.

"If you're not going to do it right, don't waste your time and mine," Hoshall advised about milk culturing. He cautioned that unless proper, sanitary procedures are used, results will be disappointing.

Dr. Hoshall showed the students how a veterinarian cultures milk samples to learn which bacteria are causing the mastitis and which antibiotics to use to clear up the problem.

Hoshall also demonstrated the Delvo test for antibiotic detection in milk. He advised all dairymen to take advantage of this test and use it whenever in doubt. Every cow may have a different time needed for withdrawal of the drugs from her system, according to Hoshall. He also cautioned, "when you buy a cow, assume she has been treated with antibiotics until you prove otherwise."

Dave Dunbar, Lehigh County Extension Agent, Greg Solt, Northampton County extension agent, and Clyde Myers, Berks County Extension agent, rounded out the program with a presentation on milking techniques. Armed with stop watches to certify the procedures, the students viewed a movie of five different dairymen and their milking techniques.

"We don't want that milker hanging on that cow longer than six minutes," Solt advised. "It causes damage." He used the film of a dairyman using two units in a stanchion barn to demonstrate the time needed for milking. By timing the man in the film, students realized that it was possible to milk 30 cows an hour in a stanchion barn with two units.

Solt gave a formula for determining the length of time milkers are hanging on the cows. Take the number of units, multiplied by the number of minutes it takes to milk the herd, and divide it by the number of cows.

According to Solt, six minutes is an acceptable time. Five minutes should be a goal for every dairyman, and four minutes is ideal. The dairyman in the film was able to milk in an unhurried manner, in a stanchion barn with two units, at four minutes per cow. His washing of the udder and prep time of the cow was also in the ideal range of 60 seconds or less before attaching the unit.

Several students volunteered their cow numbers and times, discovering milking times of eight minutes or more per cow. "The limiting thing in parlors," Solt added, "is cow flow."

Myers encouraged dairymen to have someone watch their procedures sometime to catch any inefficiencies the milker might not be aware of.

Individual paper towels, strip cups, and teat dipping was strongly recommended by Dunbar as he discussed proper prepping techniques.

"I think we ought to do everything we can to make milking a pleasant experience," said Dunbar. "Be professional," he encouraged. "Do the best job that you can all the time." He criticized visitors, dirty surroundings, and tension when milking.

Myers concluded the school by giving a "final exam" to all the students. Upon completion of the two-day program, certificates will be issued and tests returned to study. Notebooks, handouts, and books on mastitis and milking equipment were provided for each student. According to Myers, each year "interest is high" for this type of school as dairymen and new dairy people enjoy brushing up on the skills of their profession.

F.O. 2 milk call invoked for March

NEW YORK — Market Administrator Thomas A. Wilson invoked the call provision under the New York-New Jersey Milk Marketing Orders at the eight percent level for March 1985. Activating this provision, Section 1002.27 (g), for the second successive month was necessary to insure that handlers regulated under the Orders will supply sufficient quantities of bulk farm milk for the Class I-A fluid market. Class I-A milk is milk sold in federal milk orders as fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test and skim milk.

Mr. Wilson stated that all Order No. 2 handlers in March will be required to have at least eight percent Class I-A utilization for designated pool plants and units. Any such plant or unit that does not meet this percentage will have its designation or pool status cancelled or suspended. The call for seven percent announced on February 6 anticipated a ten percent rate of shipment for the latter two-thirds of February.

This announcement follows a public meeting held on February 1, 1985 in Syracuse, New York, at which industry comments were heard. A determination of the desirable utilization percentage for the month of April 1985 was not announced at this time.

Crawford dairy day set

MEADVILLE — The 14th Annual Crawford County Dairy Day will be held on Tuesday, March 12. It will be at the Holiday Inn, Meadville, beginning at 9:45 a.m. and concluding by 3:45 p.m.

Dairy Day is co-sponsored by area agricultural businesses and the Penn State Cooperative Extension Service. Lunch will be provided and farmers attending will be able to view displays of new products and services available to county dairymen.

The program will feature Penn State Extension Veterinarian Dr. Lawrence Hutchinson, who will discuss "Preventive Health Practices for Milk Cows and Replacement Heifers," along with

Dr. David Kohl, Agricultural Economist from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University at Blacksburg, Va.; his topic will be "Financial Management for Today's Dairy Farmer."

Additionally, brief remarks will be given by Crawford County Dairy Princess Nancy Mitrich and Dr. Paul Wangsness, who is head of the Department of Dairy and Animal Science at The Pennsylvania State University.

Phone 336-1151, ext. 260 or send reservations to Crawford County Extension, Room 8, Courthouse, Meadville, PA 16335. This program is non-discriminatory and is open to any interested person.

Zimmerman wins Lancaster milk judging contest

MILLERSVILLE — Thirty-eight Lancaster County FFA's gathered at Penn Manor High School Wednesday for a milk judging contest.

At contest's end, Sharon Zimmerman, Ephrata, had the top score; Shea Fitzpatrick, Elizabethtown, had the second-place score; and Brent Fox, Ephrata, was third. Solanco FFA's had the top team score.

The milk judging contest involved identifying ten varieties of cheese, identifying defects on milker units, testing for off-flavor milk, grading raw milk from sediment pads and taking a mastitis test. The students also had to answer a comprehensive marketing question.

A new part of the contest involved separating real dairy products from imitation products.

The students had to correctly distinguish between butter and margarine, real whipped cream and non-dairy whipped topping, real and imitation ice cream; real cheese and imitation cheese, and other real and imitation dairy products.

The top ten students received ribbons donated by Penn Dairies, the contest sponsor. Other students in the top ten were: Scott Thomas, Lampeter Strsburg, fourth; Jim Shank, Solanco, fifth; Dean Enck, Penn Manor, sixth; Bryan Whitman, Solanco, seventh; Kurt Kline, Ephrata, eighth; Steve Sensenick, Penn Manor, ninth; and Jeff Wagner, Manheim Central, tenth.

As the winning team, Solanco received a rotating trophy. Team members were Jim Shank, Bob Haldeman, Bryan Whitman, John Riley Jr., Kelly Miller.

Pa. Guernsey breeders gather in Franklin County

BY WENDY WEHR

CHAMBERSBURG — Pennsylvania Guernsey breeders enjoyed an evening of light-hearted entertainment and warm recognition at their recent annual banquet in Chambersburg.

Part of the two-day 54th Annual Meeting of the Pa. Guernsey Breeders' Association, the banquet activities included featured speaker Dr. John McCormack, humorous "Hoard's Dairyman" writer, and presentation of production and junior breeder awards by Ruth Ann John, assistant business manager.

Lori Winsheimer, Indiana, was named the "Outstanding Guernsey Girl," during the award presentations. John cited Winsheimer for her accomplishments through the past year and her well-written application for the award.

A member of the Pa. Junior Guernsey Breeders' Association for more than five years, Winsheimer has exhibited in county and state shows and at all levels of 4-H competition. She has also served as a district director in the state Guernsey association.

Also receiving recognition from the state Guernsey members was Julie Snider, of New Enterprise. For showing the grand champion Guernsey at the 1985 Farm Show, she was presented the Sewickley Award.

This is the first time that Julie, age 13, has won the award, but the Sewickley rotating trophy was enjoyed by the Snider family in years back. Julie's father, Birch Snider, captured the shining silver trophy with grand champion wins in 1964, 1965, and 1966.

Julie is one member of the family operation known as Snider Homestead. Managing the Snider herd of some 60 Guernseys and 20 Holsteins is Berneta Snider Gable, Julie's aunt.

The George W. Snyder Award was presented this year to Jon Andrew Zollers, Mertztown. The Snyder award, which is sponsored by the Columbia-Northeastern Guernsey Breeders' Association, is given to the champion exhibitor in the Pa. Junior Dairy Show.

Receiving junior production awards were: Elaine R. Hill, Sandy Lake; Jay A. Garber, Willow Street; Gerald B. Garber, Willow Street; and Jennifer Yapple, Houtzdale.

As well as junior Guernsey members, the owners of some outstanding Guernsey herds were cited at the banquet.

Kenneth and Thelma Garber, of Willow Street, had the high herd for both milk and fat for 1984. The Willows Farm herd of 62 cows achieved peak records of 15,458 pounds milk and 755 pounds fat.

As John recognized the Garbers, she noted that several Pennsylvania herds topped 15,000 pounds milk this year.

The high cow for fat in the state came from the herd of Richard and Victoria Smith, New Hope. At four years and three months, Maple Knoll Drummer Nightling produced 23,000 pounds milk and 931 pounds fat in 305 days.

At three years and six months, Willows Telestar Hattie produced 20,073 pounds milk and 1102 pounds fat for the state fat record. She is from the Kenneth and Thelma Garber herd.

The annual banquet was rounded out with an auction of Guernsey items. Proceeds from the sale went to the PGBA promotion fund.

In addition to the banquet festivities, the Guernsey breeders held their annual business meeting and put on the 7th Blue Halter Calf Sale.

During the business meeting, the following were elected as state officers: Wilmer Campbell, Halifax, president; William Cannon, Hermitage, vice-president; and Elsie Wolff,

Lee Yost, PGBA business manager congratulated Lori Winsheimer for being named this year's "Outstanding Guernsey Girl."

Quarryville, secretary.

The Blue Halter Calf sale ended with an $825 average on 9 animals. The top-selling heifer at $1700 was Lebanon Valley Star Lana. She was bred and consigned by Robert Smith, Lebanon.

Second-high selling calf was Guernedale Telestars Ringoe, consigned by Fred Garber, Chambersburg. She sold for $1,300.

Lee Yost, the PGBA business manager noted afterward that the numbers of consignments were down this year because of difficulty in obtaining a satisfactory sale location.

The 54th Annual PGBA annual meeting was hosted by the Franklin County Guernsey Breeders' Association.

Northeastern farm groups propose Farm Bill planks

SYRACUSE, NY. — A coalition of dairy co-ops and general farm organizations from the Northeast has unanimously adopted a set of provisions they would like to see incorporated in the 1985 Farm Bill.

Clyde E. Rutherford of Otego, N.Y., chairman of the 1985 Farm Bill Committee announced that the individual members will seek support for the Committee's action in Congress and among other agricultural organizations around the nation.

"The 1985 Farm Bill will establish the ground rules for agriculture in this country that will have a long range and critical effect on food production and marketing for many years to come," said Rutherford. "The Northeast must be heard in this consensus-building process because agriculture is by far the largest single industry in the region."

The Committee report calls for:

- continuation of the price support program, but including a new economic formula or dairy parity and with support prices tied to supply-demand through the rate of CCC purchases.

- no drastic changes in the federal market order system "which has operated effectively for more than 45 years.

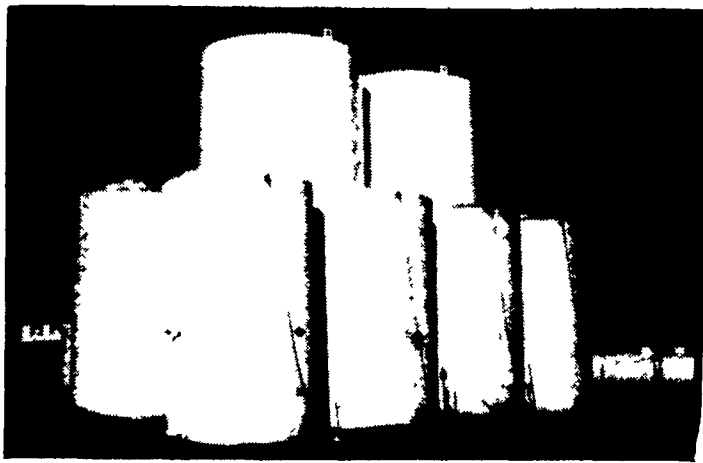

- support for milk promotion.

- establishment of a National Agricultural Policy.

Members of the Committee include: Agri-Mark, Inc.; Agway Inc.; Allied Federated Cooperatives, Inc.; Dairyland Cooperative Inc.; Eastern Milk Producers' Cooperative Association, Inc.; Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative; Lehigh Valley Farmers; New York State Farm Bureau; New York State Grange; National Farmers Organization; Northeast Dairy

Cooperative Federation, Inc.; Niagara Milk Cooperative, Inc.; Oneida-Madison Milk Producers Cooperative Association; Pennsylvania Association of Farmer Cooperatives; Pennsylvania Farmers Union; Pennsylvania State Grange; Steamburg Milk Producers Cooperative; Upstate Milk Cooperative, Inc. and Vermont Farm Bureau.

Pa. Shorthorn breeders step up junior programs

BY BARBARA RADER
Staff Correspondent

PROSPECT — Juniors were the center of attention at the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn Breeders' Association, held here on March 2.

As plans were made for the year's schedule of shows and sales, much consideration was given to the younger generation's chance to own Shorthorns. Although the junior members are all young, the group pulled together to set a solid foundation of youth programs.

The juniors' meeting was held concurrent to the seniors' session. Three 10-year-old boys will be the new junior leaders, including: Brian Snyder, Saxonburg, president; John Allen III, Saxonburg, vice-president; and Frank Bogacz, secretary-treasurer.

Saxonburg, vice-president; and Frank Bogacz, Sarver, secretary-treasurer.

Allen and his brother, Andrew, age seven, will be the two voting delegates from Pennsylvania at the National Junior Shorthorn Conference, to be held in Milwaukee, Wis., June 26-30. The boys are the sons of John Jr. and Kathy Allen. This will be their second national conference.

The juniors will be taking part in the first Northwest Keystone Junior Beef Classic, May 25-26, at the Mercer County 4-H Park, Mercer. The first day will be filled with both educational and entertaining programs. On the 26th, an all-breeds heifer and steer show will be held, with the intention of giving the 21 and younger set some stiffer competition than is usually offered at the county levels.

During the adults' session, election of officers was also held. Elected were: George Hunter, Stoneboro, president; Bud Hackett, Grove City, vice-president; John Allen Jr., secretary; Kathy Allen, treasurer; Dick McElhaney, Hookstown, director; and Jim Mezzara, Mercer, director.

Hunter asked for consignments from each breeder for the Pa. Shorthorn Spring Sale, to be held Saturday evening, May 4, at the Mercer County 4-H Park. Names of Pa. Shorthorn officers are: George Hunter, president; John Jr. and Kathy Allen, secretary-treasurer; Bud Hackett, Grove City, vice-president; and Jim Mezzara, director.

Members also took action on supporting the first Keystone Northwest Junior Beef Classic by sponsoring trophies and show classes.

Bradly Elsiminger of Woodside Farm, Waynesburg, reported on the Keystone Autumn Classic, held at the Woodside Farm last October. He announced that another sale is being planned for October this year.

Judge for the state show in July at the Big Butler Fair will be Greg McKean, Mercer. Members expressed satisfaction with last year's successful show and hope this year's will be another success.

The group thanked Joseph R. Drake, Saxonburg, for donating

W.Va. farmers launch new era in direct marketing

BY DEBBIE STILES-RENTZ
Staff Correspondent

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — The convening of a two-day Direct Marketing Conference in Monongalia county, West Virginia ushered in a new era of coordinative ag marketing for Mountain State farmers.

A new state Direct Marketing Association was organized by farm product producers, seasoned veterans of the "U-Pick", roadside and truck farming community and those considering these types of fruit and vegetable operations. The program was sponsored by West Virginia's Cooperative Extension Service, Resource Conservation and Development Association, State Department of Agriculture, and Farm Bureau.

Discussion at one point focused on problems that confront the "U-Pick" or "Pick-Your-Own" operator, and the farmers market grower, specifically:

- Should children be allowed in the picking fields?

- How can the consumer be educated to select fruit and vegetables that are ripe enough, and to properly preserve his/her harvest?

- Has a saturation point been reached in the PYO (Pick-Your-Own) strawberry market?

- Should farmers strive for diversification in marketing schemes?

Some growers solved the problem of children in PYO fields by prohibiting pickers under the age of twelve, providing in some instances babysitting services; others, stressing the promotional angle of PYO as a whole family activity said they allow any age into the field as long as careful supervision was practiced.

Dr. Richard Funt, Horticulturist from Ohio State University and Discussion Leader for the Round Table session reminded the group that "dealing with people", targeting the market you want to sell to and correspondingly laying down the rules to govern the PYO operation were management decisions that must be made in the planning phase of the enterprise.

"Many of us are producers first, and marketing becomes a secondary concern," he stated. The management of people—which included educating them about the product, if necessary—needs to be of prime concern to PYO operators, as well as those growers who come in contact with the public via their own roadside markets or the farmers markets, he said.

A comparison with Ohio PYO statistics industries revealed that the feared "saturation point" had not been reached in any areas of West Virginia, even though just over the state line in some sections of Ohio, strawberry growers were experiencing diminishing sales due to an overabundance of PYO operations in close proximity to one another.

Diversification of marketing—cultivating wholesale contracts with smaller grocery stores while devoting some acres to PYO and others to hand-harvest for sale at farmers or roadside markets—was seen as a valuable hedge against uncertain market conditions and shrunken profit margins.

Advertising and promotion were also discussed. Use of radio and newspaper ads, both classified and display all seemed to be of secondary importance; "word of mouth" and grower reputation ranked first in customer attraction.

Radio possessed merit in informing already established customers of when crops were ready to pick, nonetheless, and a newspaper display ad was the key component apparently in what was suggested to be West Virginia's best marketing idea of 1984.

Boyd Meadows, of Milton in Cabell county grew twelve acres of pumpkins and sold every one of them in an "All You Can Carry For Four Dollars" media campaign. In area papers he ran a photo of a little girl carrying two pumpkins in a field of the Connecticut Field variety.

Families in the area (which includes the two largest cities in West Virginia, Huntington and Charleston) came in hordes to buy their Halloween pumpkins for what seemed to be a very discounted price, which in fact, averaged above the going market price for pumpkins. But it was fun to see how much it was possible to carry! And this, of course, was what Meadows counted on to make his sale a success.

Meadows, the former so-called "Strawberry King" of West Virginia because of his outstanding berry production, was elected Vice President of the newly formed West Virginia Direct Marketing Association.

Conference coordinators N. Carl Hardin and Dr. Delmar Yoder, WVU Cooperative Extension Specialists, conducted the meeting of growers and direct marketers that followed the conference's opening "Round Table" session at which officers were elected.

Edward Groce, a vegetable grower from Terra Alta in Preston county and former president of the West Virginia Potato Growers Association was elected the new president. Bob McConnell and Mary Jane Kerns, both producers from Monongalia county were elected treasurer and secretary, respectively.

West Virginia Commissioner of Agriculture Gus R. Douglass attended the February 25, 26 conference, and spoke at a luncheon address forum in overwhelming support of direct marketing. During the Round Table discussion Douglass also commented on questions which arose concerning the re-establishment of canneries in the state.

"You've got to have a problem before you can fix it," he illustrated by citing the now statewide distribution of farmers markets as a need, a 'problem' that was made evident and which was then 'fixed' through state efforts.

Manufacturers need to operate year-round, he related, which indicated the difficulty in attracting them to the state at this time, due to the lack of volume in the production area.

Direct marketing, on the other hand, promised an immediate increase in farmer profits, since currently the state produces only 40-45% of the agricultural products being consumed by West Virginians. The market for direct retailing of produce to the consumer is consequently wide open for expansion.

Here's how dairymen in this area are selling themselves on Murphy Bru-Mash

A little arithmetic shows Bru-Mash benefits

Your Murphy representative has a simple worksheet form he'd like to go over with you and help you fill out — using your feeds, your costs and ingredient prices in your area. Complete the arithmetic on the form and we think you'll see why Murphy Bru-Mash has become so popular so quickly.

The secret of Bru-Mash is really not much of a mystery. Bru-Mash combines the advantages of highest quality by-pass protein with excellent palatability and digestibility. Result: Your top cows eat better and convert more of what they eat into milk. They stay on feed longer and they make maximum use of your homegrown dairy feeds.

Give us a call and let us "push the pencil" with you soon.

House sends loan package to Senate

WASHINGTON — The U.S. House of Representatives has voted 318-103 to approve emergency farm credit aid legislation that provides advance payments this spring on commodity loans normally issued at harvest.

The legislation also provides incentives for banks to write down interest rates to levels just above banks' cost of obtaining money.

"I'm glad the House of Representatives moved quickly on this legislation," said U.S. Rep. Berkley Bedell, D-Iowa, who is a cosponsor of the legislation. "In recent months, I've spoken and written to hundreds of farmers and small-business people who fear and end of their livelihoods and are filled with anguish and despair.

Many of these people are among the leading citizens of their communities with a proud record of civic achievement and professional awards.

"The emergency credit legislation was fashioned with the recognition that not all farmers need assistance, nor that all farmers can be saved," Bedell continued. "But it does offer a chance for a number of good, hard-working farmers — and the families, small businesses, and communities which they support — to keep their operations together and await better prices and lower interest rates."

The legislation's major provisions include:

— Advance payments to farmers

this spring on crops they will harvest this fall. The payments will be half of the Commodity Credit Corp. (CCC) loans farmers would normally receive in the fall.

— If lenders write down interest rates to the lesser of 2 percent below their lowest rates or 1.25 percent above their cost of money, they would qualify for a 90 percent government guarantee.

— A reduction in cash-flow requirements. Farmers will need to show they could break even; the Administration earlier had required farmers to show a 10 percent profit to qualify for loan guarantees.

— An emergency transfer of personnel to FmHA from other agencies in the USDA to help process applications.

"The steps called for in this bill largely are actions that the Department of Agriculture could have taken administratively had it chosen to do so," Bedell said.

"Time and time again, the Administration has denied that a crisis exists and assured us that USDA programs were addressing any problems. However, as we all know from talking to farmers and bankers, that just ain't so.

"Extending a federal lifeline to an ailing segment of our economy certainly is not unprecedented," Bedell continued. "And neither are the success stories resulting from such aid. Federal efforts — often with rural support — to give New York City, Chrysler, and others a chance are but a few examples.

"We approved aid for New York and Chrysler because we recognized the cost to our entire economy if they failed. Similarly, we must realize the consequences for our economic and social structure in America if many thousands of our farmers and rural businesses are forced to shut down."

BICEP + PRINCEP

To get unbeatable broadleaf and grass control in no-till corn, all you need is a program with Bicep® + Princep.®

Here's why: Bicep gives you season-long broad-spectrum control in conventional and conservation tillage.

But, for no-till corn, combine Bicep with Princep and you'll get long-lasting, residual properties that take care of broadleaves and grasses right up to a clean harvest. Even late germinators like crabgrass and fall panicum.

It's the dependable, economical combination that's going to become your standard for no-till.

So get no-sweat, season-long broadleaf and grass control. Get Bicep + Princep. CIBA-GEIGY grooming totes to the youth attending the event. Joan and Jean Peoples sent a note of gratitude to the group. The club sponsored the Peoples at several national youth conferences and they were the first Pennsylvania juniors ever to show heifers at the National Heifer Show at Louisville, last November.

The Allen's presented a program on the Shorthorn World Conference at Louisville. As he showed slides of the conference and the Waukaru Dream Maker Sale, John Allen stressed that the breed has a good solid foundation.

"Shorthorns are really on the move nationally. Registrations are up and the field is open to milkers or beefers, short or tall ones, white, red or roans, giving the breed a wide variance," stated Allen. He gave several examples of how the local breeder could compare his livestock to national and world-wide standards.

Allen also stressed to the juniors that money doesn't mean everything. He saw a $300 heifer purchased at a sale placed higher than a $15,000 animal.

"Women too are playing an important part in the Shorthorn industry," stated Allen, as he reminded the group of the recent AP news story about Denise Whiting and her role on the farm.

He concluded by stressing that marketing is very important and that although retailing is difficult, it plays an important and beneficial part in the breed.

Hay mechanization and drying tour

HARRISBURG — Hay harvest mechanization, hay drying and marketing are the featured topics of the Dauphin County Extension Service's Hay Producers and Marketers Tour on March 21. The tour will be leaving from the Grantville Holiday Inn parking lot at 9:00 a.m. and returning at 3:30 p.m.

The tour will visit Heidel Hollow Farms in Lehigh County and John Knabb's operation near Kutztown. These farms feature the best in mechanization systems: automatic bale wagons, hydraulic forks, palletized handling, etc. Tour participants will also see the hay drying system and re-compression of bales for export at Heidel Hollow Farms.

Accompanying the tour as resource persons will be Penn State Extension Agricultural Engineers Jim Garthe and Jon Carson, and Larry Yager, Regional Extension Marketing Agent. Also on hand will be hay buyers and contractors.

A $10 fee will be charged for the bus trip and lunch. To register, contact the Dauphin County Extension Service at (717) 652-8460. The registration deadline is March 15.

Pa. egg production up

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania's January egg production totaled 406 million, 28 percent above January 1984 production, according to the Pennsylvania Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. The average number of layers on hand during January 1985 was 18.0 million compared with 14.4 million on hand a year ago. Egg production per 100 layers was 2,254 compared with 2,209 for January 1984.

U.S. laying flocks produced 5.95 billion eggs during January, up five percent from the 5.68 billion produced a year ago. The total number of layers during January averaged 284 million, three percent above the 277 million a year ago.

should be continued for several hours after pumping has stopped.

If one person does go down and can't get out, others should call for help but should not enter, Murphy emphasized. Only a person equipped with a self-contained breathing apparatus should make a rescue attempt. Until the proper equipment is available, as much ventilation as possible should be provided.

Uncovered storage pits at ground level should be fenced off to prevent animals and people from walking on the crust, Murphy warned. While the crust may appear solid, it isn't safe to stand on, he cautioned.

The Pennsylvania Agricultural Safety Council has constructed a warning sign to be posted near open manure pits. The sign is a useful warning to firemen and other emergency personnel and to farm visitors. Fences around the ponds are also a good idea, Murphy said.

Armed with knowledge of potential farm hazards, the proper equipment and a little common sense, farmers can help make their occupation a safer one.

York couple finds success in lamb retailing

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

LOGANVILLE — No one ever claimed it was easy to be first.

But for Jerry and Judy Dietz, pioneering a new ag commodity marketing venture has been both rewarding and even more successful than they'd guessed at the beginning.

The Dietz's are fresh lamb retailers, operating a one-of-a-kind meat sales stand at York's downtown Central Market. Venturing two years ago into a virtually unknown sales arena, on the proverbial shoestring, the couple has doubled their sales since just last year. A minimum of five to seven fresh-processed lambs are retailed weekly, with that volume generally tripled near the Christmas and Easter holidays.

Dietz, an earth and space science teacher for 25 years at York Suburban High School, grew up on an eastern York County dairy farm. He holds a masters degree and has done graduate work at several top universities. Judy's family maintained a five-acre general farm outside Dallastown; and she worked at a variety of jobs along with raising the couple's three children, Wendy, Mary Lynn and Heidi.

Settled in the small York County town of Jacobus, with a lovely home in a modern housing development, their children happy in school, the Dietz's nevertheless were restless. Neither had ever quite gotten that "farm blood" out of their system.

Periodically, they'd drive around on Sunday afternoons and look at farms — and dream. Thoughts of a $3,000-for-1,000 ranch Jerry had once passed up in Montana, a bargain buy he'd seen on a geology studies trip, occasionally haunted the couple. They even went as far as to put in a bid on a farm in the southern end of Judy and Jerry Dietz chat with one of their regular customers as he makes his selections of fresh lamb cuts.

With lambing season now underway, Judy and Jerry stop by the barn frequently to keep tabs on the mothers-to-be.

Under colorful lamb promotion pictures Jerry wraps a customer's purchases.

Exhibiting in 4-H and open sheep classes at area shows has earned Heidi a flock of trophies, including the Shepherdess award she won at age 12.

the county, but the real estate deal had not worked out.

So when they spotted the farm-for-sale sign, along the main street of Loganville, the next town just south of their home, it didn't take the Dietz's long to make inquiries. But the 40-plus acreage was more than they could handle financially, since, although a barn went with the property, they'd have to add a new house.

Fellow York Suburban teacher and friend Greg Lau and his wife, Martha, about the same time were looking for a larger place, where they could expand their small flock of sheep. After spending an afternoon walking the sloping hillside terrain of the Loganville farm, the couples determined they could split the land cost, and still build new homes. Since the half of the land with the barn would immediately fit the Lau's needs, they opted for that section, while the Dietz's preferred the opposite half, which slopes to a woods below.

In 1977, Jerry and Judy build their brick rancher, handling much of their own construction. The youngsters interested in joining 4-H livestock activities, and sheep seemed a perfect way to use the sloping pasture, so Jerry added a 48-foot pole barn. Ten acres of the land was sown to alfalfa hay, the rest left in woodlot and wildlife preserve.

Hampshires, a meaty breed of sheep with a quality fleece, was the Dietz's choice for their flock. Seed stock for the flock came from the Eberesole family, of York, mixed with the bloodlines of Lancaster's Brubakers and the Blu-Acre flock of Henry Showalter.

We like the looks of Hampshires," they say, pointing out that the Hamp "look" is traditional look of a sheep as depicted in popular country-look items. Their wool caps, angular, clean-cut faces, and black-stockinged legs lend a special femininity to the gentle Hamp ewes.

For the next several years, they tossed around thoughts on how they might capitalize on their own sheep business, while at the same time promoting the general sheep and wool industry. It was Judy, related to some of the long-time market families of the county, who one day mused that perhaps they should retail lamb at one of the markets. Since she had been weighing jobs that she might handle from their home, the market idea just fit. Having already sold lambs privately for custom freezer use, they knew there was a market for lamb in the area.

After pursuing the proper channels of opening a stand, and meeting licensing requirements, arrangements were made with nearby Godfrey Brothers country butchering market to process the lambs.

"They've been most supportive," Jerry credits the Godfrey firm. "They've helped us with equipment, given us all kinds of business information and handle the slaughter of the lambs under federal inspection."

Jerry, who learned meat-cutting

*Availability of John Deere financing subject to approval of credit. These offers may be withdrawn at any time.

Now every riding mower, lawn tractor and lawn and garden tractor John Deere makes can be equipped to manicure your lawn as you mow.

Time was if you wanted a John Deere that could mow and collect clippings simultaneously, you had to stick with a riding mower or an 8- to 16-hp lawn tractor. But now you can buy even our most powerful lawn and garden tractor and not have to worry about the rake work. Because John Deere offers collection systems to fit 200, 300 and 400 Series tractors. For 200 Series there's a 6½-bushel twin-hamper rear bagger. For 300 and 400 Series tractors there's the Tilt Dump and the Hydraulic Dump. Both have 13-bushel hopper and 5-speed PTO-driven fan. The Hydraulic Dump has a 5½-ft. lift height for easy dumping into a truck or wagon. See us soon for a demonstration.

as a teenager, does the carcass cutting. Armed with refresher books on lamb preparation, he tackled the job the night before the first market, not quite sure how it was all going to turn out.

"I went to bed at about 2 a.m., "Judy remembers," and he was still cutting up lamb.

But experience soon smoothes over the rough spots, and today Jerry turns out a professional layout of fresh, pink cuts of lamb, displayed to their best in a gleaming, lighted case in the Central Market of Philadelphia Beaver Streets. The stand is open from 7:30 a.m. through 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday, with Saturday hours from 6:30 a.m. through 3 p.m.

For the uninitiated in the art of lamb cookery, the Dietz's are always eager to share information on preparing the various cuts of meats, and offer recipes and cooking tips at the stand. Among the cuts available are loin, arm, shoulder and Saratoga chops, three-quarter American leg, sirloin cubes for kabobs, steaks, rack-o-lamb, and roasts. There's even that traditional holiday favorite, crown roast of lamb, complete with decorative paper "frills" topping the circle of bones projecting from the top of the roast.

A real customer pleaser has been their smoked lamb sweet bolona, a special mix of ground lamb flavored with molasses, salt, pepper and quick cure. Sample cubes of the bolona are always ready on the counter, and shoppers who stop to study the display are urged to taste the mild, sweet speciality. Keeping up with demand has been the sole drawback of the bolona.

Jerry and Judy are especially grateful for the encouragement and support given them from the very beginning by Central's market master James Arcuri. Arcuri greeted their new retailing idea with enthusiasm, and urged them to give the venture at least a try. Other standholders - including meat retailers - have lent support and encouragement along the way as well.

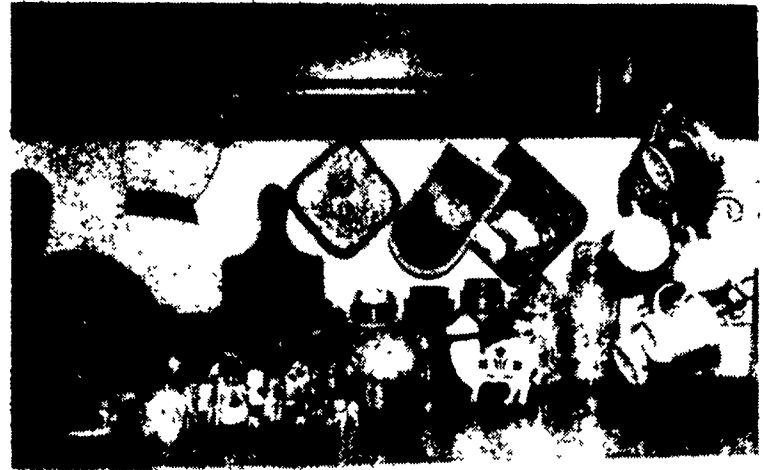

Customers of Dietz's Lamb represent many ethnic backgrounds and come, not just from downtown York, but from several nearby states. The market has always been a favorite stop on historic York bus tours, and many of the buses now have cooler facilities, allowing visitors to take fresh lamb back home.

"We pride ourselves on supplying a quality product at reasonable prices," says Dietz. "And we've discovered that our best advertisement has been satisfied customers."

The Dietz's own Hampshire flock is now established at two dozen ewes, far under the size needed to meet growing customer demands. Two local producers have become major suppliers of the quality, grain-fed lamb they demand for retailing.

"Bill and Jean Free of East Berlin supply most of the lambs, and have helped us over the rough spots," Dietz adds. "One of our newest producers is Philip Sprengle of Spring Grove."

They've also worked with about ten other lamb producers in the county and in neighboring Maryland, enabling the stand to offer top-quality lamb on a regular basis. Paying "top average" prices year round for their lamb supplies, Dietz trucks direct from suppliers to processing. Finished lambs, weighing 95 to 110 pounds, are preferred, with a maximum of two-tenths inch of backfat.

With a barn full of sheep, the Dietz's have filled their home with the woolly characters as well. Among the "sheepish" items decorating the house are mugs, potholders and ceramic mementos, many donated by friends who help add to the collection.

A sideline of the retailing is the sale of tanned sheepskins, with skins sent to a Lancaster County tanner for processing. After the "hospital tanned" process, the skins are washable, and in big demand for uses such as bedding and automobile seat covers.

With high quality wool from the Hamps the Dietz's have been able to maintain top prices on their fleece sales as well.

Through the flock, the family has gotten involved in the county's 4-H program and related sheep industry organizations. Middle daughter, Mary Lynn, reigned as the first Pennsylvania Hampshire Sheep Queen in 1983. Heidi, the youngest, was a member of the 1984 state-winning 4-H meats judging team and took part last November in national competition at Kansas City.

An ardent 4-H sheep exhibitor at area shows, Heidi won the county's Shepherdess award at the age 12, presented during the York Fair to the youngster exhibiting outstanding cooperation, herdsman'smanship and sportsman'smanship throughout the show's duration. She's also won breed awards and honors in her favorite lead line and sheep decorator classes.

Air ferns aren't really living plants

MEDIA — Air Ferns are rather colorful and popular items in many plant sales outlets. Since they are sold near plants, people try to handle them like plants and are often surprised at the results of their efforts, says Delaware County Agricultural Agent, Jeff Jabco.

Air Ferns are not ferns at all. In fact, they are not even alive when purchased. They are fern-like marine life that is gathered, dried and dyed either magenta or bright green to look like a plant. Care for the item should be about the same as care for any other inanimate object in the home.

"Most owners begin to suspect something when the 'plant' never gets any larger. The concern over the item also increases when propagation attempts fail," says Jabco. "Air Ferns do make colorful ornaments, but that's about all, except for the green coloring that may come off on hands and clothing if they are handled too much."

Lancaster County Woolies

The Lancaster County Woolies 4-H Club will hold its reorganizational meeting at 7:30 p.m. March 18 in the basement of the Lancaster Farm and Home Center.

Youth between the ages of 8 and 18 who have an interest in sheep and who like to meet in a fun and learning setting with other young people are invited to attend. Parents are welcome. The meeting offers an excellent opportunity to learn more about 4-H and the Woolies Club.

Members will elect officers and receive record books for their sheep projects. There will be an opportunity to ask questions and visit with other families.

Arps backhoes are built to handle the toughest trenching, tiling and digging jobs on the farm, yet they don't carry a construction-class price tag. You get the features you need without paying for what you don't need.

Built to work hard.

Arps backhoes mount rigid to the tractor using either the tractor's 3-point hitch or a subframe mount. Both allow the tractor's weight to transfer to the hoe for safe operation. Depending on your tractor, you choose the hydraulic system that will do the best job for you — tractor power or a smooth running PTO pump.

Built to work easily.

A clean boom design, efficient hose routing and unobstructed operator platform make your job easier. The Dog-Leg boom on the 7', 9.5' and 12.5' models allows for full depth digging—even when working over a ditch bank.

Built to work longer.

Arps backhoes are constructed with heavy duty high-strength steel. Boom and dipper sticks are made from double box-sections or high strength tubing. Cylinders are pre-tested to assure long performance.

Built to work with you.

Six models dig from 6 to 12½ feet deep and come with a wide array of buckets. Select a backhoe that is right for the jobs on your farm.

WE RECOMMEND COUNTER® FOR THE BROADEST-SPECTRUM CONTROL YOU CAN GET.

When you plant corn for a living, you can't afford to take chances with your crop. Growers around here know they can come to us for COUNTER® systemic insecticide-nematicide. COUNTER delivers the broadest-spectrum control available. COUNTER protects your crop with outstanding control of rootworms, nematodes, seed corn maggots, seed corn beetles, wireworms, symphylans, white grubs, billbugs and flea beetles. And COUNTER delivers cutworm suppression, too. All at one low rate.

Best for Conservation Tillage

If you practice conservation tillage, COUNTER fits your operation. You can apply it banded or in the seed furrow, where it can't blow away or get hung up in crop residues. COUNTER is seed safe, even applied in-furrow. And COUNTER controls on contact and systemically to protect your young crop and get it off to a fast, healthy stand.

Best for First-Year Corn

Rootworms may not be a major problem in your first-year corn, but there's a complex of other pests that attack your crop and can substantially reduce plant vigor, stands and yields. Many farmers around this part of the country are reporting much better stand counts and yields after using COUNTER insecticide on first-year corn.

So if you plant corn for a living, stop by and see us for the best crop protection you can get. Come by for all the facts. And see why we recommend COUNTER for the broadest-spectrum control you can get.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Smile, fellow farm wives, for there is good news here for us today.

It comes from writings in the "Architectural Digest," sort of a dictator to decorators, and assures us that "clutter is almost as much a part of the human condition as political confusion....invites the eye...enlivens and provokes and stimulates."

Clutter, it seems, is in. Not only in, but tolerable, acceptable, downright fashionable.

Hot dog. For once I'm on the cutting edge of a trend setter. We have been enlivened, provoked and stimulated for quite some time by the accumulation of both collectibles and general kitchen-variety household clutter.

What we need now is some standard of measurement of worthy clutter.

My cow collectibles are definitely acceptable. Cows grace the house from potholders, dish towels, ceramic creamers, milk pitchers, wooden wind-vanes and plastic moveables which walk when placed on a sloped surface. Cows, I might add, with the added benefit of not needing forked out every day, just an occasional dusting.

Books are also collectible clutter in our farmhouse. Cookbooks. Shelves of story books which the youngsters have outgrown. Gardening books. Nature books. Travel books. A mini-version of the local library. I sometimes think. Worthy clutter.

But then there's what we might call "temporary" clutter. Like the pots, pans, bowls, sticky butter papers, dust spots and milk puddles that ornament the kitchen when the kids decide to bake cookies on a rainy Saturday afternoon.

That's opposed, of course, to permanent clutter. Irreparable, indestructible, unsolvable, don't-waste-your-time type clutter. Like a teenager son's bedroom. Need I say more?

There's even "professional" clutter. Like the farmer's office, chocked full of registry files, bull stud books, health and breeding record books, sale catalogs, delivery slips, show equipment and cattle pictures.

Or my desk, an organized landfill of newspaper and magazine clippings, reference notes, ideas scribbled on the back of old junk mail, camera equipment, film cartridge covers, typing correction papers and my six favorite pens buried somewhere in the layers.

It's when one type clutter turns up somewhere else that it may get a new classification.

Like when I pick six cow sale catalogs, bull stud books and a sheaf of DHIA papers off the living room floor for three days running. Clutter has now become stimulating. And what it might stimulate is discussion about putting things where they belong.

Or when my copy papers crowd the kitchen table, or a sewing or craft project edges out the room someone needs there to do homework, they don't view clutter as fashionable, but more like provoking.

This promoting clutter could take on the aspect of a family squabble before it's settled.

Maybe the "Architectural Digest" would consider printing a referee sheet.

Or we could take the simple approach: my stuff is collectible clutter—yours is in the way.

Understand labels when buying wool

NEWARK, Del. — Planning to buy or make a wool suit for Easter? If so, be sure you understand the labels. Wool, nature's own miracle fiber, demonstrates its remarkable versatility in a wide range of fabrics of vastly different textures, patterns and finishes.

Whether woven or knitted, plain or fancy, soft or crisp, wool fabrics lend themselves readily to fine tailoring and creative design, says University of Delaware extension home economist Roxane Whittaker. But when shopping for wool garments and fabrics, she advises consumers to read labels, hang tags and product wrappings for voluntary or required information. This is what some of those labels mean:

- Wool (required labeling)—Defined as fiber from the fleece of a sheep or lamb, or hair from an Angora or Cashmere goat, camel, alpaca, llama or vicuna. Has not been reclaimed from woven or felted wool products.

- Recycled Wool (required labeling)—Wool fiber obtained by reducing a previously manufactured wool product to fibers which are then processed in the same way as new wool. This term replaces two previous terms, "reprocessed" and "reused" wool.

- Virgin Wool or New Wool—Wool that has been made into yarns and fabrics for the first time. There is no law requiring this information to appear on a label.

- Lamb's Wool—Denotes wool clipped from sheep less than eight months old. The uncut end of the fiber has a smooth, round tip and tends to have a softer feel.

When shopping for wool, read the labels attached to garments or printed bolt ends of fabric for care instructions, advises Whittaker. Most wools require dry cleaning. Washable wools will have special care instructions. Be sure to consider the cost of maintenance when making any wool purchase.

End brown bag blahs with new sandwich ideas

Brown baggers often complain that lunch — including the old stand-by sandwich — often becomes boring. But it doesn't have to. There are plenty of ways to spice up the traditional sandwich.

Easy to pack and convenient to eat, sandwiches are the perfect answer to the brown bagger's needs. With a little thought and ingenuity, sandwiches can be the best part of lunch. Try some new combinations of meat, cheese, dressings and bread. You'll be surprised by the positive reactions from your family's brown baggers.

But brown bags aren't the only place where sandwiches fit the bill. They make good snacks and are a fun way to enjoy a weekend lunch with the family. Anxious to try some new sandwiches but fresh out of ideas? Clip the recipes below for your idea file, stock up on lunchmeats, cheeses and all the fixings and create a tasty lunch.

DIP 'N DUNK STEAK SANDWICHES

Pan-fry desired number frozen 2-ounce beef cubed steaks over medium-high heat, turning to brown both sides. (If using 4-ounce beef cubed steaks, melt 1 tablespoon shortening in skillet before cooking steaks.) Season with salt and pepper. Remove steaks; keep warm.

To make gravy, drain fat from skillet. For each serving, pour about ½ cup water into skillet. Heat to boiling, scraping brown particles from bottom of skillet. For each cup of water, stir in ½ teaspoon seasoned salt or 1 teaspoon instant beef bouillon.

Set oven control at broil and/or 550°F. Place desired number of buttered ½-inch slices French bread or hamburger bun halves on ungreased baking sheet. Sprinkle bread with garlic salt. Place sheet on broiler rack about 4 inches from heat; toast until golden brown.

Place steaks between toasted bread slices; cut in half. Serve gravy in individual small bowls. Each person can "dunk" his sandwich or pour gravy over it.

PARTY SANDWICH LOAF

Trim crust from 1 loaf unsliced sandwich bread; cut lengthwise into 4 slices. Spread 3 slices with softened butter. Place 1 slice on serving plate; spread with Salmon Filling (below).

Top with second slice; spread with Chicken-Olive Spread (below). Top with third slice; spread with Golden Cheese Spread (below). Top with unbuttered bread slice.

Mix two 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened, and ½ cup light cream; tint with few drops yellow food color. Frost loaf; chill until set, about 30 minutes. Wrap loaf with damp cloth; chill at least 2½ hours. Makes 12 to 14 servings.

Salmon Filling

Mix 1 7/8-ounce can salmon, drained and flaked, ½ cup chopped celery, 1½ teaspoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1/8 teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup mayonnaise, and 1 hard-cooked egg, chopped.

Chicken-Olive Spread

Mix 1½ cups finely chopped chicken, ¼ cup finely chopped celery, 2 tablespoons chopped green olives, ¼ teaspoon salt and ½ cup plus 2 tablespoons mayonnaise.

Golden Cheese Spread

Mix 2 cups shredded Cheddar cheese (about 8 ounces), 1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened, ¼ cup mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce and 1/8 teaspoon each onion salt, garlic salt and celery salt.

SLOPPY FRANKS

3 pounds frankfurters, cut into ¼-inch slices
3 cups diced celery
1½ cups salted peanuts
1 cup diced green pepper
6 hard-cooked eggs, diced
¼ cup plus 2 tablespoons minced onion
1 tablespoon salt
2 cups mayonnaise
48 slices process sharp Cheddar cheese
48 frankfurter buns, split and buttered

Set oven control at broil and/or 550°F. Mix all ingredients except cheese and buns. Cut cheese slices into halves; place one on each bun half. Broil halves 4 to 5 inches from heat for 2 to 3 minutes or until cheese is melted and buns are toasted. Spread frankfurter mixture on bottom halves of buns; top with remaining halves. Makes 48 servings.

Brighten a brown bagger's day with these tasty ham sandwiches. Loaded with boiled ham and Swiss cheese, these old favorites get a new twist from cream cheese flavored with orange peel.

MAKE YOUR OWN SUB SANDWICH

4 loaves French bread, each about 6 inches long
Soft butter or margarine
2 to 3 tablespoons Thousand Island salad dressing or mayonnaise
Lettuce leaves
2 cans (3½ ounces each) smoked salmon, drained
4 slices caraway cheese
4 slices boiled ham
4 slices Provolone cheese
8 slices tomato
Thin onion slices
Dill pickle slices
2 cans (3½ ounces each) sardines, drained, if desired
Endive leaves

Cut loaves horizontally in half. Spread cut sides with butter and salad dressing. Layer lettuce, salmon, caraway cheese, ham, Provolone cheese, tomato, onion and pickle slices and sardines on bottom halves of loaves.

Place endive on sardines and top with remaining halves of loaves. Secure with wooden picks.

HAM IN A BUN

1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened
2 teaspoons brown sugar
¼ teaspoon grated orange peel
2 teaspoons orange juice
6 hard rye or French rolls
1 pound sliced boiled ham
1 8-ounce package sliced Swiss cheese

Blend cream cheese, sugar, orange peel and juice. Cut rolls horizontally in half; spread cut sides with cream cheese mixture. Layer ham and cheese slices on cream cheese mixture. Top with remaining halves of rolls. Wrap each sandwich in plastic wrap or bags. Makes 6 sandwiches.

SOUTHERN BURGERS

8 pounds ground beef
5 cups chopped onion
8 10½-ounce cans condensed chicken gumbo soup
1½ cups catsup
1 to 1½ cups prepared mustard
48 hamburger rolls, split and toasted

Cook and stir ground beef and onion until meat is brown. Drain off fat. Stir in soup, catsup and mustard. Simmer uncovered 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve in buns. Serves 48.

Featured Recipe

This week's featured recipes come from Jerry and Judy Dietz, a York County couple who retail fresh lamb. The Dietz family, naturally, eats lamb in a variety of ways, but Judy insists the simplest recipes are her favorites.

She originally used a good bit of rosemary in her lamb recipes, but one day ran out of the herb and won raves from her family, who decided they like their meat without distinctive flavoring.

For veterans and novices at lamb cookery, Judy agreed to share a few of her family's favorites. For more about Judy and her family, see the story featuring them on page B2.

Judy's Lamb Barbeque

2 cups leftover lamb, cut into pieces
2 tablespoons catsup
1 tablespoon mustard
1 tablespoon vinegar
3 tablespoons sugar
1 onion, chopped
½ cup sweet pickle relish

Mix all ingredients and simmer until flavor is well blended, 30 to 45 minutes.

Delicious Lamb Stew

1½ pound lamb cubes from sirloin or shoulder
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1 tablespoon sugar
Salt and pepper to taste
3 onions, cut into quarters
6 potatoes, cut into quarters
3 carrots, cut into pieces

Dust lamb with flour and brown in hot oil. Add 4 cups hot water, Worcestershire sauce, sugar, salt and pepper and onions. Simmer 20 minutes. Add carrots and potatoes. Cook until vegetables are soft. An additional tablespoon of flour may be added to stew if a thicker broth is desired.

QUESTION - Wanda Houser, Lebanon, would like a recipe for Health Salad. It consists of grated cabbage with different vegetables in. It's like cole slaw with raisins, tomatoes and carrots.

QUESTION - Monema Rainers, Gillett, would like a recipe for turkey italian sausage.

QUESTION - Mrs. Norman Brown, Clementon, N.J., would like a crumb bun recipe.

Baked Blue Fish - New England Style

- 3 to 4 pound dressed, whole bluefish
- Salt and pepper
- 2 cups bread crumbs
- 1 medium onion, minced
- 1 teaspoon minced fresh herbs or poultry seasoning
- ¼ cup melted butter
- Milk
- 3 thin slices salt pork
- Flour

Leave fish whole. Season inside and out. Mix crumbs, onion, herbs and butter, adding a little milk if stuffing seems too dry. Stuff fish, secure with skewers or toothpicks. Slit skin of fish several times to prevent bursting. Lay 2 slices pork in heated baking pan, place fish on top, dredge with flour, cover with third pork slice and place in hot oven. Bake at 400°F. 8 to 10 minutes per pound. Baste as soon as fat runs and continue to baste for 8 to 10 minutes until done, which will be in about ¾ hour.

ANSWER - Emma Sue Martin, New Holland, requested a recipe for custard filling for doughnuts. Thanks go to Erla and Alma Horst, Penn Yan, N.Y., for sharing their recipe and to all the other readers who shared custard recipes.

Custard Filling

- 2 cups milk
- ⅔ cup sugar
- 3 eggs, separated
- 5 tablespoons flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Scald 1½ cups milk in top of double boiler. Combine sugar, flour and salt.

Add remaining milk to dry ingredients to make a smooth paste. Add paste to scalded milk and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Slowly add beaten egg yolks and cook 2 more minutes. Remove from heat and add vanilla. Cool. When cooled, add stiffly beaten egg whites and blend into mixture.

ANSWER - Mrs. Rose Martin, Ephrata, requested a recipe for peach tapioca using canned peaches. Thanks go to Nancy Kramer, Newmanstown, for sharing her tapioca recipe and to all the other ladies who shared their recipes.

Peach Tapioca

- 1 egg slightly beaten
- 1/8 teaspoon salt
- 1/3 cup sugar
- 2¾ cups milk
- 3 tablespoons tapioca
- ¾ teaspoon vanilla
- 1 cup canned sliced peaches

Mix egg, sugar, tapioca, salt and milk in saucepan. Let stand 5 minutes. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly until mixture comes to full boil and is slightly thickened (about 8 minutes). Remove from heat and add vanilla. Cool, then fold in well-drained peaches.

ANSWER - Mrs. Rose Martin, Ephrata, also requested a recipe for whole wheat pancakes. Thanks go to Margaret Kaltreider, Brodbeck, for sharing her recipe and to all the others who shared whole wheat pancake recipes

Whole Wheat Pancakes

- 2 cups whole wheat flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups milk
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 5 tablespoons melted butter

Beat eggs, add brown sugar, milk and butter. Add remaining ingredients and stir just enough to moisten flour. Fry on griddle until golden brown.

QUESTION - Lizzie Horning, Ephrata, would like a cookie recipe for cookies like Archway brand, especially the oatmeal cookies.

VEGETABLE SANDWICH LOAF

- 1 pound loaf Vienna bread, unsliced
- 1 egg
- 1 cup real dairy sour cream
- 2 cups soft bread cubes
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1/8 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1 16-ounce can bean sprouts, rinsed and well-drained
- 1 cup shredded carrots
- 1 cup thinly sliced zucchini, cut into squares
- ½ cup chopped celery
- ⅓ cup chopped green onion with top
- ⅓ cup chopped pimiento-stuffed green olives
- 4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 4 slices Provolone cheese, each cut in half
- 2 tablespoons butter, melted

Cut a slice from top of bread; reserve for cover. Scoop bread from loaf, using fingers, leaving about 1-inch on sides and bottom. Use this for soft bread cubes. Beat egg in large mixing bowl; fold in sour cream. Stir in bread cubes and seasonings. Add bean sprouts, carrot, zucchini, celery, onion, olives and eggs. Fill loaf with ⅔ of vegetable mixture. Overlap slices of cheese, then top with remaining vegetable mixture and top with piece of bread. Brush with melted butter. Wrap in heavy duty foil, sealing edges well.

Heat in 425°F. oven for 30 minutes. Also may be grilled over medium hot coals of picnic grill until heated through — about 45 minutes, turning several times. Slice and serve as a knife and fork sandwich.

GARDEN SALMON SANDWICHES

- 1 7¼-ounce can salmon
- 1 3-ounce package cream cheese, softened

- ½ cup mayonnaise
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 4 bagels, halved
 - Choice of fresh vegetable toppings
- Drain and flake salmon. Blend cream cheese, mayonnaise and lemon juice; spread over halved bagels. Top with salmon. Garnish with choice of vegetables. Makes 4 servings.

Suggested fresh vegetable toppings: alfalfa sprouts, sliced green pepper, sliced cucumber, sliced mushrooms, diced tomato, chopped green onion and parsley.

Toasted halved English muffins or sliced rye bread can be used in place of bagels.

TROPICAL SANDWICHES

- 1½ cups cottage cheese
- ½ cup dairy sour cream
- 1 cup finely diced ham
- ⅔ cup diced celery
- 2 tablespoons snipped fresh chives
- 1 teaspoon seasoned salt
- Dash pepper
- 6 slices whole wheat bread
- Butter
- Fresh spinach leaves, washed and chilled
- 12 pineapple slices, chilled
- Toasted coconut

Beat cottage cheese until almost smooth; beat in sour cream until fluffy. Fold in ham, celery, chives, seasoned salt and pepper. Chill 1 to 2 hours to allow flavors to blend. To serve, spread one side of bread with butter. Cover buttered side of bread with spinach leaves. Arrange 2 slices of pineapple over spinach. Spoon cottage cheese mixture over pineapple. Sprinkle with toasted coconut. Serve immediately.

PITA BREAD ANTIPASTO SANDWICH

- 8 slices hot ham (Cappicola)
- 8 slices cooked salami
- 8 slices turkey breast
- Romaine lettuce
- ¼ pound Monterey Jack cheese, in a chunk

- ¼ pound Cheddar cheese, in a chunk
- ¼ pound Swiss cheese, in a chunk
- 2 large tomatoes, sliced
- 1 large cucumber, sliced for garnish if desired
- 1 package Pita bread, large sized pockets

Wash and dry lettuce leaves; take apart leaves. Cut pita bread in half. Butter inside of bread halves. Tuck one or two lettuce leaves into bread pocket. Cut cheese chunks into sticks. Wrap each slice of deli meat around a cheese stick and tuck inside the bread pocket in front of lettuce. For example: hot ham around a Swiss cheese stick and so on. Tuck a slice or two of tomato into the pocket. Top with Yogurt dressing.

Yogurt Dressing

- 1 16-ounce carton plain yogurt
 - 1 package Creamy Italian Dressing mix
 - ½ cup mayonnaise
- Blend together. Chill overnight to allow flavors to mellow. May be used as a salad dressing also.

PICKLEBURGERS

- 1½ pounds ground beef
- ½ pound ground lean pork
- 1 cup milk
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 3 cups Wheaties cereal
- 2 tablespoons chopped onion
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- ⅔ cup finely chopped dill pickle
- ¼ cup plus 2 tablespoons dill pickle liquid
- 12 hamburger buns, split and buttered

Heat oven to 350°F. Mix thoroughly all ingredients except pickle, pickle liquid and buns. Shape mixture into 12 patties; place in greased jelly roll pan, 15½x10½x1-inch. Bake uncovered 20 minutes. Mix pickle and pickle liquid; baste patties. Bake 30 minutes longer, basting occasionally. Serve in buns.

The beauty of working with cotton

Cotton sweaters, like the one pictured here, are comfortable, practical and fashionable for spring and summer. If you make the sweater in a mohair blend, the sweater may be worn in all but the warmest weeks.

Yarns available for this particular sweater are Bernat's "Cassino" of 100 percent cotton or the new "Sweety" yarn blended of lightweight acrylic, mohair and wool. Price, colors and ordering information for the sweater kit, complete with yarns, instructions and dyed-to-match buttons, follow this column.

A high ruffled collar, conveniently buttoned in back, and a light, lacy pattern stitch make the sweater beautifully feminine. The pattern stitch is easier than it might look, and demonstrated below.

To make the sweater, you'll also need to understand cable knitting. Cables separate the patterned sections above and stockinette stitches on the sweater body.

If you've never worked pattern stitches like the one shown, the terms to learn are "yo," "sl" and "psso." Abbreviations stand for "yarnover," "slip" and "pass the slipped stitch over."

The yarnover adds an extra stitch to the needle. It is accomplished by winding the yarn from the front of the work over the top of the right-hand needle.

To slip a stitch, insert the right-hand needle into the stitch from back as though you're about to purl. Then, pass the stitch from the left-hand needle to the right-hand needle without knitting it.

In pattern combinations such as the one shown below, a knit stitch always follows the slipped stitch. Therefore, to pass the slipped stitch over, insert the left-hand needle into the slipped stitch, now the second stitch on your right-hand needle. Then, lift the slipped stitch over the knit stitch and off the needle.

If you wish to try the lacy pattern stitch shown, here are directions:

Houseclean your medicine cabinet

MEDIA — Nine times out of ten opening the family medicine cabinet door will reveal weeks, months, or even years of neglect—unmarked prescriptions, medicines that have lost their effectiveness, and an array of useless and possibly dangerous odds and ends.

If this rings a warning bell, Greta C. Vairo, Extension home economist with the Penn State Extension Service, advises setting aside an hour right now to clean out the medicine cabinet. Throw out all unlabeled bottles of medicine and boxes of pills. Never use any unlabeled or labeled medicines for another illness.

Discard any medicines that show signs of deterioration or that have been in the cabinet for a long time. Many medicines can change in strength and composition over time to make them either harmful or useless. Tablet preparations are usually good until the tablets show signs of crumbling or deterioration. Solutions should be safe as long as they don't change color and stay free and clear of residue. Medicines in suspension are long-lived but tend to settle, so be sure to shake them well before using. If there is any doubt at all about the safety of any medicine, discard it. It's not worth the risk.

Be sure when throwing away any medicine, in tablet or liquid form, to put it down the drain or flush it away. Carefully rinse the bottles afterwards before discarding. Don't assume that wastebaskets are free from the curious eye and finger of littler children.

Kidnapping, slavery, routine to some ants

WASHINGTON — Slavery may have been abolished in most places, but not in the ant world. Certain species of ants live solely on slave labor, enslaving other ants for life.

A typical colony of 3,000 western slave-making ants may have more than 6,000 slaves working for it. Slave ants forage for food, regurgitate food to their hosts, groom and feed the larvae and queen ant, and defend the nest against attack from other insects. If the colony moves to a different location, the slaves carry their masters, one by one, to their new home.

"The slaves do all the work. They run the colony. It literally belongs to them," explains psychologist Howard Topoff, who has spent several summers in an Arizona mountain desert watching the western slave-making ant, Polyergus breviceps, force ants of a related species, Formica gnava, into a life of slavery.

STEAL YOUNG FROM NESTS

The slave-makers put the ants in bondage by raiding Formica nests and stealing their young, the pupae. Slavery among the ants, one of the most unusual forms of social behavior to have evolved, is carried on in fewer than 100 of the 12,000 to 14,000 species of ants on Earth.

Slave-making ants are found primarily in Europe and North America, including nearly every region of the United States. Slave raids may be happening in your own back yard.

First the scouts go out. In the slave states of the high desert, 4,800 feet up in the Chiricahua Mountains of southeastern Arizona, scout ants look for target nests under rocks and leaf litter near mesquite, cat's claw, snakeweed, prickly-pear cactus, and other shrubs. The scouts are always after the same Formica species.

The successful scout heads straight back to its own colony to recruit raiders. It arouses the ants through both tactile and chemical interactions.

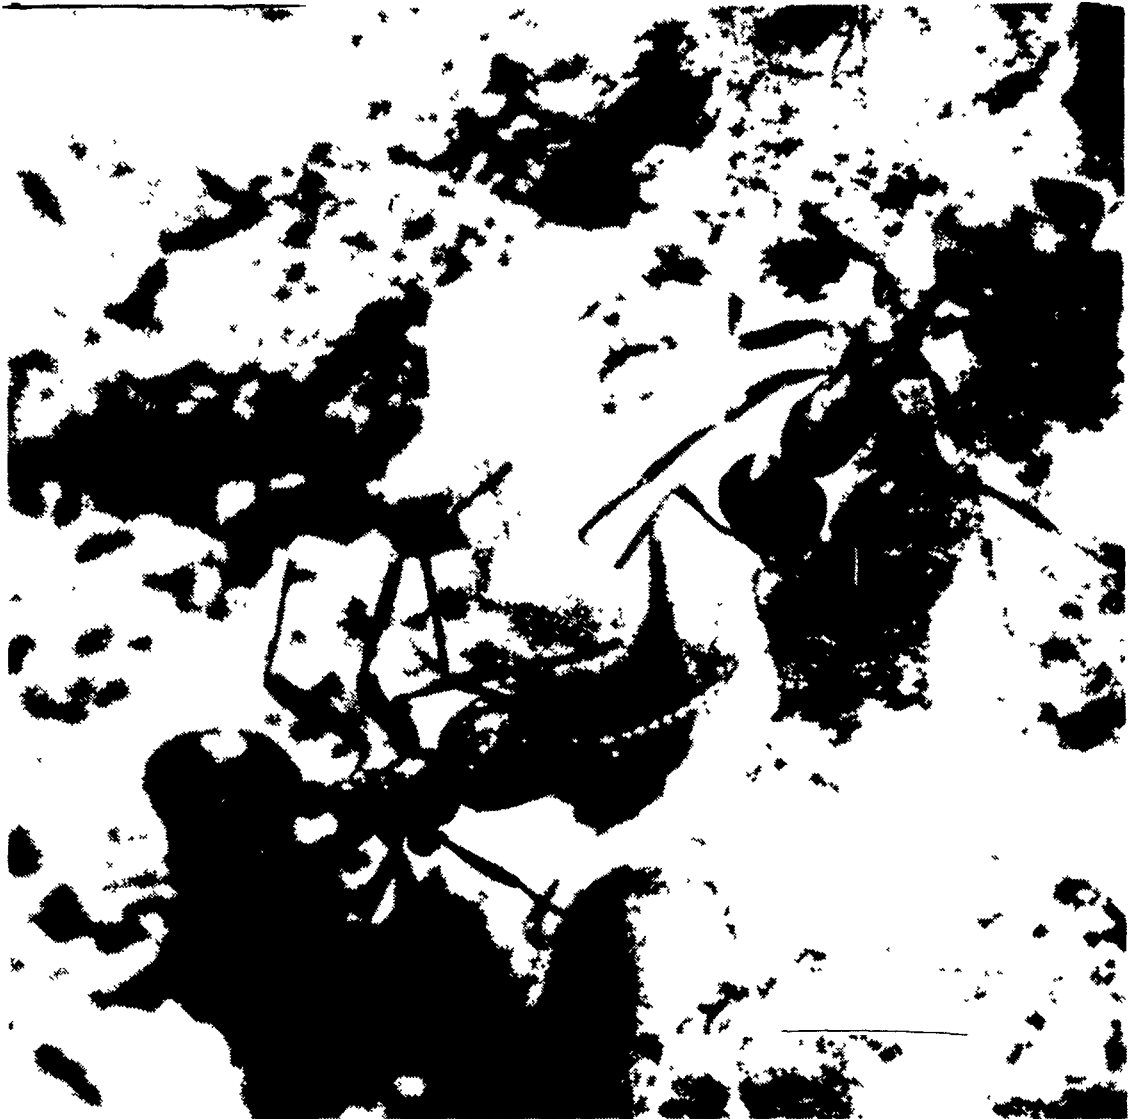

Thousands of excited red ants start swarming. All of a sudden, very abruptly, they're on the march. The advancing army may number 2,000 to 2,500, a moving column about three feet wide and up to 16 feet long.

"It looks like the approach to the George Washington Bridge in New York in rush hour — everyone trying to get into a different lane," says Topoff, a professor at Hunter College in New York City. Typically the ants are on the march for about a half-hour.

The raid itself is generally bloodless. "There's very little killing. Polyergus ants use chemical warfare instead. It's very ritualized," Topoff explains.

SPRAY CONFUSES VICTIMS
The raiding party sprays the target nest with a chemical, known as a propaganda pheromone, that agitates and confuses the Formica adult workers and queen and forces them to bolt out of their nest and scatter in every direction. The fleeing ants try to escape with their brood, but most of the young get left behind.

The raiders pile in and within Slave-making red ants carry off a pupa during a raid on the nest of the related ant species in an Arizona desert. The kidnapped ant becomes the slave for the life of the master species, Polyergus breviceps, which depends on slave labor and survival. The dominant ants, no more than a half-inch long, may take 2,000 pupae in one raid.

seconds snatch the pupae. "If it's a good haul, they come away with about 2,000. They may even go back for a second round, and get as many as 4,500," Topoff says.

The fate of the captured ants is either to be eaten (more than half are used for food) or to be raised as slaves.

In a good season, a Polyergus colony may steal 20,000 to 30,000 pupae. Slave raids are conducted throughout the spring and summer, usually during the cooler part of the day; in the high desert, the raids take place between midafternoon and sundown.

Ants

Topoff's research proved that the scout uses the sun to navigate back to the target nest with the invading army.

When Topoff placed a wax-paper conopy over a raiding party to diffuse the sunlight, the scout stopped, the worker ants scattered, and the raid was aborted.

When he used a large mirror under a tarpaulin to make the sun appear to set in the eastern sky, the raiding party suddenly turned around and changed direction. Raiders use both the sun and the chemical trail made by the scout to find their way.

Overfeeding a Polyergus colony by artificially providing an abundance of pupae significantly reduces the frequency of raids, Topoff found. The need for food as well as slave labor is apparently the stimulus for staging raids.

NO RECALL OF CAPTURE

Kidnapped pupae are not enslaved in the human sense. Once they hatch in the Polyergus nest, they are "imprinted" with the odors of the host ants and do not regard their masters as a foreign species. "It's like adopting a baby at infancy. As far as it knows, this is its home and these are its parents," Topoff explains.

Slave-making, a form of social parasitism, may have evolved from the more common predation or from territorial fighting among Polyergus ants themselves. Predators such as the army ant, which Topoff has studied for 20 years, raid solely for food and eat all the brood they capture.

In the evolution of slavery, there is a stage in which slaves are not absolutely essential; slave-makers have others doing work for them that they are still capable of doing themselves. In the extreme, which is true of the four Polyergus species, the slave-making ants have so heavily relied on thers for so long that they have lost the ability to care for themselves and are dependent on the slave ants for survival.

"It's almost as if the slave-maker has become the slave," Topoff remarks.

Vegetarians face some risks

EBENSBURG — Vegetarian diets have received much publicity, both good and bad. Some people become vegetarians because of religious beliefs or because it is more economical to eat the corn rather than the steer that eats the corn. Vegetarians are also known to have lower blood cholesterol levels and lower blood pressure as well as a lower risk of heart disease and cancer.

Vegetarians do, however, face some nutritional risks, says J. Lynne Brown, Penn State Extension nutritionist. All vegetarians should be aware of potential dangers in their diets.

Lacto-ovo-vegetarians, for example, drink milk, eat milk products and eggs, so they get the necessary amount of calcium, protein and vitamin B12. Lacto-vegetarians consume milk and milk products so they, too, can get these necessary nutrients.

Vegans, who avoid foods of animal origin, must be careful to include sources of several important nutrients in their diets, Brown says. The calcium that most people obtain from milk and milk products can be obtained from dark green leafy vegetables, soy milk and bean curd. Vegans should eat several large servings per day.

Vegans may also develop a vitamin B12 deficiency, which can result in nerve degeneration. B12 can be obtained from vitamin supplements or vitamin B12-fortified soy milk. Children on strict vegetarian diets especially need B12 supplementation.

Then there's the problem of protein quality. Animal proteins found in meat contain adequate amounts of the nine essential amino acids required for growth and good health. Plant proteins lack one or more of these essential amino acids. To obtain the required amount of each of the essential amino acids in a vegetarian diet, vegetarians must practice protein complementation.

Complementation is achieved by eating grains with legumes, such as rice and beans, legumes with seeds or grains with seeds. Grains or legumes can also be combined with milk products: macaroni and cheese or legume soups with milk, for example. A variety of food works best.

For the avid gardener

Frost Seeding

Early March may seem like the wrong time of the year to sow grass seed, but not if you know about frost seeding.

Frost seeding makes use of a natural process caused by the alternate freezing and thawing of the soil. This process is going on right now, Jeff Jabco, Delaware County Extension Service agricultural agent informs us. This honeycombing provides a way for the seed to get into the soil and to remain there until weather conditions are more favorable for germination in late March or early April.

There is no need to worry about the seed freezing and being destroyed. Grass seed can stand temperatures of 15°F. below zero and not be injured in any way. At this time of year, there is enough natural moisture in the top few inches of soil to have alternate freezing and thawing taking place.

Although frost seeding is a good way to patch or thicken up weak turf, this method is not recommended for establishing a new lawn. No frost seeding should be undertaken on lawns that have a layer of leaves or dead grass on it. If this were the case, it would be impossible for the seed to come in contact with the soil.

It is not necessary to do any raking or other preparation of a seedbed when frost seeding is done, provided the above mentioned conditions are not present. New seedlings have a better chance for success when they are early and not faced with as much competition as they are later in the season from such weeds as crabgrass and knotweed.

When frost seeding use some of the varieties of Perennial rye grass such as: PennFine, Manhattan, Citation, Omega, Blazer, Diplomat, Yorktown, with three-four pounds of seed per 1,000 square feet. The seed can also be applied directly on top of several inches of snow.

You should keep in mind that seed alone will not insure a good lawn. Lime, fertilizer, herbicides and proper management practices are also necessary to insure a healthy, green turf.

4-H leaders honored at Southwest 4-H Leaders' Symposium

BY BARBARA RADER
Staff Correspondent

BUTLER — 4-H leaders from nine counties in southwestern Pennsylvania focused their attention on special workshops designed for sharing ideas about various 4-H programs. Keynote speakers also aided the leaders in their presentations.

The Southwest 4-H Leaders' Symposium, held Feb. 22 to 23 at the Holiday Inn, Butler, was the site for this annual two-day gathering of 4-H leaders. The theme, "A Special Event for Special People," was achieved when many 4-H leaders were honored for their achievements as leaders.

Counties who nominated "Outstanding Leaders" were Allegheny, Armstrong, Butler, Cambria, Fayette and Indiana, with Beaver, Washington and Westmoreland Counties choosing to recognize all of their leaders.

Betty George, Cambria County, was honored twice at the recognition buffet luncheon, once as an Outstanding Leader and again for 20 years of service as a leader. Cambria County cited her for her active support and enthusiasm for the 4-H program at the county, regional and national levels, and for keeping the 4-H agents on their toes.

Virginia Lonchar, another Allegheny County leader, now in her 20th year as a 4-H leader, was honored for her active support in all county, regional and state events. Allegheny County recognized Lonchar for being instrumental in organizing the Phil Sellers 4-H Enrichment Fund and enabling the Richland Earthworms 4-H Club to acquire the Ted Vulkovic Memorial Trophy for their club achievement gained through her guidance.

Indiana and Armstrong Counties each selected leaders of eight years. Barbara Fincke, Indiana County, has been involved with home economics, especially foods and nutrition projects. Serving as vice-chairman of this year's leaders' symposium, she also was recognized for conducting a special microwave cooking club with teen members.

Armstrong County's Kathy Collier has devoted her leadership to the 4-H horse program. Her strong leadership motivated young horse club 4-H members to participate in the judging and horse bowl teams, leading the county to a second place in the horse bowl contest at State Achievement Days in 1984. She was also chairman of their county Horse Leaders Advisory Committee and served as a representative on the 4-H District Horse Show.

Fayette County leader Norma Powell has devoted seven years to after-school 4-H clubs, recruiting six other volunteer leaders to help with the home economics club. Powell is an elementary school teacher who was honored for her support of the entire Extension program.

The only man selected for Outstanding Leader honors is from Butler County. Denny McLaughlin is beginning his fifth year with the Curry Comb 4-H Horse Club and has become very active in the county and district 4-H horse programs. This will be the third year that he is Butler County's 4-H Horse Camp chairman. He has also served two terms as president of the Horse 4-H Advisory Board.

These six leaders were awarded plaques by Jean Fink, Beaver County 4-H leader. Other leaders attending the symposium received certificates for 15, 20, 25, 30 and 35 years of service.

Calvin Mansell, Fayette County, received a certificate for 35 years service, and David M. "Bus" Shaw, Westmoreland County, received one for 30 years.

Three leaders were recognized for 25 years service. They are Blair Good, Armstrong County; Kay Good, Armstrong County; and Marie Bryner, Greene County.

Receiving certificates for 20 years service were Violet Ray, Butler County; Buelah Heilman, Armstrong County; Naomi Reed, Armstrong County; Betty George, Cambria County; Emma Johnston, Washington County; and Phyllis Ryburn, Washington County.

Fifteen year certificates went to Phyllis Wylie, Butler County; Shirley Roe, Butler County; Norma Neely, Butler County; Helen Mills, Fayette County; Frank Softa, Fayette County; Merle Kuznik, Westmoreland County; William Kuznik, Westmoreland County; Joyce Youngkin, Cambria County; Gloria Miller, Cambria County; Shirley Cain, Washington County; and Marilyn Stackowicz, Washington County.

Situations Unlimited, a troupe of players who are counselors and actors representing Union-Snyder Community Counseling Services, provided the keynote presentation. Players Barbara Ross and Thomas Groninger, both of Lewisburg, acted out three scenes, while Dan Ceccoll set the situations to the audience. Leaders acted out stressful 4-H situations.

The recognition luncheon speaker on Saturday afternoon was Donna Lucas, personnel manager at Butler County Mushroom Farms. She spoke on "excuse-i-tise," in 4-H and everyday situations.

Symposium chairperson was Peggy Banazewski, Butler County.

Stress...a part of every farmer's life

BY DONNA McCONAUGHEY
Staff Correspondent
LEBANON — STRESS—we all face it. We must all deal with it and we usually think of it as a negative aspect of our lives.

At a time when agriculture is facing one of its most stressful eras it is important that we all look at the stress in our lives and make a conscious effort to deal with it.

Diane Brown, family living program leader for the Southeast Region Cooperative Extension Service has some suggestions and practical points for each of us to use in dealing with the stressors we face.

A "farm girl" herself, Diane has first hand experience with the pressures of a life dependent on many factors beyond your control. Diane can also relate to the stress faced by farmers who must give up their "way of life." She saw her father struggle with the decision to quit farming for health reasons after spending 35 years of his life in agriculture.

Ms. Brown suggests that everyone should evaluate themselves regularly by utilizing the Personal Trait Check List. By using this tool you can determine some of your own strengths and weaknesses.

The "go-getter," showing the highest number of checks in Section 1, is an ambitious, impatient type of person. The one with the most checks in Section 2 is a "hang-back" person who volunteers only when asked to do something. The "giver and taker" will find most of his checks in Section 3. This type of person is a good team member but also takes the leadership role at times. He can also function independently if he wants to.

Knowledge of your strengths and weaknesses will help you to identify some personal traits that may be utilized in dealing with stress.

Identifying the stressors in our lives is a good place to start. There are two types of stress — Distress, which hinders our performance, causes us to "stick our head in the ground" and ignore problems or even consider suicide, and eustress, which helps us to perform better in facing a dangerous situation when quick reactions are critical.

Everyone must have a certain amount of stress to function. Both underload and overload of stressors is nonproductive. The reaction of depression and immobility occurs in both too much and too little stress. Each person must identify his or her optimal level of stress by recalling the times when performance was best. By recognizing this level and the signs our body gives that we are over or underloaded, we can work to maintain optimal stress level as much as possible.

We also need to recognize the fact that we are often the cause of some of our own stress. Much time is spent in worrying, yet most worrying is a waste of time. Research shows that 40 percent of worrying is about what hasn't happened and probably never will, 30 percent of worry is about the past, 12 percent is about what others think, 10 percent is about health, and 8 percent is about things over which we have control. Only the last 18 percent is profitable stress.

Diane Brown suggests the "3M" way to reduce stress. The first "M" is to manage stress. We need to evaluate and develop a support network of friends and family to help us during times of stress. Also it is important to look at the symptoms of stress. These may include muscle aches, high blood pressure, rapid heart beat, grinding of teeth, stomach upset, and headaches. Too often we treat the symptoms but never look for the problem.

It is also important to monitor both the stress in your life and your reaction to it. Ms. Brown likens this to a red light that appears on the dash of your car or truck. We would not ignore that red light, yet we ignore the "red lights of our life" such as dizziness, or stomach upset. We can find many excuses for these things and never really face them.

The third "M" is to maneuver. Whenever possible arrange the stressors in your life to help keep them at an optimal level. For example, don't plan a major business change at the same time your last child is marrying and leaving home.

The Iowa State University has spent many years in researching stress on the farm. They have developed a list of attitude adjusters which may be used to help out stress in proper perspective. Become a good worrier. Use worry time to your benefit. For example, plan what could be done if the key person in your farm operation were to become seriously ill. Who would do what? How would the day to day operation be managed?

Take this suggestion one step further and do some pre-problem planning. What if you would have a very bad crop season? Two years ago many farmers in Iowa planted corn four times. It is possible.

Experiment with mind-storming. This is like brainstorming but you do not share your thoughts with anyone else. This can be used if you are in a meeting which is of little interest to you. Rather than getting upset about wasting your time, use that time constructively.

Reframing is another technique that Ms. Brown recommends. In this process you look at something that has happened, analyze it and see if you can make a positive change in your life as a result of something you learned from this situation. If you can not make a positive change then forget it.

Try writing a five minute letter. This is an excellent technique for families who work together every day. When you are mad at someone but really should not voice your feelings, sit down for five minutes and write your thoughts. Not only will you all get along better, but you will get the anger out of your system and you may even learn something about yourself in the process.

A sense of humor is also imperative. Look at the stupid things you have done and laugh at them. Do not take yourself too seriously.

One of the biggest factors in dealing with stress, and one of the most commonly ignored by farmers, is rest and relaxation. However, it is vital to managing stress. Rest and relaxation does not have to be a two-week vacation

Scientists develop extraction method for mushroom flavor

Consider the mushroom. The poor fungus has never hurt a soul. Yet it has yielded its good name to describe the clouds of a nuclear holocaust, a type of woman's hat, a lethal form of firearm ammunition, and a troublesome mite in South America.

It has a lookalike cousin, the toadstool, that poisons. Its name is used to describe someone deprived of fact and fed lies—as in, “treat him like a mushroom; keep him in the dark and feed him a lot of horse manure.”

No doubt these abuses are partially responsible for mushroom myth, innuendo, and the worst tragedy of all: mushroom waste.

That's right, gourmands. Each year, mushroom growers throw away some of those tiny treasures—approximately 25 to 30 percent of the 500 million pounds harvested—and all for want of knowledge.

This is a minor national tragedy, according to food scientists at the University of Maryland, because now the United States is facing stiff competition from other countries exporting their mushrooms here.

One way to help American growers increase their productivity and competitive edge is to find a way for the food industry to make some use of that waste, says Dr. Robert C. Wiley, of the university Agricultural Experiment Station.

Wiley and his colleagues may just have come up with such a way. At a recent meeting of the Institute of Food Technologists, he and food scientists Lucynthe H. Kerr and Ming-Jan Sheu described an extraction process that yields a natural mushroom flavor concentrate from discarded mushroom pieces.

Says Wiley: “It could have wide application (in the food processing industry) as a flavorant in soups, salad dressings, sauces, spreads, dips and pizza toppings.”

The extraction process itself is not that new. The same form of solid-to-liquid extraction process has been used for years in the United States and Europe to convert fruit pieces to juices.

What is new is the way Wiley and his colleagues adapted the process to capture the subtle aroma and delicate flavor of mushrooms. Mushrooms, after all, have chemical constituents responsible for their aroma and flavor far different from those found in fruits.

Most of the work for the scientists, according to Wiley, involved identifying those chemical constituents and making sure they were not lost in the extraction process.

Ah, you say, but the true test lies in taste, right? Just how well does a concentrated extract hold up under the scrutiny of educated noses and discerning palates?

Wiley and his colleagues conducted consumer preference tests and found that one of the extraction methods they tested—which relied on heat and water—produced a concentrate that was preferred by panel members over a commercial brand of mushroom product.

All of this does not mean you can expect to see some special form of salvation for the mushroom growers of America from the ravages of imported mushrooms.

But, according to Wiley, it does mean that the food industry can expect someday an extraction process that will produce a high-quality mushroom concentrate, without wasting a valuable portion of the mushroom crop.

Mushrooms are good food

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — To most people, mushrooms are a subtle delicacy. But the question is: Are mushrooms good for you?

The resounding answer is — Yes! albeit, a qualified yes.

According to Janet Cover, a home economics agent and nutritionist for the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service, mushrooms are a good source of vegetable protein and are low in calories.

“However,” says Cover, “they are not a particularly good source of minerals.”

Mushrooms shine, though, as a tasty complement to other forms of vegetable or animal protein. Pairing them with other protein sources — whether you are a vegetarian or a meat-eater — helps to extend the protein value and the variety of foods in your diet, adds Cover.

Because mushrooms are naturally low in calories, they can be blended with other low-calorie foods to make an ideal snack food.

Most people, however, like mushrooms sauteed in some form of fat — butter, for example — which raises their caloric and fat content, according to Cover.

What about mushrooms that have turned brown? As long as the mushroom is still firm, this is nothing more than discoloration caused by oxidation — air is getting to the mushrooms, says Cover.

A simple preventive measure is to keep mushrooms in an air-tight container. A remedy, however, is to wash discolored mushrooms with a mild acid, such as diluted lemon juice.

Mushroom lovers should keep one thing in mind, cautions Cover.

“The basic growth nutrient for commercially-produced mushrooms is horse manure,” she says.

“To be sure, it is sterilized horse manure, but still horse manure. Therefore, you should always wash mushrooms thoroughly when you get them home from the grocer's — rinse and use a soft brush if necessary to get any debris out of crevices in the soft tissue.”

or even a weekend away. It is possible to find ways of relaxing at home.

A brisk walk is one example of a simple way to relax. Although farmers usually get an adequate amount of physical exercise, they can still benefit from a walk. It is important to do some form of exercise that is simple and does not require much thinking. This is also an excellent way for a farm couple to spend a few quality minutes alone together.

Drawing mental pictures can be used to relax. Think of positive things. Take a break and take a pleasant trip in your mind. Where you would you rather be?

Uninterrupted quiet may be difficult to achieve but can be well worth the effort. Just three minutes of sitting and thinking or just sitting and not thinking can be the best part of your day.

Another way to relax is to tense up all of your muscles and shake them. Begin by shaking your fingers, then your arm, then your shoulders. Although it sounds like work, you will actually find that you are relaxed.

Active relaxation or strenuous exercise is also restful. By concentrating on the exercise you will clear your mind of the things weighing you down. In fact, after one hour of active exercise you may be thinking only about surviving what you are doing.

All of these techniques can be applied to our everyday living to maintain stress at a manageable level. There is so much in agriculture which we can not control. It is important that we control what we can. Although we may have read or heard these things before, few have made a conscious effort to apply them.

As farmers begin to prepare for the busy and stressful planting season, start the season out by taking a little time for yourself. You will reap the benefits throughout the year.

THE MICRO WAY LANI BLOOMER

"Hey Mom, I've got an idea! Let's make some cookies!" When you hear this cry at your house, you may despair at the thought of the usual floury mess that accompanies children in the kitchen. If you decide as I did one day, to speed up the process by using your microwave, you may be in for a surprise and a good laugh—but no cookies in spite of the mess. We tried baking Toll House cookies in our microwave, and ended up with big flat puddles of chips and dough instead of cookies.

And so I learned that most drop cookies, (or slice and bake cookies) don't cook well in the microwave. They have too much shortening and too little flour to bake properly in a microwave—hence the runny puddles.

A few conventional recipes for cookies that are rolled into a ball before baking, like peanut butter or snickerdoodles, can be baked in your microwave. Most bar cookies do well, too. There are also special microwave recipes for drop or slice cookies. Microwave cookies are less sweet, and crunchy, and more soft and cake-like than conventional cookie recipes.

If you want to try baking individual cookies in your microwave, cover a dinner plate or piece of cardboard cut to fit your oven with waxed paper. Put 8-10 cookies in a ring. Cook them on medium (50, 5) for 2-3 minutes, rotating the plate every minute. They won't brown. They are done when the edges just start to get firm. If you overcook them, they may burn (get hard and brown) in the center!

Pizza Cookies have become a favorite in our neighborhood this winter. These giants cook well in the microwave and are fun for "kids" of all ages to decorate. You might even find yourself hooked on the tasty wedges.

Peanut Pizza Cookies

1 stick margarine or butter
1/2 cup chunky peanut butter
1 cup packed brown sugar
1 large egg
1 1/4 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup quick oats, uncooked
1/4 cup chocolate candies, like M & M's or chocolate chips

Toppings:

1/4 cup M & M's or chips
1/4 cup chopped peanuts
1/4 cup shredded or flaked coconut

1. Put margarine and peanut butter in a large microsafe mixing bowl. Soften by heating on low (30,3, defrost) for 1 minute.

2. Beat in sugar and egg until fluffy, then beat in flour and soda. Stir in oats and 1/4 cup M & M's. Divide dough in half.

3. Spray two 10-inch glass pie plates with Pam. (Or use 9-inch round cake pans or 9-10-inch dinner plates.) With a spatula or spreading knife, spread the dough evenly in the container to make an 8-9-inch cookie. Don't get the dough too thin on the edges. (Children might need help with this step.)

4. Sprinkle top of each "pizza" with half of the topping ingredients.

5. Bake each cookie separately, on medium high (70, 7) for 5-6 minutes, rotating twice during the cooking time. If your oven doesn't have this power level, use medium (50, 5) for 7-8 minutes, or low (30, 3, defrost) for 9-10 minutes. The cookie is done when it is puffed and set in the center and on the edges. Watch them closely at the end, the exact cooking time will depend on what container you've used and how thin you've spread the dough. Be careful not to cook too long, or you will have very hard crunchy cookies!

6. Let cool for 20 minutes, then cut each "pizza" into 8 wedges. Serve warm or cold. The cookies are easier to cut when they are still slightly warm. Makes two 8-9-inch cookies.

Brownie Pizza Cookie

3/4 cup margarine or butter (1 1/2 sticks)
1 cup sugar
1 large egg
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup cocoa (unsweetened powder type)

1 1/2 cups flour
1/4 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup chopped nuts
1/4 cup small candies, such as Reeses Pieces, or peanut or butterscotch flavored chips

Toppings:

1/4 cup chopped nuts
1/4 cup Reeses Pieces or chips
1/4 cup shredded coconut
1. Soften margarine in a mixing bowl by warming on low (30,3, defrost) for 1 minute. Beat in sugar, egg and vanilla, beating until fluffy.

2. Combine cocoa, flour, soda and salt in a separate bowl. Stir into margarine mixture until smoothly blended. Stir in 1/4 cup nuts and 1/4 cup candies. Divide dough in half.

3. Shape and bake as directed above for the Peanut Pizza, the cooking times are the same.

Variations:

— Vary the toppings to suit your taste and what you have on hand. Use 1/2 to 3/4 cup total, or the baking times may change.

— For a "Healthier" pizza, use Peanut Pizza recipe and replace 1/2 cup white flour with 1/3 cup whole wheat flour, add 2 tablespoons wheat germ, and replace candies with same amount of raisins or other chopped dried fruit.

— Cut cookies into square pieces for smaller portions, or to fit better in lunch bags, pockets, etc.

Bucks Co. 4-H'ers win Farm Credit awards

DOYLESTOWN — Eight Bucks County 4-H members have received the 1984 4-H Farm Credit Awards for Outstanding Achievement. These awards are sponsored by the Southeast Farm Credit Association of Silverdale and were initiated in 1980 to recognize outstanding 4-H members and to encourage youths' interest in production agriculture.

Each application was graded in the areas of recordkeeping, leadership within 4-H, promotion of his or her specific project area, citizenship activities and project knowledge.

The following members were honored at the Bucks County Cooperative Extension Services Annual Meeting and Banquet held recently at the Delaware Valley College, Doylestown.

Kathy Moss, Perkasia, Senior Sheep and Senior Rabbit Awards; Amy Robinson, Doylestown, Junior Sheep Award; Jill Eurich, Perkasia, Senior Dairy Goat Award; Julie Samkavitz, Doylestown, Junior Dairy Goat Award; Bill Scott, Pineville, Senior Pig Award; Brent McClelland, Green Lane, Junior Pig Award; Kathy Hager, Kintnersville, Senior Dairy Award; Chuck Baddeley, Warminster, Junior Beef Award.

Steve Kiefer of the Southeast Farm Credit Association presented each 4-H'er with a trophy and each recipient will have his or her name engraved on a permanent plaque displayed at the Bucks County Extension Office.

Yetter FERTILIZER COULTER

Versatile Fertilizer Placement

The new Yetter Fertilizer Coulter lets you put fertilizer right down beneath the trash and place it accurately alongside the seed bed at the depth you prefer for maximum utilization. You'll also like the way Yetter's new coulter cuts a clean, wedge-shaped slot and doesn't disturb the soil like conventional double disc openers. Unlike many units, the Yetter coulter is fully adjustable and you can use it just as efficiently for no-till, mini-till and conventional tillage. The versatile bracket makes mounting on your planter quick and easy. Don't wait... see your Yetter dealer today or phone us direct. Yetter Manufacturing Co., Colchester, IL 62326-0358. Gro-Mor LIQUID-CAL
(Liquid Calcium)

Gro-Mor LIQUID-SUL
(Thio-Sulfate)

Liquid-Cal can be used with liquid nitrogen which will help maintain your Ph in the top layer of soil when applying liquid nitrogen. Liquid calcium has glocoheptenate which is made from corn by-products. Glocoheptenate helps in breaking down the coarse calcium in your soil.

Liquid-Sul is very important in helping to make protein in your crops. Sulphur in the East is becoming very low in the soil. Many farmers who now are using Liquid-Sul have found higher proteins in many of their crops. Every farmer should be checking his sulphur levels in his soil especially if he is feeding his crops to his cattle.

The All New SUPER BOWL E-80

Built To Last

- Reinforced Precast Concrete
- No More Rust
- No More Corrosion

A full 1" of high density styrofoam insulation coated with a reflective foil gives you the most efficient use of energy needed. A high capacity 3/4" valve gives quick recovery. This plastic valve resists corrosion and is very easily serviced without the use of tools. The adjustable thermostat and element are located beneath the bowl. This effectively reduces the possibility of "stray voltage." This method of "heating through the bowl" is especially well adapted to precast concrete. Concrete itself is a good conductor of heat and at the same time is a poor conductor of electricity. Our concrete bowl, because of its mass will retain heat for a longer period of time. This effectively reduces the frequency of use of the heating element and thermostat, and maintains a very uniform water temperature.

Solid Stake Sides

Omaha Standard's solid steel stake sides are designed for confined cargo or bulk hauling, and are ideal for landscapers, trash haulers and contractors. They fit both our Standard and Metro platforms and come in heights of 28", 40" and 52". These sides are available with the standard solid front or an optional steel bulkhead with full width mesh window.

The solid 2-section, Econo-door rear is "glove" fit to the platform and sides, and offers unobstructed access to the interior. The doors fold back flush with body sides for easy loading and unloading.

DUMP UNIT FOR PICKUP TRUCKS
SAVE TIME....LABOR....MONEY

The E-Z DUMPER is hydraulically operated and is powered by the 12 volt truck battery. The safe removable key switch is standard equipment. The dump angle of 47° assures quick and clean unloading. The removable tailgate can be opened from the top or bottom for easy flow control.

Designed for do-it-yourself installation the E-Z DUMPER comes ready to install, including hydraulic fluid. Most pickup trucks require no alterations. Just slide the E-Z DUMPER and secure with clamps using existing bolts and holes. Installation is fast and simple. Dump over 4,000 lb. of firewood, gravel, topsoil, coal, corn, mulch, etc. in seconds.

FARMERS HOME ADMINISTRATION PROPERTY FOR SALE CASH OR TERMS

Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) is offering for sale through sealed bids fourteen (14) lots (approximately 2 to 4.5 acres in size) plus one tract with improvements (approximately 24 acres) located off WV Secondary 13/10 Bath District, Morgan County, West Virginia. The improvements on the 24-acre tract include an eight room dwelling and a 30x40 two-story block and metal barn constructed in 1980.

TERMS: Cash - or - 20% down payment, 10 years on lots, 20 years on 24-acre tract, 10.75% annual interest rate.

CONDITIONS:

- (1) Bids will only be accepted on Form FmHA 465-10, "Invitation, Bid & Acceptance"
- (2) Bids must be in Room 320, Federal Building, 75 High Street, Morgantown, WV, by 1:00 p.m., on March 18, 1985, for public opening thereof
- (3) A 5% bid deposit must be submitted with all bids. Bid deposit must be in the form of a cashier's check, certified check, or money order payable to the Treasurer of the United States
- (4) Bids based on FmHA financing must submit with Form FmHA 465-10, a current financial statement and a pro forma statement
- (5) Bids based on FmHA financing will be subject to approval of bidders credit by FmHA
- (6) Bid offerings for cash will be given preference over bids requiring financing if bids are received for the same amount

The property will be sold without regard to race, color, religion, sex, age, national origin, or marital status. The Government reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

SOME THINGS ARE CHANGING BUT HOOBER'S OLD-FASHIONED SERVICE IS STILL THE SAME

Ida's Notebook

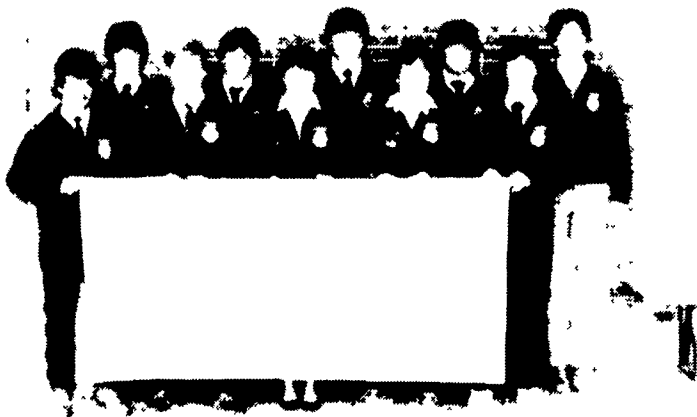

Ida Risser

On the plane I met a Japanese dentist who had just spent eight years in Ann Arbor, Michigan getting an education. Our evening meals, served buffet style, were between $10 and $20, but our breakfasts were included in the price of the tour. We had an opportunity to try new dishes like Teriyaki beef, laulau, poki, Sushi, haupia and poi. The last mentioned item is a paste made from the tara root and eaten on sushi (raw fish).

During a pouring rain, we toured Nani Mau Gardens. They had very unusual plants and some had fragrances such as vanilla, coconut and peach. Our afternoon was spent driving through the vast fields of black volcanic rock. It was a desolate area. We later walked through a large lava tube or underground passage. The evening meal with hula dancers to entertain us was a welcome respite.

My trip to Hawaii was filled with many new sights and sounds and our heads were crammed with facts. As our bus drivers took us from place to place, they spouted figures like an encyclopedia. On the island of Maui we stoped at a feed lot where 1,300 steers and 300 hogs are fattened. The feeder pigs are shipped from California and all the feed must be imported too. Our next stop was a large nursery where mums, hydrangeas and onions are raised. Philippine women did the potting for $5.50 per hour—seven days a week. We were told that land can cost up to $35,000 to $40,00 per acre here. The sugar cane fields are burned off before being harvested and the canes are then washed and sent to California to be processed. It takes one ton of water to produce one pound of sugar. The second largest banyan tree in the world was in the town of Lahaina and it covered over one acre of ground and had 21 trunks. Many of our group took a boat out into the Pacific Ocean for about six miles to see the whales spout. It was difficult to get a picture of them but we saw porpoises and tiny blue flying fish. At one point in our journey we saw a walking catfish that can stay out of the water for almost one-half an hour. We boarded a B737 for our half-hour trip to the island of Hawaii—the biggest of the chain of islands.

WET LIME SPREADER

Some farmers are saving as much as $16 per ton spreading their own lime!

- Spread it when you want it spread
- Rugged construction, built to last
- Great for fertilizer, poultry waste and similar material
- Truck mounted in 9' to 14' lengths
- Tractor drawn in 2, 5, or 8 ton models

SOWER SPREADER

With today's prices you can't afford to waste fertilizer.

- Accurate, even spreading, as much as you want right where you want it.
- Designed for all types of dry, free-flowing materials such as dry lime, rock phosphate and fertilizer.
- Truck mounted or tractor drawn

Shift on the Go!

Yanmar brings big tractor features down to size with Powershift and Live PTO in compact tractors. Powershift means clutchless on-the-go shifting to keep you going where others bog down. 2-Speed 'Live' PTO keeps implements working at full power even when tractor is stopped. Plus more standard features and Yanmar's dependable 3-cylinder diesel engine.

You Can Use a Yanmar!

"410" MANURE SPREADER

Dairymen and cattlemen alike have found the increased capacity and the maneuverability of the #410 spreader advantageous to their operations.

The #410 offers the low profile of the model #350 yet carries a larger load — 20% longer and 2" deeper 4 x 6" hardwood top rails are standard. Available with 8 bolt 20" tandem wheels or the #410 may also be truck mounted.

The box construction is heavy duty, all steel with 10 ga. bottom and 11 ga. sides welded as one unit. Heavy auger style beaters with alloy steel ripper teeth shred frozen manure for easy spreading. Hydro fluid endgate seals sloppy manure. Auger type top beaters spread that extra high load.

You can expect top performance and you'll get it from the Knight #410 manure spreader.

The model #410 may be truck mounted for those operations that need a self propelled unit (Model #350 shown).

Winter Special On SEEDER / SPREADERS

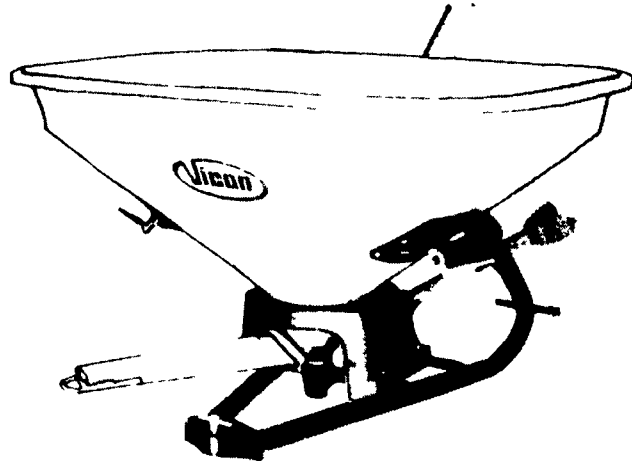

the New Dimension In seeding/spreading

Over the past two decades Vicon pendulum action seeders/spreaders have become an integral part of the farming scene. Now Vicon Vari-spreaders are entering a New Dimension - a completely new range of spreaders featuring a characteristic new design, and incorporating the latest technology to give the accuracy and reliability demanded by today's profit conscious farmer. Pendulum action gives the advantage of accuracy on sloping ground as well as on the flat, coupled with the ability to spread all types of solid fertilizer, chemicals, seeds, powders and lime.

The six models in the new range offer capacities to suit the needs of every farm size. A special feature of the New Dimension spreaders is an easily adjustable flywheel which changes the effective spreading widths from 20-45 feet.

a sound investment for profitability

IT'S ALWAYS ON THE LEVEL.

Vicon's new Automatic Stabilizing (AS) spray booms make the ups and downs of chemical application a lot easier to take. The AS linkage system lets you set for flat land or hillside spraying and maintain a level, accurate spray pattern across the width of the boom. For more information, see your Vicon dealer.

NO. 1 DAIRYING DIESEL

1968
PRICES

Since 1968
F2L-912 diesels
have earned the reputation as the most reliable diesel.
Don't settle for less.

2 Cyl. F2L-912

EASIER STARTING: Heavy flywheel provides easy starting.
No electric heater plugs.

QUIETER: Runs quieter than most water cooled diesels. Very quiet exhaust.

F2L-912 SPECS: 20 Hp @ 1500 RPM
25 Hp @ 1800 RPM
32 Hp @ 2300 RPM

It has direct injection, lube oil cooling, and oil cooled pistons. This engine has proven to survive the extreme heat of a heavy load in a small engine house better than any other engine.

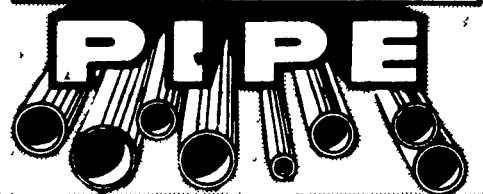

PLUS - FAMOUS DEUTZ FUEL ECONOMY

From a proud past, a great new series.

DEUTZ-FAHR
84-to 145-hp tractors

The first Deutz tractor, with a 26-hp Otto gasoline engine, was developed in 1894 by the American subsidiary of Klockner-Humboldt-Deutz at Philadelphia. By 1936, the Deutz factory in Cologne, Germany, was turning out the world's first "mass-produced" small tractor, the 11-hp "old-timer" shown here. Today, Deutz-Fahr tractors marketed in North America include the new DX series (84-145 pto hp; the DX4.70 shown here is rated at 84 pto hp) and the 07 and 07C series (43-73 pto hp).

This tough, handsome new series, with new features, supercedes the DX-90 thru DX-160 line. This is the new model line up:

DX 4.70 84 HP Turbo DX 6.30 110 HP N.A.
DX 6.50 120 HP Turbo DX 7.10 145 HP Turbo

NEW FEATURES INCLUDE:

- Increased operators comfort.
- Full transmission synchronization.
- Center Line drive to FWD axle.
- OPTITRAC automatic FWD differential lock.
- Shorter turning radius on FWD.
- 540/1000 PTO on all models.
- Optional front 3-pt. Lift & PTO

See these tractors - evaluate all the comfort and operating features they offer as standard equipment.

"They run longer, they run better, they run for less."

NEW HOLLAND DAYS PARTS DISCOUNTS

Monday, March 11th Thru Saturday, March 16th

Dear Sir:

As we look forward to a good hay crop again this year, we at A.B.C. Groff's Parts Department invite you to take time this week and look over that New Holland baler, harvester, forage blower, haybine, rake or mower. Make a list of the parts you will be needing to get them in shape for this years crop. We will be having our "NEW HOLLAND DAYS PARTS DISCOUNTS", starting Monday, March 11, 1985 thru Saturday, March 16, 1985. So get your order together and save time, money and maybe downtime aggravation by buying during our New Holland Days discounts. So for big savings, stop in or call and we will ship your parts to you.

To make your job and mine a little easier, I am listing some of the high wearing items to use as a reference. If when looking over your machines you fill this form out and either bring it in or mail it to us we can have these items ready for you.

Thanks Again,
A B C GROFF, INC.

Hesston Big Baler Roll-Back!

The Hesston Model 4800

Now

Priced At: $48,000!

Get the Big 48 for 48!

That's right! Hesston has ROLLED BACK the price on their exclusive Big Baler...from $71,000 to $48,000. You save $23,000! More than enough to buy the rest of the Hesston Big Bale System.

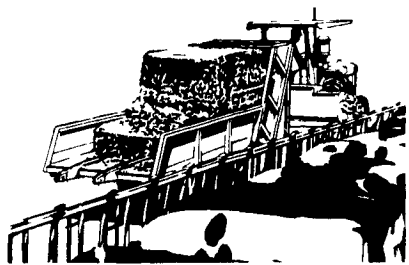

This is the baler they call the "hay factory". Featuring: center-line design, exclusive flake preforming system and building big 48"x51" x up to 8' long bales that can weigh up to a ton in the right crop and conditions.

Now get high-density Hesston Big Bales...without the high price tag!

Model 4870 Processor now just $9,900!

The 4870 feeds Hesston Big Bales two at a time...with optional kit feeds small bales, too!

American-made John Deere disk blades are formed from cross-rolled steel. This exclusive process squeezes out sulfide "stringers" that are the main cause of blade cracks and breaks in conventionally formed blades. You know how much time, money and hard work go into replacing broken blades, so why risk your hard-earned cash or precious time on any disk blades other than the John Deere brand? Stop in now. Stock up on John Deere disk blades and save.

One-half a Texas Shorthorn brings $40,000

FORT WORTH, Tex. — The 1985 version of the Cowtown Classic Sale, sponsored by the Texas Shorthorn Association, put special emphasis on offering embryo donor caliber females and flushes and embryos out of popular females. A huge crowd gathered for the event on the Fort Worth Stock Show grounds that was held in conjunction with the 1985 National Shorthorn Show and annual meeting of the American Shorthorn Association. The sale saw very active bidding on the few select lots offered.

Topping the sale at $40,000 (½ interest) — Hilltop Ayatollahs 312* was consigned by Buchholz Bros. Shorthorns, Bardwell, Tx. This powerfully, big-framed, March '83 daughter of Ayatollah*ar has been a top tanbark contender through two show seasons. She was the 1984 Reserve All-American spring heifer calf and had won the tough Indiana State Fair this past summer. She sold to Mike Green & Associates of Ceresco, Ne.

Second top seller at $35,000 — The highly heralded Sutherland Rosewood 282 was consigned by Hillcrest Farm-Sutherland Shorthorns, Prospect, Ky. This very impressive January '83, solid red daughter of Highfield Rathcannon, Mick, has also built quite an impressive show record including Reserve Senior Champion at the World Shorthorn Show. She sold bred, due in March, to the service of two-time National Champion, GM Irish Special. The partnership of Buchholz Bros. Shorthorns; Masterson Ranch, Guthrie, Tx.; and Jamma Ranch, Bardwell, Tx., were the buyers.

Selling at $10,000 — Mill Brook Nita 80 x and one confirmed embryo was consigned by Mill Brook Shorthorns, Fredericktown, Oh. This powerful, red, polled female was the Grand Champion at the 1982 National Western and is an April '80 daughter of Mill Brook Ransom G-Nine 2975. Dayspring Shorthorns, David Castle, Eldora, Ia., was the buyer.

The sale's eight females sold for $136,900, for an average of $17,113 per head. Two embryos averaged $5,275 each, and one flush sold for $4,000. Eleven lots sold for $151,450 for a sale average of $13,768.

The sale's manager was Cagwin Cattle Services, Inc., with Bruce Brooks serving as auctioneer.

Prepare mares now for breeding

NEWARK, Del. — A successful horse breeding program depends on a properly managed and conditioned mare.

Proper feeding and nutrition, a sound preventive medicine program and adequate exercise are of utmost importance in conditioning, according to University of Delaware extension equine specialist Dr. Mel Reitnour.

A preventive medicine program should include immunization against diseases, prevention and control of internal parasites, and proper care of feet, teeth and mouth. Worm mares every six to eight weeks with recommended anthelmintics (wormers) to prevent and control internal parasites such as bots, strongyles, ascarids, and pinworms.

The specialist says it is also advisable to vaccinate mares against tetanus, eastern and western encephalomyelitis, and possibly upper respiratory problems (such as rhinopneumonitis) which are associated with particular areas.

Trim and balance the mare's feet about every eight weeks. And check her teeth at least once a year for sharp edges on the outside upper and inside lower premolars and molars. These sharp edges should be filed off (floated). Also look for and treat jaw abnormalities such as monkey or parrot mouth.

Provide the mare with a well balanced grain ration containing approximately 15 percent crude protein and about 75 percent total digestible nutrients per ton plus high quality alfalfa or alfalfa-grass hay. If good quality roughage is not available, she may benefit from a vitamin and mineral supplement as well.

All mares should be turned out, lunged, ridden or driven for adequate exercise, Reitnour says. The highest conception rates occur when mares are in excellent physical condition — neither too fat nor too thin. It's fairly well established that mares in a weight gaining condition going into the breeding season will conceive more easily than those which are extremely over or underweight.

Starting the mare now on a sound management program so that she's in topnotch physical condition at breeding will help her to get in foal.

Blue & Gold Sale set for Mar. 16

ABBOTTSTOWN — The Pennsylvania Polled Hereford Association has announced the 2nd Annual Blue & Gold Sale, which will be held on Saturday, March 16, 1985 at the Ag Arena at State College, PA at 3 p.m.

The following farms have consigned females to the sale offering: Spring Bottom Farms, Fairfield, PA; Shochary Ridge Farm, New Tripoli, PA; JDH Polled Herefords, Dover, PA; LuRose Estates, Hagerstown, MD; Salunga Acres, Mount Joy, PA; High Hopes Polled Herefords, Fairfield, PA; and Spring Run Farm, Abbottstown, PA.

Judging of the cattle will begin at noon and will be done by Terry Shearer of Abbottstown.

Auctioneer is Ken Brubaker of Brubaker Livestock Marketing, West Chester, PA. Catalogs may be obtained from Craig Peterson, Chairman, P.O. Box 62, Abbottstown, PA 17301. Telephone (717) 259-0250.

Sen. Helfrick proposes rabies legislation

HARRISBURG — In a measure aimed at helping to curb the spread of rabies in Pennsylvania, State Senator Edward Helfrick (R-27) is proposing legislation which would require dog owners to have their animals vaccinated against rabies and present proof of vaccination when obtaining dog licenses.

Helfrick, Chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, said the outbreak of rabies in the state, particularly in southcentral Pennsylvania, is causing a great deal of public concern and calls for extraordinary precautions to protect people and animals. The number of cases in 1984 more than doubled the previous year's cases, according to a Department of Agriculture report.

"This is a relatively easy and inexpensive way to help protect families and their pets from a dread disease," Helfrick said. "Other states which have a rabies problem have already instituted such a requirement."

Rabies vaccinations have a protective lifespan of three years. Therefore, a veterinary certificate would be valid for annual licenses for three consecutive years. Dog owners who have obtained lifetime licenses would be required to present certification only at three year intervals.

The Department of Agriculture documented 243 rabies cases in Pennsylvania between January 1 and September 30, 1984, as opposed to 116 during the same period in 1983.

"Because of the severe consequences of rabies, it is imperative the General Assembly acts swiftly on protective measures," Helfrick concluded.

It's not hard to figure out why artificial insemination hasn't caught on in the hog industry — especially when you consider the fact that many producers don't even practice hand breeding. AI takes time and patience. To be good at it you have to be a perfectionist. And under practical conditions using AI will at best leave you with somewhat lower fertility rates. So all many folks see is that, for all the effort, there's a lot of room for failure.

But that's not the bottom line. For all your effort, you can be using proven sires. For all your effort, you can close your herd and eliminate the risk of buying a new disease with your next boar. For all your effort, AI has real potential for saving you money. That's the bottom line.

Am I suggesting that you get rid of all your boars and breed everything artificially? No. For most people that would be ridiculous. What I am suggesting is this: Find the sows in the top five percent of your herd. Then breed them AI and derive some or all of your herd boars from these litters.

It's a scheme that could eliminate the complaint I hear most about new boars — "I paid a lot of money for him and he won't work." Sure, breeding a sow artificially may cost you $40 or $50. But from each of these AI sows you'll have your pick of three or four boars.

So the cost of these new boars is much less than you'd pay from a seedstock producer. You'll be raising them under your conditions, not someone else's. And you can choose the most aggressive ones of the bunch.

What's the secret to making AI work? Realize from the start that it's not foolproof. You have to handle the semen properly or you might as well pour it on the floor. You have to do a good job of heat-checking and then inseminate at the right time. And you've got to be patient.

TIMING THE INSEMINATION

— The best time to breed or inseminate is just prior to ovulation, so you're a lot better off to breed early than late. Once the eggs are released, they'll live six to eight hours. But sperm, once in the female, will live about one day. If you can get the sperm into the oviducts just before the eggs get there, you're in business.

When will a sow ovulate? About 40 hours after she first stands for the boar. So to know what's going on, you should be checking heat twice a day. If a sow just came into heat this morning, it would be OK to wait until tomorrow for the first service and then 12 hours later for the second service.

But let's say she "almost" stood yesterday afternoon and you find her in heat this morning. Then you'd better make the first service this afternoon, with the second service tomorrow morning.

What happens if she's one of those that stays in heat for three or four days? According to Dr. Dan Hagen, who does research in swine reproduction at Penn State University, it makes little difference. "Estrogen levels in the blood will peak just before a sow comes in heat. And it's these high estrogen levels that trigger ovulation," he says. "So I would expect a sow to ovulate about 40 hours after she first shows heat — whether she stays in heat two days or four days."

This means there's little sense in continuing to service a sow after she's been inseminated twice.

What about the gilt that stays in heat for only one day? Using Hagen's logic, she'll still ovulate about the same time. But it's my recommendation that you breed gilts the first chance you get — since the heat period is so short-lived.

SEMEN HANDLING — Here are some things to remember when using semen. Keep it clean. Handle gently. And change its temperature slowly. If you buy semen commercially, they'll give you specific instructions on handling. Follow them to the letter.

When you inseminate, it's best to have a boar close by so that the sow will stand properly. There's more reason for this than saving you the grief of chasing her around the pen. When the sow assumes a rigid stance, contractions in the uterus will quickly move the sperm up the tract. Even when you know a sow's in heat, if she won't settle down there may be no uterine contractions.

Inject the semen slowly. You're working with a limited volume. If you force it in too quickly and half of it leaks out on your boot, you may have to the job over again in three weeks.

Where should you buy semen? From anyone who can sell you a quality product that will improve your herd. It could be a commercial company. It could be a seedstock producer. Or it could be your neighbor. Remember that you'll get a better conception rate with fresh semen than with frozen.

Artificial insemination isn't for everybody. It certainly has some drawbacks. But the technology is here to make it work for a lot of producers. If you're interested, read the fact sheet in the Pork Industry Handbook. And talk to the people using AI now. You might find it worth a try.

Cattlemen's Ass'n plans Spring Fling, March 15-17

BOILING SPRINGS — An intensive beef cattle conference, emphasizing contemporary issues facing both cattle feeders and purebred commercial cow-calf operators is set for Saturday, March 16, at the Allenberry Resort, Boiling Springs, Cumberland County.

Morning sessions deal with losses in weaned, shipped and newly arrived feeder cattle. According to T.R. Drake, Extension Veterinarian at Penn State University, "There has been a lot of data accumulated in recent years on how losses in weaned and transported cattle can be decreased. Death losses are an important part of the problem, but reduction in subsequent performance — reduced feed efficiency, reduced weight gain and cattle which require health treatment after arriving at a feedlot, all markedly decrease feedlot profit potential."

Speaker Dr. Clair Engle, Extension Animal Scientist, summarized, "One of the ways of reducing these losses is by weaning the cattle at least three weeks before shipment, and by vaccinating for diseases that cause losses, such as IBR and various shipping fever complexes." A panel composed of a cow-calf operator, auction manager and cattle feeder is scheduled to discuss their programs with regard to reducing these losses.

The morning session is also devoted to reasons for decreased consumer consumption of meat and dairy products, and new nutritional information of animal products to the human diet, discussed by Lowell L. Wilson, Professor of Dairy and Animal Science, and W.R. Henning, Extension Meat Scientist.

Following a special Cattlemen's luncheon, two sessions are being held simultaneously: one for cattle feeders and buyers; and one for purebred or commercial cow-calf operators. Topics include state and national beef promotion/education efforts, changes in the USDA grading system, an update on growth promotants, feed additives and computerizing the feedlot business with special attention given to least-cost ration formulation, and feeding/marketing programs for the small scale cattle feeder.

Of interest to the purebred or commercial cowman are the use of fescue and warm season perennials, creep grazing and pasture rotation, field results with brassicas, mineral supplementations for a spring-calving cow herd, chemical castration and performance records to select young herd sires.

The Saturday beef conference and luncheon costs $12 per person or $22 per two persons from the same farm. Exhibits by commercial companies and beef promotion/educational materials will be on display and distributed.

The Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Conference and Beef Spring Fling is an inclusive weekend of events, March 15-17 at the Allenberry Resort. The event includes two nights lodging, Friday night dancing to the Rohrbach Orchestra, two Cattlemen's breakfasts, the intensive beef conference, Cattlemen's lunch, exhibits, Cattlemen's banquet with nationally known humorist Jerry Palen of Laramie, Wyoming, Saturday evening dancing, plus more.

The Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Banquet, featuring shrimp bisque, Caesar salad, sirloin strip steak, baked stuffed potato, broiled tomatoes, and apple brown Betty with vanilla ice cream will begin at 7 p.m., following a social hour. A strolling musician will entertain from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Speaker Jerry Palen, the crowning of the 1985 Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Queen, and presentation of the Cattlemen of the Year Award are all set for the evening. Music for dancing will follow the banquet.

Cattlemen and interested individuals may register for a "package deal" or "ala carte" events. For a complete brochure write to Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association, 862 Webster Drive, State College, PA 16801, or Department of Dairy and Animal Science, 324 W. L. Henning Building, University Park, PA 16802, or call 814-863-3667.

The March 15-17 conference and weekend is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association and the Pennsylvania Beef Council in cooperation with The Pennsylvania State University and the Pennsylvania Meat Marketing Program.

Sheep Research Digest available this month

DENVER, Colo. — The second issue of the Sheep Industry Development Program Research Digest will be available in early March at a reduced cost.

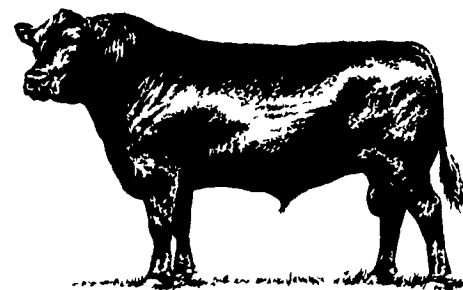

The new publication serves as a source of practical research findings which can be readily used by scientists, educators, extension agents and sheep producers alike. The Digest presents current research information on all phases of sheep production. The Digest not only serves as a valuable tool to the industry, it provides a forum for researchers to publish their work.

The SID Research Digest is published three times a year. Two issues contain articles on applied research results, and the third issue will provide a listing and summaries of sheep and wool research in progress. All articles are critically reviewed by a panel of researchers prior to publication.

The yearly subscription price for the Digest has been reduced to $22.50. For information, write SID Research Digest—200 Clayton St., Denver, Colo. 80206. Telephone: (303) 399-8130.

Cornell offers two swine production schools

ITHACA, NY — Swine producers throughout New York State are invited to attend a day-long "Swine Production School" to be held in March in two locations, Auburn and Darien.

The first school of its kind ever staged by Cornell University, the Auburn and Darien events are sponsored by the department of animal science in the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell and Cornell Cooperative Extension.

The Auburn school will be held on March 20 at the Cooperative Extension Auditorium, 248 Grant Avenue; it will be repeated on March 21 at Darien Town Hall, near Batavia.

Topics to be discussed include the most costly management mistakes made on swine farms, the cost of production analysis, critical factors in a sound feeding program, and trouble-shooting housing and ventilation problems.

For information about registration, contact local offices of Cornell Cooperative Extension.

Cornell vet sets

open house

ITHACA, N.Y. — The New York State College of Veterinary Medicine at Cornell University will hold an open house Saturday, April 13.

Tours, demonstrations, and exhibits on the care and treatment of pets, livestock, and exotic animals are planned from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. by students of the state's only veterinary college. The open house, which is free and open to the general public, is expected to attract several thousand visitors, including families, school groups, and other organizations.

During the self-guided tours of the college's modern facilities, visitors of all ages will have the opportunity to learn about avian (bird) medicine, puppy and kitten care, animal nutrition, aquatic medicine (for fish and shellfish), exotic pets, care of young livestock, and emergency first aid for pets.

Returning this year will be one of the most popular living exhibits, the fistulated cow with a "window" to one of its stomachs for observing digestive processes. Also on display will be veterinary services such as radiology, cardiology, clinical, and post-mortem pathology and endoscopy.

Among tours available at the Vet College open house will be a bus trip to the nearby Cornell Equine Research Park, where scientists study the nutritional needs, reproduction, diseases, and physiology of some 200 horses and ponies. Other exhibits being planned will offer information on heartworm disease, parasites of domestic animals, poisonous plants, aging animals, and mastitis in dairy cattle.

Berks Goatherders schedule Spring Conference

LEESPORT — The Berks Goatherders will hold a meeting on March 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room of the Berks County Agricultural Center. Dr. Lenore Sammons from Willow Creek Animal Hospital will speak on parasites and general health care. Anyone interested in goat health is welcome to attend the meeting and address their questions to Dr. Sammons. The club will hold a short business meeting after the speaker and refreshments will be served.

The club will not hold a meeting in April. Instead members will attend the upcoming Spring Goat Conference held on April 27th at the new Montgomery Co. Agricultural Center, Routes 73 and 113, Skippack, Pa.

Anyone interested in attending this conference can contact the Berks Goatherders, Box 325A, RD2, Birdsboro, 19508; Nancy Kadwill, Montgomery Co. Ext. Service, 215-489-4315; or Clyde Myers, Berks Co. Ag. Center, 215-378-1327.

Registrations will be taken at the door at 9:30 a.m. The Conference will be from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. with a catered luncheon planned.

SYMO-O-O-O

MORE DAIRY COWS ASK FOR IT. SYMO-LAC.

Symo-Lac is a vitamin-mineral fermentation product for supplementing the diets of dairy cows. With high levels of digestive bacteria, enzymes, essential vitamins, minerals and electrolytes, Symo-Lac will help herds meet optimum performance requirements.

Symo-Lac is formulated to be used from pre-freshening to breeding and whenever health or performance problems occur. It will improve appetite, feed efficiency and feed utilization. It can be used to increase milk production and butterfat test. Plus, it will effectively combat mastitis condition.

With Symo-Lac, it's easier to have a contented cow. Contains no drugs or antibiotics.

Profit is focus of Penn Jersey Dairy Meeting

BY JACK HUBLEY

NEW HOLLAND — Higher quality means lower cost. That was the message delivered by Wernersville-area dairyman, Forrest Stricker, at Penn Jersey Products Inc.'s dairy meeting held at the Liberty Fire Hall in New Holland on Feb. 27.

Speaking to an audience of 135 farmers, Stricker pointed out that harvesting high quality alfalfa at a lower fiber level is one way to keep feed costs down.

"To stay as efficient as possible we've got to get more nutrients out of our alfalfa so we don't have to supplement as much grain," he emphasized.

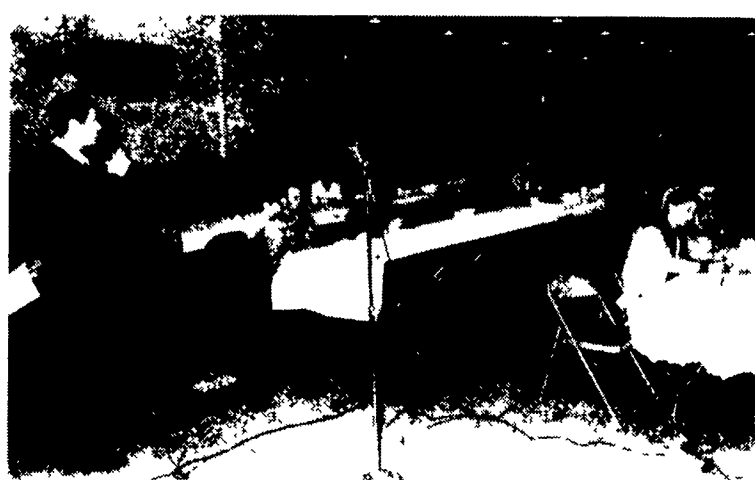

Stricker, who milks 50 cows and farms 60 acres of alfalfa and 120 acres of corn, advised farmers to aim for a 35-percent ADF (acid detergent fiber) content by harvesting their alfalfa at the right time. The "right time", according to the dairyman, is at the bud stage for the first cutting, and at the late bud stage to the first sign of flowers for later cuttings.

But Stricker also cautioned that soil type will have an effect on fiber level. The heavier soils found in Lancaster County will promote faster growth and fiber development than soils found elsewhere in the state, so cutting schedules should be tailored to the region where the crop is grown.

Stricker himself relies on four cuttings, maintaining that a fifth cutting not only puts undo stress on plants, but also means more wear and maintenance on equipment.

An advocate of total mixed rations, Stricker does his own ration balancing for his high, medium and low-energy ration program. His high-energy ration includes 69 pounds haylage, 19 pounds shelled corn and six pounds of supplement. The medium ration contains 43 pounds haylage, 11 pounds high-moisture shelled corn, 15 pounds corn silage and one pound soybean meal. The low-energy ration consists of 30 pounds haylage, 30 pounds corn silage and five pounds high-moisture shelled corn.

Wernersville dairyman Forrest Stricker discussed quality alfalfa production with more than 100 farmers at Penn Jersey's Dairy Meeting on Feb. 27.

P.L. Rohrer hosts customers at appreciation dinner

SMOKETOWN — Farmers should take a closer look at no-till farming and should consider using no-till instead of conventional tillage to conserve soil, John Stimpert of Chevron Chemical Company told a group of farmers this week.

The approximately 130 farmers he was addressing had gathered at the Good N' Plenty Restaurant in Smoketown Monday for a customer appreciation dinner sponsored by P.L. Rohrer and Bro. Inc. Of the farmers present about half indicated that they were using the no-till method and Stimpert challenged the remainder to talk to their neighbors and become acquainted with the practice.

Stimpson explained that conventional tillage contributes to soil erosion, while the no-till method of planting helps conserve soil.

An inch of topsoil can be eroded during the course of one thunderstorm, and it will take 1,000 years to replace that soil. "It's a serious situation," he said. He suggested using good cover crops with the Farm Bill in 1985 will be with us for a long time," he said. McCrea said he would like to see legislation that separates crop support and income support programs.

"I am convinced," he continued, "that it is very, very important for farmers to let it be known how you feel about these programs."

But no matter what Washington decides to do with the Farm Bill in this crucial year, "strong market-oriented farms are going to survive," he said.

A number of Rohrer's customers also gave testimonials about the success they have had using Ortho Unipel fertilizer. The farmers said they were especially pleased with the handling and uniformity of the product.

Potato farmer Lawrence King said: "I like the quality of Unipel fertilizer and it's quality that's important to potatoes."

LANCASTER — Lancaster Ford Tractor will sponsor a pedal tractor pull on Mar. 14, at 7 p.m. To be held in the dealership's large shop area located at Rohrerstown and Flory Mill Roads, the event will feature young competitors between the ages of three and nine years old.

Patterned after the "real thing", the pedal pull employs a miniaturized moving weight box and pedal tractors. Youngsters huff and puff to pull weights of up to 150 pounds to the finish line 60 feet away.

Tractors will be provided by the dealership, and four age classes will be recognized: three to four, five to six, seven to eight and nine years of age.

Registration will be taking place from now, up to and including the day of the pull. Classes will contain up to 15 to 20 competitors.

All participants will receive a token award, with prizes going to all class winners. Pull coordinator Larry Groff encourages all parents to sign up their children in advance.

Youngsters ages three to nine are invited to compete in Lancaster Ford Tractor's Pedal Tractor Pull on Mar. 14.

ABS to test four Pa. bulls

DEFOREST, Wisc. — Four young Pennsylvania bulls have been selected by American Breeders Service to enter their Progeny Testing Program.

The bulls are Plushanski Aussie-ET, and Plushanski Jetson Tron-ET, both bred by Plushanski Farm Inc., of Kutztown; Singing-Brook S-W-D Tiptop-ET, bred by Singing Brook Farms of Imler; and Brooks-Twain Perry Enchanter-ET, bred by Walter Brooks, of Brooks-Twain Farm in Springville.

The bulls have been moved to that company's facilities at DeForest, Wisconsin, where they will join approximately 200 other bulls being tested this year. During testing they will be mated to 700 cows in herds associated with ABS in their testing program, from all across the United States. After a four-year wait, during which all progeny will be evaluated, a decision will be made as to whether or not the bulls will enter into regular semen production.

ABS is the nation's largest A.I. organization and supplies semen to each of the 50 states and to over 65 foreign countries.

Two Pa. dealers receive top I.H. award

MARCO ISLAND, Fla. — Messick Farm Equipment, Inc., Elizabethtown, and Erb & Henry Equipment, Inc., New Berlinville, were recently honored for achieving the highest level of excellence attainable by an International Harvester agricultural equipment dealer for 1984. These dealerships are two of the top 50 in the U.S. to reach "Gold Award" status in International's "XL Excellence in Performance" program.

For their accomplishments, Bob and Marie Messick of Messick Farm Equipment, and Butch and Sharon Clauss of Erb and Henry attended a four-day session in Marco Island, Florida.

During their stay, the couples were presented with International's most distinguished award, a limited edition pewter trophy of the McCormick Reaper.

In the near future, Stimpson predicted, "We will be no-tilling a large percentage of our acres."

"There's no reason why we can't no-till all our crops," he continued, explaining that by no-tilling crops farmers can conserve soil, water, labor, fuel and time, resulting in increased profits for the farmer.

The earthworm activity resulting from no-till is also beneficial, he said. The no-till method leaves earthworm holes intact, increasing the flow of water and nutrients to crops.

On the other hand, conventional tillage, he said, destroys soil structure, reduces soil aeration and water filtration and capacity. And, soil compaction from conventional tillage reduces yield by restricting root growth and reducing nutrient uptake.

The farmers also heard a message from Peter McCrea, marketing manager at Chevron Chemical Company, who stressed the importance of 1985 in the future of farming.

Ralston Purina gives $50,000 to Penn State

CAMP HILL, PA — Ralston Purina Company has pledged $50,000 to Penn State's Ag Arena, the largest corporate gift to date in the fund-raising campaign.

Thomas T. Potterfield, Director of Operations of Ralston Purina's North Atlantic Area, presented University officials with a check for the first $20,000 installment in Dec. 5 ceremonies at the company's Camp Hill plant.

The gift was made through the Ralston Purina Trust Fund and is the company's largest ever in Pennsylvania. In recognition of the commitment, the Ag Arena's main conference room will bear the company's name.

Representing Penn State at the ceremonies were University Trustee Obie Snider, chairman of the campaign committee. Samuel H. Smith, dean of the College of Agriculture, and J. Luther Snyder, Deputy Secretary of Agriculture, also attended.

"The Ag Arena is already one of the most used facilities at Penn State," Smith said. "The Ralston Purina gift represents not only a handsome contribution of much-needed dollars but also a vote of confidence in Penn State and Pennsylvania agriculture."

Potterfield said that although Ralston Purina is headquartered in St. Louis, Mo., "Our roots are deep in Pennsylvania agriculture and our future is dependent upon it."

(Ralston Purina owns six plants in the state for manufacturing feed for livestock, poultry and pets — including two opened in the last two years in Lancaster and in Wyalusing, Bradford County.)

In addition, Potterfield said, "Penn State, in our opinion, is one of the top agriculture universities in the nation. We regularly recruit there, and a high percentage of our sales force are Penn State graduates. They are some of the best-trained people we have."

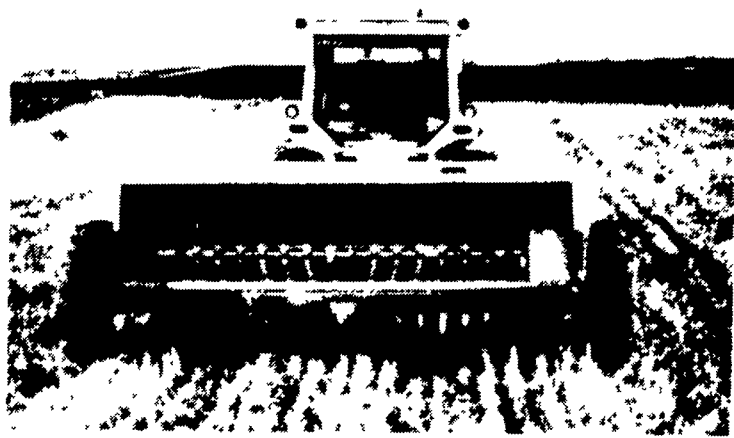

The Penn State Ag Arena is being built entirely with private support and has received more than 6,000 gifts during the five-year fund-raising campaign. At an estimated cost of $1.8 million, it is the second largest such project undertaken at the University (the Philip M. and Barbara Greenberg Indoor Sports Complex, at $2.6 million, ranks highest).

The main arena building housing a large show ring, conference room, offices and other meeting areas, was recently completed. A contractor will be chosen this winter to build a smaller holding-and-preparation center next door.

Lilliston 9680 NO-TILL GRAIN DRILL

For Heavy Stubble and Hard Soils

The new Lilliston 9680 No-Till Grain Drill will operate in maximum severe conditions, where uniform penetration of heavy stubble and hard soils is required. Unlike some of the so-called "no-till" drills available today, which are actually conventional drills with front coulters added, the Lilliston is designed, from the ground up, for one purpose: No-till seeding.

Supervisor retires from Penn State Dairy Research Center

UNIVERSITY PARK — Norman D. Walters, supervisor of Penn State's Dairy Production Research Center, retired on March 1. Walters worked for the university for 30 years.

A State College native, Walters worked on area farms for three years and his own farm for nine years before he joined the university's Dairy Production Center in 1955. He left the university staff temporarily between 1956 and 1957 for industrial work, but returned to become a barn worker and young stock caretaker.

Walters, who was named supervisor in 1975, was responsible for coordinating work schedules, training students and overseeing service employees. He was also the coordinator between employees and researchers, "making sure the employees reported to the vets when it was necessary, and so on."

Walters will stay in the Valley View area of Centre County with his wife, the former Ellen Grove. They have seven children and eight grandchildren. During retirement, Walters plans to continue mastering his gardening and home butchering skills.

"I'm also raising chickens and rabbits, and I have a small egg delivery route on the side," he says. "All that will keep me active."

Farm Crisis Net asks loan info

ST. PAUL — Thousands of farmers are faced with being denied credit this spring and possibly losing their farms.

Farmers who have been denied credit or who are facing foreclosure can help provide a clear demonstration of the magnitude of the problem and assist in giving direction for remedial action. These farmers are being asked to submit their comments.

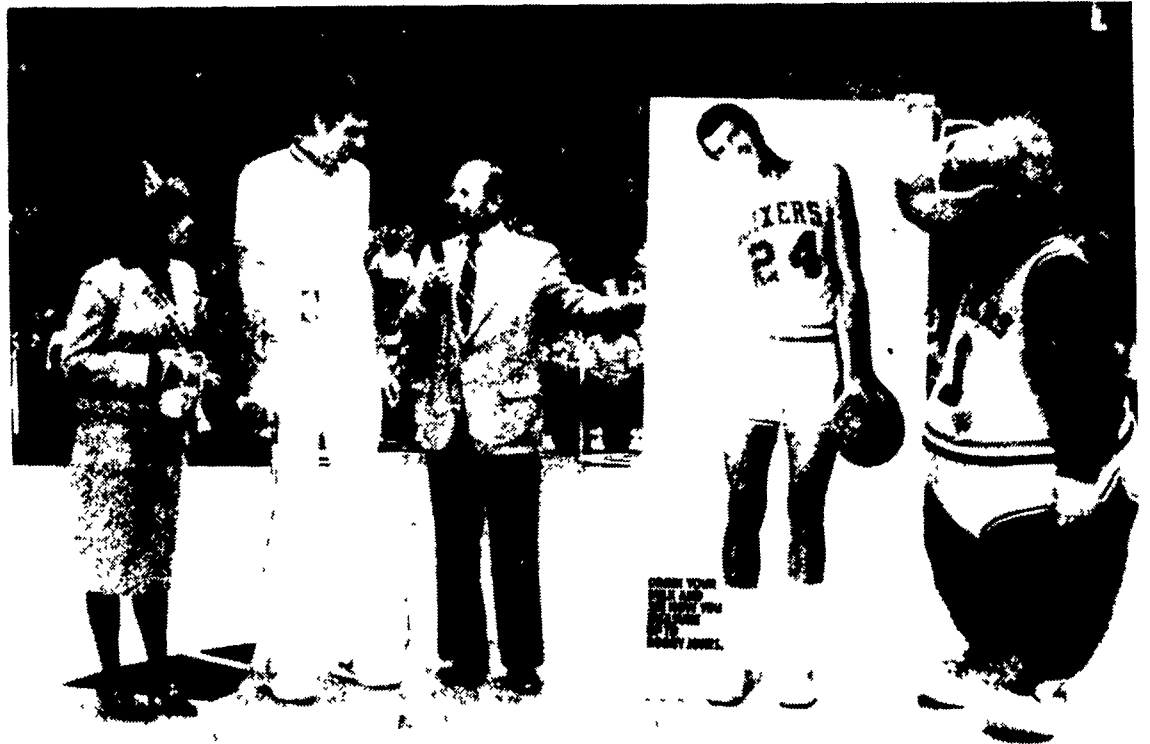

Individual comments and information relating to actions of foreclosure and denial of farm operating capital should be sent to:

P.O. BOX 14207
ST. PAUL, MN 55114

Information may include the specific type of farming operation, number of years in farming, debt to asset ratio, type of farm lender(s), reasons cited by the lender for denying or tightening farm credit and other relevant information.

A recent survey by the American Bankers Association of 5,200 agricultural lenders indicates that 13% of their farm borrowers will be denied operating loans this year. That compares with 3.4% in 1984 and 2.9% in 1983.

Jones drank his milk!

Paul Hand, center, gives 76ers defenseman Bobby Jones, with a small reminder to drink his milk, a life-size growth poster of the Sixers defense star. Hand is general manager of Inter-State Milk Producers and an advisor to the Advertising and Promotion Agency of the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Area (MAMMA). Lynette Loper, Pa. Dairy Princess also presented Jones with a silver milk pitcher in recognition of Jones' admirable lifestyle that demonstrates the value of fitness, nutrition and good sportsmanship.

The presentations were part of a milk promotion that took place at the Philadelphia Spectrum during the Sixers vs. Utah Jazz game on Feb. 24th. MAMMA and Sixers gave away 7500 Jones growth posters to fans 16-years and younger. An additional 500 Jones posters will be placed by MAMMA in Philadelphia area school cafeterias and doctor's offices.

Ag-Chem's pickup sprayer tanks come in 300 or 400-gallon capacities.

Ag-Chem markets convenient pickup sprayers

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Ag-Chem Equipment Co., Inc. introduces a skid-mounted pick-up sprayer in either 300 or 400-gallon rated capacities. The SK-300 or SK-400 feature elliptical shaped poly tanks that provide increased operator visibility, and easy-access filling with a large 10-inch fillwell.

The "C" section full-length tank saddle measures 9 1/4"x2"x3/16" thick. Standard equipment also includes a Scot centrifugal pump driven by a 5 hp Briggs & Stratton engine, 7-way boom control valve, and a heavy-duty 40' truss type boom. The boom is equipped with chemical resistant EPDM rubber product hose and features adjustable nozzle spacings.

The SK-300 and SK-400 pick-up mounted sprayers straddle post-emerge crop rows — and apply on pre-emerge broadcast fields. Getting from field to field is easy with the convenience of your pick-up truck. More information is available from Ag-Chem Equipment Co., Inc., Industrial Park, Jackson, Minnesota 56143, phone 507/847-2690.

Pacific Scientific introduces forage/grain tester system

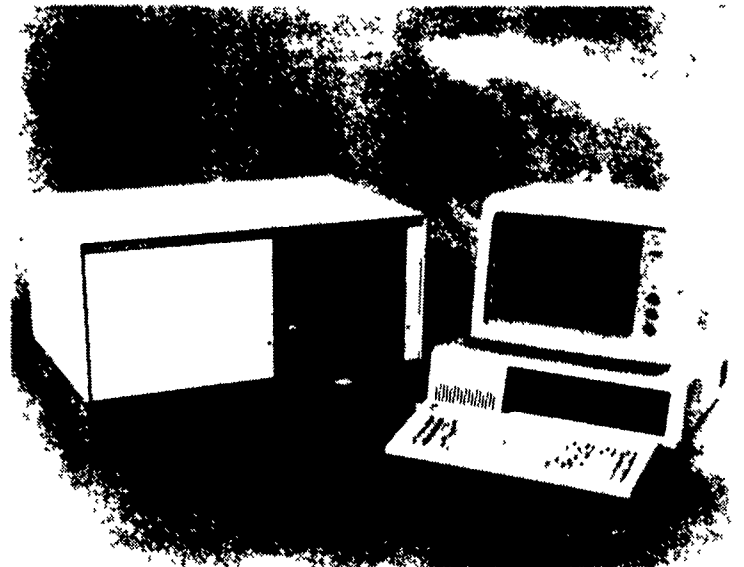

SILVER SPRING, Md. — Pacific Scientific introduces a new Model 6250 NIR spectrophotometer system tailored for the researcher interested in analyzing forages, feed and feed ingredients for nutritional content.

Software was developed by Infrasoftware International, a company headed by Dr. John S. Shenk, Professor, The Pennsylvania State University, and an international authority on NIR measurement.

The system enables researchers to develop calibrations for use in predicting protein, fiber, dry matter, and other properties of forage and feed samples, in seconds. No chemical reagents are required to prepare samples for test. Factory installed calibrations for hay, haylage, corn silage, corn grain and soybean meal are also available for the system. Protein, dry matter, ADF, Ca, K, P and Mg are measured simultaneously at the touch of a computer key and printed reports issued.

For further information on the Model 6250 NIR Forage Tester, please contact the Gardner/Neotec Scientific Company, Attention: Instrument Division, Pacific Linda Newberry (301) 495-7000.

Pacific Scientific's new Model 6250 is designed to work with the IBM PC-XT/AT or Northstar Advantage computers.

Alfalfa growers demand the best.

Alfalfa growers expect the most from their alfalfa variety. Like the highest yield, the best quality and multiple pest resistance. That's why more and more growers are planting Cimarron Alfalfa.

Profit with a proven variety. Cimarron is consistently a top producing alfalfa, both on the farm and in university tests — not only in total yield but in crude protein content and TDN. It's an extra leafy/full season variety with excellent stand persistence.

Cimarron offers resistance to a broad spectrum of diseases and insects such as Phytophthora root rot, bacterial wilt, Fusarium wilt, anthracnose, Sclerotinia crown and stem rot, Stemphylium leaf spot, common leaf spot, pea aphids, spotted alfalfa aphids and the alfalfa weevil. No other variety can match Cimarron's combined pest resistance.

High yield...extra leafiness...excellent quality...multiple pest resistance.

Shouldn't you demand Cimarron?

Brockett's Ag Advice

By John E. Brockett
Farm Management Agent
Lewistown Extension Office

Thru the years I have occasionally used members of my family to illustrate a point. My children and my wife have usually suffered in silence. Now I would like to use my Dad in an illustration. Dad was a county agent in New Jersey for 43 years.

He was an innovator and as such developed marketing programs for county farmers back in the 30's before it was a popular topic. Another thing that is important to my story is that physically Dad was a big man (185 lb of muscle and bone and 6'1" in his prime).

Due to his build and manner he gave the appearance of being a lot bigger than he really was. He also had a pretty good temper and woe unto the person (including we boys) who crossed him. Fortunately this didn't happen too often.

Furthermore he was well liked by nearly everyone because he had an infectious laugh, met people easily, was vitally interested in everyone and everything that happened in his county, would fight for his farmers even when he thought they were wrong, and people knew where he stood on an issue. One of his main frustrations, though, was farm marketing. Let's look at a few illustrations.

THE FRUIT MARKET

Dad and a small group of fruit producers started one of the early farm markets. The fruit farmers were tired of shipping their produce to New York or Philly and getting pennies and sometimes nothing for it.

Dad told them if you all get together and stick together we can bring the buyers to us and command a better price.

Thus was born the Hammonton weekly market. Anyone could buy there, from the homeowner who wanted a flat of berries to the chain store buyer who wanted a thousand.

The only rules were you had to handle only what you grew, you had to put out a quality pack, and all sales were made as a group. The market started at 5 in the morning.

By the time the last of the berries were sold, it would be noon.

Farmers came in horse or mule drawn wagons, Model T's and A's, and even a few cars with flats of berries in the trunk.

They did get the buyers. They saved transportation costs. They did get a much better price. What happened?

Despite Dad's arguments (and he could be mighty persuasive) and despite the fact that it would make him mad (and no one wanted that) the market was broken (it took nearly 20 years) because (1) farmers cheated on quality (the people in the city won't know any better anyway) and (2) the buyers went to a few of the larger growers and made private deals (a nickel more - until the market was kaput then—).

The end result - when farmers were able to set their own price and run their own market, they soon acted like the OPEC oil ministers.

THE LETTUCE WAR

In the late '40's and early '50's, Atlantic County lettuce growers found a spot in the market between North Carolina lettuce and Long Island lettuce. Again as with the fruit market above, Dad told them if you stick together and provide a quality pack, you'll make money.

They formed an association and held three auctions a week (Monday, Wednesday, and Friday). Quality standards were set and Dad told the buyers that any collusion among them would result in a shut down of supplies.

The first year it worked. Prices averaged over $4 a box with 1.50 to 1.75 as a breakeven price.

The second year the market was soft because North Carolina's lettuce was late so supply exceeded demand.

There was still a profit because the farmers discarded lettuce once when it appeared as though the buyers were ganging up on them.

The third year prices were again good, but some farmers snuck in some junk - this hurt the entire market.

The fourth year the buyers went out to the farmers who consistently put up a good pack and made a contract with them.

Once again the farmers had defeated themselves.

Dr. George F.W. Haenlein
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware
NEWARK, Del. — Whole cottonseed recently became available in the Northeast. Should you buy it as part of your dairy feeding program, and if so, under which circumstances?

Only sunflower seed equals whole cottonseed in its triple high values of energy-fat, protein and fiber. This makes either seed very attractive as a feed for early lactation dairy cows. Recent analyses show whole cottonseed has an average 21 percent crude protein in the dry matter, 18 percent fat, 29 percent crude fiber (40 percent acid detergent fiber), 0.15 percent calcium, 0.62 percent phosphorous, 96 percent TDN, 1.01 megacalories net energy and a protein solubility of 41 percent.

Based on its combined energy and protein content, the dollar value of whole cottonseed would be $166 per ton, if corn is $3 per bushel and soybean oil meal (SBOM) $240 per ton. At the same SBOM price but a cheaper corn price of $2.50, whole cottonseed shouldn't cost more than $149 to be comparable. Additional "opportunity" prices over a wide range of corn and SBOM prices are available from my office.

Recent research in several herds with large numbers of high-milking dairy cows has shown that feeding whole cottonseed stimulates and supports even high milk production. Substituting usual dairy grain mixes with up to 20 percent whole cottonseed resulted in increased milk per cow even when the energy contents were equal. Milk fat percentages were slightly increased, too.

Digestive use of whole dairy rations was shown to improve in protein, fat and total energy, when increasing amounts of whole cottonseed were added.

In a comprehensive study, involving 55 California dairy herds to determine any possible side effects, when the recommended upper level of as much as 6½ pounds whole cottonseed per cow was fed daily, no negative effects were observed in frequency of displaced abomasum, ketosis, milk fever, retained placenta or contents of milk fat, protein and solids-not-fat. Even 14 pounds per cow daily had only positive effects in milk and milk fat production (an increase from 68 to 72 pounds of milk, on the average).

Calves also showed improved growth rates when fed whole cottonseed at 25 percent of the concentrate ration.

Cottonseed is toxic to swine and poultry, but not normally to ruminants, because a yellow pigment called "gossypol" in cottonseed (about 1 percent) can cause depressed blood hemoglobin and increased red blood cell fragility. Gossypol has been identified in blood plasma and liver, but not in milk in experiments feeding as much as 22 pounds of cottonseed per day to cows.

However, aflatoxin has been detected in some cottonseed samples, which could endanger the health of cows and humans, since it is excreted in milk. In such cases, ammoniation of cottonseed (1.5 percent for 21 days) has successfully reduced aflatoxin contents to negligible levels. Normally, aflatoxin occurs no more often in cottonseed than it does in corn or soybeans.

Feeding cottonseed, in my opinion, is indicated—even desirable—when:

*The price is right, *high milking cows need extra feed energy support, and *cows testing low milkfat percentages and improvement.

Speaker chosen for convention

EPHRATA — Brenda L. Dawson, Director of Member Services for The Fertilizer Institute in Washington, D.C. will be one of the three guest speakers to be featured at Pennag Industries' Annual Convention at the Philadelphia Adam's Mark Hotel, October 6-8. Ms. Dawson will address the convention on the topic of: "Environmental Issues and the Fertilizer Industry."

Ms. Dawson joined The Fertilizer Institute in August 1983. At TFI she works to formulate responses to federal regulatory proposals which might impact the fertilizer industry in the areas of resource management and product quality. Also within these areas, she is responsible for representing and informing the industry of issues such as fertilizer use, water quality, fertilizer laws, and methods of fertilizer analyses.

Dawson received her bachelor's degree in biology, and her master's degree in environmental science and engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

ATTENTION FARMERS & LIVESTOCK HAULERS:

ALUMINUM EBY GOOSENECK TRAILERS, Standard Specifications:

LENGTHS AVAILABLE: 14' to 28' (longer lengths available as option)
WIDTHS: 96" Standard - 102" Optional
HEIGHT: 6'6" Standard - 7'6" Optional

A versatile, lightweight, Eby aluminum stock trailer is built to provide years of maintenance free service. An Eby trailer is custom built to fit your individual hauling needs - No mass production! We use only quality components and strong alloy aluminum to manufacture what may be the last trailer you'll ever buy.

CONSIDER THE FEATURES OF AN EBY ALL-ALUMINUM TRAILER

LIGHTWEIGHT
Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.

MAINTENANCE
Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.

DURABILITY
Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components of 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

Northern Farms approves merger with Eastern

MONTPELIER, Vt. — Timothy Bryant of Pawlet, Vt. president of Northern Farms Cooperative, announced today the Vermont co-op's approval of merger agreements with Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative, headquartered in Syracuse, NY.

The merger, approved by Eastern's membership earlier this month, will involve a complete dissolution of Northern's assets and liabilities, while providing Northern members with the opportunity to direct Eastern membership. The 238-member cooperative has been affiliated with Eastern Milk Producers for more than a year.

Earl R. Forwood, president of Eastern, said that he is delighted with the merger approval. "The merger with Northern Farms, combined with the last year's merger with Richmond Cooperative, gives us a very solid base in the state of Vermont. The agreement will benefit both Eastern and Northern Farms members."

Completion of the merger is scheduled for March 1. Eastern is the largest milk marketing cooperative in the Northeast with 4,200 members in states from Vermont to West Virginia.

PCCEA holds 8th annual "Capital Day"

HARRISBURG — The Pennsylvania Council of Cooperative Extension Associations (PCCEA) held its eighth annual Capitol Day last week in Harrisburg.

PCCEA sponsors the annual event to thank state legislators for their support of Cooperative Extension programs in Pennsylvania. Activities included afternoon visits with legislators and legislative aides in the Capitol building and an evening banquet held at the Penn Harris Motor Inn in Camp Hill.

Featured speaker at the banquet was Dr. Samuel H. Smith, Dean of the College of Agriculture and Director of Extension in Pennsylvania.

Last year the State Legislature appropriated $1.9 million for a Pennsylvania Computer Extension Network. The network will link Penn State's 67 county Extension offices, four regional research stations, and the main campus. Dr. Smith said that the network will be in operation by July of this year.

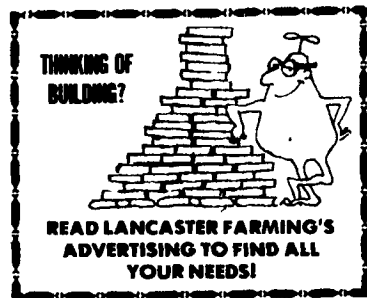

"Implementation of the project has taken a mammoth effort from our faculty and staff," said Smith. "Those who are coordinating the program have done an excellent job."

"This is in effect a major overhaul of our system," he added. "We will be receiving the dividends of this project for years to come."

Smith said that technology based on the "microchip" has revolutionized our agricultural industry and our research. On the most basic level—information that took days, even weeks to calculate can be done in a matter of minutes.

Operating through this system, Penn State's soil testing service did 82,000 samples last year. The dairy testing program kept records on 347,000 cows last year. That is well over 10 million bits of information. Our turnaround time for that information is just four days.

Without sophisticated computers, the efficient processing and delivery of our educational services would be impossible. Every one of the computers that we placed in the offices as a result of the last appropriation is more powerful than the University's main frame computer was just 20 years ago in 1965.

"We need to reaffirm the unique partnership which has made agriculture and the Extension delivery system so successful in this country," said Smith.

Last year more than two million people got information from their county offices in Pennsylvania. Over 20,000 Pennsylvanians volunteered more than a million hours to help Extension programs.

The evening program also included remarks by Penrose Hallowell, Pennsylvania secretary of Agriculture; Mary C. Grim, President of PCCEA, and Sally Brown Blair, a former 4-Her who talked about the importance of 4-H in her life.

The PCCEA is a statewide volunteer association that represents the 67 county volunteer Cooperative Extension Associations in Pennsylvania.

Simplicity adds power steering

Simplicity Manufacturing, Inc. has enhanced the performance of its new Model 7790 heavy-duty garden tractor by adding optional power steering.

The 7790 couples a hydrostatic transmission and a chassis designed and built by Simplicity with an air-cooled diesel engine distributed and serviced by Briggs & Stratton/Lombardini Diesel, Inc.

According to Simplicity's vice-president of engineering, John Brackin, "This fingertip control is a great benefit since the 7790 performance is geared for long hours of operation on large lawns and gardens, feed lots, landscaping, park and grounds maintenance and commercial lawn and garden servicing."

Nebraska farmer topples corn yield record

LEWELLEN, Nebr. — Gerrod E. Toepfer, Lewellen, Neb., last year produced the highest yield ever recorded in the National Corn Growers Association (NCGA) yield contest. He produced 320.63 bushels per acre with PAG SX 333 in the irrigated division, topping the 319.52 bushels per acre produced by Ernest Dixon, Thornton, Calif., in 1982.

The top national yield culminates a string of record yields for Toepfer in Nebraska. He produced the top state irrigated yield in four of the past five years. The exception was in 1981 when his crop was hailed out. NCGA records show that Toepfer's per acre yields were: 1980, 248.64; 1981 (hailed out); 1982, 220.79; 1983, 227.65, and 1984, 320.63. All the yields were obtained with PAG SX 333.

Toepfer credits his consistently high yields to a hybrid that will withstand high plant populations, a refined fertility program, meticulous attention to planter adjustment, proper irrigation, careful monitoring of crops and excellent growing conditions.

Toepfer's record-breaking field was planted at about 36,000 plants per acre, considerably higher than usual plant populations. The field had a final plant population of 32,000 plants per acre.

"I really pushed the hybrid," he said. "Plants were 5.4 inches apart in 36-inch rows in the final stand. I wouldn't push other hybrids to that plant population, but I've found that SX 333 can take high plant populations if management and weather are in your favor. And the growing conditions were ideal. We had very few days of 100 degree temperatures, which is unusual. The humidity and growing degree days were ideal."

Toepfer prepared the contest field by disking cornstalks from the previous year, chiseling the field and again disking before planting on May 10. The field was rotary hoed once and cultivated twice before furrows were established for irrigation. Soil pH was 7. After the corn was planted, Toepfer used the lightest equipment possible during the growing season.

"I think it's critical to reduce soil compaction as much as possible," he said.

Toepfer is meticulous about his planting procedures. He made several adaptations to his planter to allow for better seed emergence. He works to place seed in the ground at an even depth for consistent germination and emergence.

"I plant the seed about 1½ inches deep," he said. "It's placed in firm soil that's nicely mulched with good moisture content."

Planting speed also is carefully regulated by Toepfer. "I know that a lot of farmers plant at six to seven miles per hour. But I plant at 2½ to 3 miles per hour so seeds drop uniformly. Since I spend a lot of time working on my planter for proper seed placement, I don't want to mess things up by going too fast. Proper planting speed can't be overemphasized. It's important even at the end of the field where seeds can be bunched up if you slow up too much."

Toepfer draws water for irrigation from the Ogallala aquifer. It runs through concrete-lined ditches, then into furrows down crop rows. The corn is irrigated every 7 to 10 days during the growing season.

Soil on Toepfer's farm ranges from sandy loam to sandy clay loam. It has been sloped to provide a six-foot fall or less in a half-mile field. Grass at the lower end of some fields collects water runoff and helps prevent erosion.

Toepfer monitors fields daily to watch for disease or insect infestations. "Occasionally we have to spray for spider mites or other problems," he said.

Soil tests are taken each year to design a fertility program. "We then add or subtract from these fertility recommendations to the yield we're striving for," said.

Automatic's Mist Sprayer provides rapid coverage

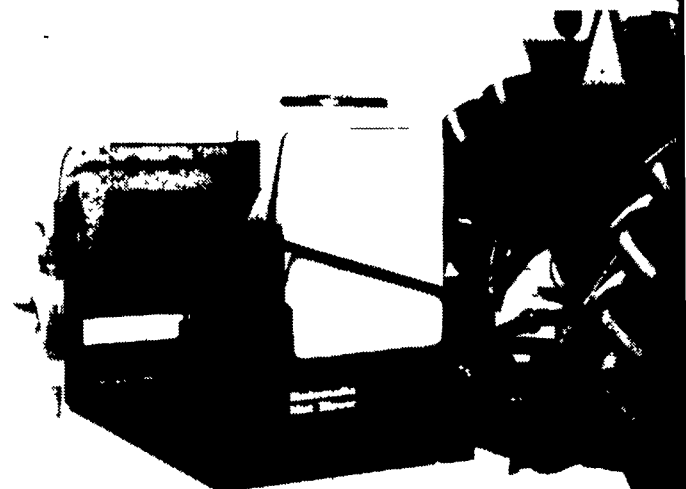

PENDER, Nebr. — The Automatic Mist Sprayer covers up to 100 acres per hour with a 150-foot swath at 5-10 mph, according to Ryder Supply. It's the ideal machine to treat pastures, rangeland or broadcast crops.

The Micronizer Spray Head provides controlled droplet size to give more coverage with less chemical and provides savings of up to 50 percent on chemical costs. Effective control is possible with as little as 1/2 gallon active ingredient per acre.

The Automatic Mist Sprayer is available in PTO-powered tractor mount, or stationary units powered by gasoline engine to mount in pick-up or on trailers. Various tank capacities are available from 20 to 200 gallons, fiberglass or polyethylene.

For further details contact the manufacturer, Automatic Equipment Mfg. Co., Department

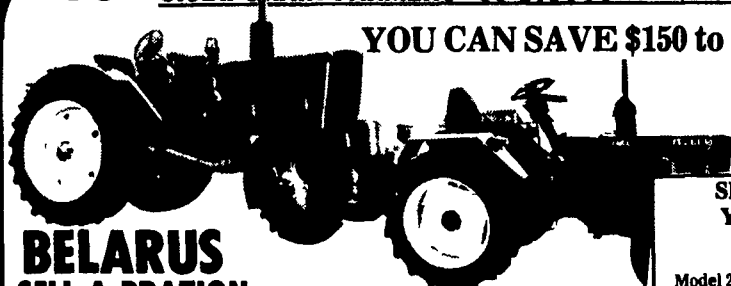

NR, Pender, Nebraska 68047, 402-385-3054, or the distributor, Ryder Supply, Box 219, Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, 17201, 717-263-9111

Automatic's Mist Sprayer features rapid coverage and tank capacities to 200 gallons.

Crop management meeting scheduled

BLUE BALL - The Adult Farmer Program of the Eastern Lancaster County School District will conduct a Crop Management Meeting on the afternoon of Tuesday, March 12th at 1:00 p.m., at the Weaver Homestead Farm on White Oak Rd., near Martin Quarry, north of Blue Ball.

Topics for study will include spray seeding of alfalfa, adjusting and calibrating corn planter, tips on no-tilling, and sprayer calibration. Certification for private applicator licenses will be available.

Forry Ag Service will have an alfalfa spray seeding rig on hand to describe the spray seeding process and to discuss its advantages. Gerald Heistand, Soil Conservation District Tillage Specialist, will discuss the results of last year's side by side trials and explain common mistakes made in no-tilling, including planter adjustments.

The procedures to calibrate corn planters and crop sprayers will also be demonstrated. Those who have private applicator licenses that expire in 1984 or 1985 can get them renewed at this time.

The meeting will be held at the Weaver Homestead Farm (Nelson and Don Weaver). The farm is located on White Oak Rd., just off route 322 near the Penn Jersey Harvestore office, north of Blue Ball.

All interested persons are invited. For additional information contact the Adult Farmer Office at 354-4525.

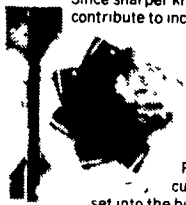

HOW TO GET MORE CAPACITY FOR YOUR MONEY.

If you're looking for a high capacity forage harvester to fit a 60 150 hp tractor, look at Gehl's economical 750. You'll find the 750 is in a capacity class of its own.

The first capacity secret we'll reveal is our special blower design. The cutterhead is actually set into the blower compartment. There are no cross augers. No dead spots. Just high speed forage movement from windrow to wagon. But that's just the start of the Gehl non stop forage flow story.

Keep a keen edge
Since sharper knives also contribute to increased output, we offer an easy Powerful 8 knife cutting cylinder is set into the big 36" blower — keeps forage moving smoothly.

Exclusive optional 30-gallon water injector system reduces haylage gumming and cuts power consumption up to 37%.

quick sharpening system. Gehl's patented in head hydraulic knife sharpener puts a factory true bevel on knives. The knife sharpener is optional on the 750, standard on other units. And our single station cutterbar adjustment is the simplest you'll find anywhere.

You wind up fine tuning your cutting system fast — right in the field. And you cut your fuel bill even more. So make sure you get your money's worth in a forage harvester. Check out the cost efficient Gehl line — the economical 750, the high capacity 1000, or the giant 1250.

How to get a good turnover.

Our powerful 5HP and 7HP tillers are easy to start, thanks to Automatic Decompression. And they're easy to operate, with all the controls conveniently located on the handles. Both are self-propelled with 2 forward and 1 reverse gear, and have rugged Honda 4 stroke engines with quiet, efficient mufflers. The only hard part with a Honda tiller is deciding which one to get.

Farm Bureau asks advanced price support loan plan

PARK RIDGE, IL — The nation's largest farm organization has urged President Reagan to allow advance price support loan payments to farmers participating in the 1985 farm program.

Robert Delano, a Warsaw, Virginia feed grain farmer and president of the 3.3 million member American Farm Bureau Federation, sent a telegram to the White House explaining the farm group's credit relief plan.

Calling the rural credit situation "serious", the farm leader encouraged action by the Administration to "permit American producers to receive a portion of their price support loans for the 1985 crops at the time they sign up for the 1985 farm program."

Delano also called for a one month postponement of the sign-up deadline for the 1985 farm program from March 1 to April 1, a delay he termed "essential", providing time for farmers to make production decisions.

Those producers who do sign up for the program should be eligible to receive an advance price support loan on a maximum of 50 percent of their anticipated 1985 crop. According to the Farm Bureau plan, loans would be recourse loans until harvest (farmers would have to repay the loan with dollars until the crops leave the fields). After harvest, the loans become non-recourse and farmers could repay with commodities.

Other facets of the credit relief plan include requiring participants to purchase adequate crop insurance to guarantee the planted crop; pegging advance support loan interest rates at normal Commodity Credit Corporation levels and offering assistance only to "basic" crops covered by the 1949 Food and Agriculture Act, such as corn, wheat, cotton and rice and soybeans, grain sorghum, oats and barley. Delano suggested that the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and local ASC county committees should administer the program.

Farm Bureau's farm credit plan also proposed the shipment of $1 billion of agricultural products currently in government inventories to Africa nations in need of emergency food supplies. The federal Commodity Credit Corporation could easily supply that amount, "demonstrating our compassion for thousands of hungry people and aiding U.S. farmers by removing price depressing government stocks," Delano said.

24" RECIRCULATING FAN

The Hershey recirculating fan is a low profile unit easily and quickly installed to give you control of wasted hot air trapped on the ceiling. It pulls air from below and distributes it 360 degrees along the ceiling, evening out temperature differences and creating a healthy draft free environment for your animals.

Housing construction is of 18 gauge stainless steel while motor supports and basket guards are galvanized for long life and low maintenance. The energy efficient motor can be wired for single double (220 volt only) or variable speed operation and couples to a stamped aluminum blade.

Avoid yield-robbing soil compaction

BY JOHN OWEN
DeKalb-Pfizer Agronomist
DEKALB, Ill. — Soil compaction is a common problem in many fields. Compaction and its effects are often difficult to see and, as a result, impact on plants and crop yields are often overlooked.

This soil condition can limit essential water and nutrient uptake, reduce root efficiency and can result in death of portions of the root system. It can also contribute to the loss of nitrogen through denitrification.

Soil compaction is the formation of various compacted layers resulting from traffic across or through the soil. Plow pans result from the use of bottom or moldboard plows, disk harrows, and other similar implements. Traffic pans are created by wheel traffic such as tractors, combines, trucks, grain carts, and sprayers.

Cultural practices, such as cultivating can form compacted layers between rows. Layers of compaction may be located anywhere between the soil surface and the deepest depth of tillage. Many fields will contain one or more compacted layers in the root zone and will have another layer defining the lower limit of root growth.

The primary cause of problems resulting from compaction is the formation of dense layers of soil that serve as barriers to root growth and downward movements of soil air and water. The most common effect is the physical restriction of root growth by a layer too dense for the root tip to penetrate. This barrier between a shallow, restricted root system and deeper located soil moisture and nutrients can have serious implications for the crop.

A root system restricted by compaction has access to a fraction of the total available water and nutrients in a soil profile. Such a crop depends on current rainfall or irrigation for water, therefore, the chance of yield reduction due to drought is increased. Deeper root systems have access to greater volumes of nutrient-containing soil as well as access to mobile nutrients, such as nitrates and sulfates, that often move downward to subsoil levels.

Additional problems resulting from compaction can further reduce yields. The downward movement of water and gases can be blocked by compacted layers.

Water lying over a compacted barrier saturates the soil and displaces the soil air. This places roots in an anaerobic environment and blocks the normal root functions of water and nutrient uptake and transport. Root tips of most row crops are sensitive to low oxygen levels and will die in several hours without oxygen.

Another consequence of this saturated soil layer is denitrification and the subsequent loss of nitrogen. A compacted layer may be dense enough and have such small pores that, even without excess water, downward soil air movement is restricted. This results in an area of soil with oxygen levels too low to support normal root growth and function, thus serving as another barrier to plant growth and crop yield.

Growers can follow several management practices to avoid compacted soils. First, limit traffic across the field as much as possible and try to minimize the area where compaction may occur. One way to achieve this is by establishing a traffic pattern or path, and making all trips over this roadway. Also, avoid working soils that are wet since this leads to compaction.

Some tillage options reduce compaction more than others. Ridge-till directs vehicle traffic between the crop row year after year, avoiding compaction in the row where root activity is greatest.

Also, field cultivators have been found to cause less compaction than disking.

Rotation to a root crop can help correct soil compaction. Deep rooted crops, like grasses or alfalfa, do a better job of penetrating compaction layers than row crops. These forages have stronger roots and will develop new soil pathways for water and air movement. Rotation is forage sorghum will limit field traffic and help to breakup compaction as well.

Growers can use a "V" plow or similar deep tillage tool to penetrate and shatter the compaction layer. However, they should avoid compacting the soil again by working the soil too many times. In the row, subsoiling has also proven helpful in loosening compaction, especially where the planter is pulled directly behind the subsoiler placing the seed directly over the loosened area.

York's Small wins promotion award

HARRISBURG — At a series of luncheons held in Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, and Philadelphia, retail and foodservice companies were honored for their promotion of apples and apple products during the October National Apple Month, 1984.

P.A. Small Co., of York, PA, won top honors for voluntary or cooperative chains of 50 or more stores.

"Having competed in the contest for many years and finally winning the top national honor is very rewarding," proclaimed Larry McWilliams, produce merchandiser for the company. "We knew if we kept promoting apples and entering the contest, the gold would finally be ours."

When asked what next year's strategy will be, Larry commented, "we will do a bigger and better job of promoting apples."

Also winning top national honors from Pennsylvania were Triple "G" Farm Market and Dairy Store, Stevens, PA (affiliated with Associated Wholesalers, York, PA) for single stores unaffiliated or affiliated with voluntary or cooperative companies; Dutch Pantry Family Restaurants, Camp Hill, PA for restaurant chains with 50 or more restaurants or cafeterias; and Messiah College, Grantham, PA in its third year in competition, for School Foodservice operations of fewer than twenty-five cafeterias.

Promotions ranged from in-store customer participation in recipe contests to faculty staff participation in a dessert sampler in a foodservice unit and an abundance of apples and apple products being sold during the promotional period.

SHENANDOAH INCINERATORS - A SANITARY ALTERNATIVE FOR ON FARM DISPOSAL

To Help Prevent the Spread of Disease

The sanitary way to get rid of animal carcasses is with a Shenandoah incinerator. It's pollution controlled and convenient to use. It's also extra efficient because we've lined the burning chambers, and in some models even the afterburning chambers, with one and a quarter inches of refractory cement. That keeps the heat up and the energy costs down.

Choose among eight easy-to-install smoke and odor controlled models. You even have the option of burning gas or oil.

Ask your local Shenandoah dealer about efficient, inexpensive incinerators. You'll find out how our bright ideas in farm equipment can mean a bright spot in your day. And still leave a green spot in your wallet.

The Dairy Business By Newton Bair

THINKING SMALL

It's pretty hard to "think small" in today's world. We have been sort of brainwashed and conditioned to believe that the only way to succeed is to "think big". So farms have gotten bigger, and just about everything it takes to run them is bigger than ever. All the machinery, and the barns, the herds and, of course, the bills. While we have been getting bigger as individual farmers, our numbers grow smaller as a professional group of food producers.

It is quite possible to find ways to survive in farming without getting caught in that web of fallacy that only the big farmers make money and have a good life. I've recently seen some comparatively small farms that are operated on an intensive scale that makes them appear big. And they are big, in terms of income and family success.

INTENSIVE FARMING

On a recent farm tour in the state of Hawaii, we visited several small but very intensive farm operations. By intensive I mean that they were all turning over big income dollars, with mostly family labor on a very few acres. Just the kind of operations that we need more of to keep the family farm alive.

One was an 11 acre farm that produces nothing but watercress! Can you imagine grossing $300,000 a year on eleven acres? It is located on the outskirts of Honolulu, on land rented from the city. Of course, it has the required physical layout of flat, fertile land, lying along a fresh water stream. The operator is the third generation on the farm, and has developed the family's know-how into a highly profitable business. They can sell all the salad watercress they can produce, and still not supply the demand. The boss pays his wife $25,000 a year to do the bookkeeping!

Flowers are big business in Hawaii, as well as here at home. But, here is a business returning big dollars to the owner, with a minimal investment in land. The average acreage on one Anthurium farm is less than ten acres. Most of that is covered with expensive shade netting though. And it takes a lot of special expertise to breed, grow, and market the very unique flowers. the Anthurium growers, all small operators, band together in a marketing cooperative to ship their flowers all over the world, at a nice return for their efforts with little competition from other world markets.

We visited other rather small but well managed nurseries on the island of Maui. On only a few acres, the Terry Nursery on the side of Haleakala Volcano in Maui grosses more than $500,000 a year. Of course it's not all profit, but the net returns are handsome, and the business was started on a shoestring just eight years ago.

Another "small" operation that we visited on Maui was a feedlot which fattens over 10,000 head of cattle a year, on 20 acres. All the feed is purchased. There is no room to grow anything. The roughage consists of dried pineapple refuse spiked with a little sugar cane molasses. All of the grain is imported from California. Their feed costs are high, but so are the returns. Again, it is a very well managed operation, run with a minimum of outside help, and a maximum of business sense.

I started this piece with the intention of emphasizing the small but intensive farm operations. These few illustrations are only a sample of the kind of innovative thinking that must be done by farmers in order to survive the trends to bigness that threaten to eliminate the family farm. We can look around us a little closer to home and see many other examples of small but intensively managed farms that produce good incomes for the owners. Not all farming has to be big. But it takes a bit of bog thinking to make a profitable business on a small acreage.

Hesston announces losses for 1984

HESSTON, Ks. — The continuing depressed state of the farm economy which has reduced markets for farm equipment in North America to less than half their size of the late 1970s is cited as the reason for Hesston Corporation reporting an operating loss for the 1984 year ended December 31, 1984.

Hesston recently announced a loss of $4,478,000, or $1.59 per share, on sales of $191,052,000 for the 1984 year compared to earnings of $2,028,000, or $.27 a share, on sales of $197,962,000 for 1983. During the fourth quarter, a low seasonal period for shipments to dealers, the farm equipment company recorded a loss of $2,707,000, or $.85 per share, on sales of $45,532,000. The loss in the fourth quarter of 1983 was $2,667,000, or $.86 per share, on sales of $42,466,000.

"Since the farm economy began its downward trend, Hesston has been profitable from operations in three of the last six years. However, in 1984, intense competition, particularly in the tractor markets, has forced heavy discounting in order to sell products to the retail customer.

Additionally, high interest rates and increased dealer inventories have once again led to high sales financing costs," Howard L. Brenneman, president and chief executive officer, said.

Mr. Brenneman stated that the loss for 1984 would have been far greater had it not been for the ongoing expense reduction programs initiated by the company in 1981. Such programs include reduction of indirect expenses, improved manufacturing efficiencies and purchasing practices, as well as careful and strict control of all expenses of the company.

"We are concentrating on product development in order to keep our hay and forage line among the most up-to-date and modern in the industry and in developing a quality distribution system for our full line of products including tractors, hay, forage and tillage equipment. We will also continue to reduce our fixed costs and to control working capital," he said.

In keeping with this strategy, Hesston introduced more than 60 new or improved products for 1985 to its dealer organizations.

Automatic Micro-Mist Sprayer Controls Droplet Size

The Automatic Micro-Mist Concentrate Sprayer can be powered by the tractor pto for use on rowcrops, vegetables and orchards.

The Automatic Micro-Mist Concentrate Sprayer is a faster, more efficient, economical alternative to conventional boom and aerial spraying of rowcrops, vegetables and orchards.

It takes mist blowing techniques a step further by giving the operator the ability to control the diameter of the spray droplets and choose the diameter best for each particular spraying application.

Controlling droplet diameter results in increased effectiveness and reduced materials cost.

The smaller droplets of the Micro-Mister coat all sides of the target evenly, due to the powerful turbulence produced by the unit. The Micro-Mister effectively coats the undersides of leaves, reaches inside trees, even coats the back sides of fruit.

The compact size and the utilization of chemical concentrates by the Micro-Mister offers many advantages. The unit comes in models that can be powered by PTO on small tractors, or a gasoline powered skid unit that slides into the bed of any pickup. Because the Micro-Mister eliminates the need for cumbersome water hauling equipment that requires additional manpower and time-consuming stops for refilling, the Automatic Micro-Mister saves both time and money.

The Automatic Micro-Mister can offer effective coverage up to 250 feet, depending on application, and can operate at speeds up to 12 m.p.h., with no dangerous overspray or drift.

Block chairs Ag Day '85

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block has accepted the honorary chairmanship of National Agriculture
Day 1985.

Agriculture Day is observed on the first day of spring, traditional start of the planting season, which is Wednesday, March 20 this year.
Some states and communities also observe an Agriculture Week, which this year begins on March 15.

Secretary Block, who was instrumental in making the Illinois Agriculture Day program a model for other states when he was that state's agriculture director, has served as honorary chairman each year since 1981, when Agriculture Day was proclaimed an official national observance by Congress and the President. Agriculture Day began as a community-oriented program in 1973.

"Observance of National Agriculture Day gives all of us a chance to increase public awareness about agriculture.
Individually, or in groups, we can encourage discussion of our nation's largest industry and emphasize to our nonfarm neighbors the impact it has on our daily lives," Secretary Block said.

The Agriculture Council of America Education Foundation serves as national coordinator of the Agriculture Day program.
Activities in Washington are organized by a steering committee chaired by Shirley Traxler, deputy director of the USDA Office of Public Liaison. For details of this year's observance contract the foundation at 1250 I Street, N.W.,
Suite 601, Washington, D.C. 20005

Holstein genetic leader - BOVA - dies

PLAINS CITY, Ohio — The first registered Holstein resulting from embryo transfer was put to sleep on February 11, 1985. Rockalli Son of BOVA has set the trend in the A.I. industry as the leader in genetic advancement. BOVA is currently the top PDM (+1,890) and TPI (+728) sire in the Holstein breed, according to the January 1985 USDA Sire Summary. He held the same top position on the January 1984 summary.

One of Elevation's greatest sons, BOVA's genetic story began on March 12, 1974, when he became the first Holstein E.T. calf born in the United States. Hubert Johnson of Mount Vernon, Wash. is the breeder who initiated the history-making event.

Transplanting procedures were not as refined as they are today and BOVA's dam was actually laid on her back for the surgery. For nine months, BOVA was carried in a Jersey recipient.

Although BOVA was born in March, his dam did not freshen until October of the same year. John Hecker, Select Sires' Senior Sire Analyst, required sufficient production data on BOVA's family before the transaction was complete.

BOVA was sampled through Select's Program for Genetic Advancement (PGA) and later graduated from the young sire program as the highest proven sire Select had ever sampled at that time.

Currently his semen is being used heavily in embryo transplants and contract matings across the country. Many show and sale "toppers" are BOVA offspring.

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

What will it take to survive in agriculture over the next few months? Or perhaps even the next few years? That's a question that all of farmers are asking these days.

Farmers' attitudes have changed over the last couple of years. They've changed from how to maximize profits and how to get ahead the fastest way to how to survive.

There's hardly a farmer anywhere who can say he had a good year in 1984 or even in 1983 for that matter.

The good years when crop prices were high and farmers bought almost everything that was for sale just to keep from paying taxes are distant memories. Now it's how to cut costs and get through another year without going under.

Some farmers have tremendous debts, very few assets, a poor cash flow and little or no chance. Survival isn't even an option for them.

Some of those farmers who in a practical sense are already bankrupt - they just haven't declared - won't survive. The best they can hope for is a painless if not graceful exit from agriculture.

But there are thousands more, many of them here in the East who can survive. They still own their land or at least some of it even though it may be heavily mortagged and they are reasonably good farmers.

All they really need to make it is better commodity prices. But those don't seem to be forthcoming and so they must figure out how to make it some other way.

There is a substantial group of farmers who are still making it. And there is a group that clearly isn't making it. And then there is a group in between. They are borderline. Perhaps they don't even know they are borderline.

Sometimes it's hard to tell in agriculture whether you are getting ahead or slipping behind. It's extremely difficult to take an end of the year inventory and come up with solid figures that will indicate financial success. And many farmers truly don't keep the records they need to make this judgment.

Ask those farmers who have given up and many will tell you they didn't know they were in trouble until it was too late. You see, farming isn't a neat little business with daily transactions that can be tallied and expenses that can be subtracted and profits that can be projected.

Typically, a farmer does most of his buying between January 1 and April 1 and most of his selling at harvesttime. And while he has incidental expenses and living expenses throughout the year, his big purchases are made in the winter and his sales might be six months later.

It's hard to bring all that together on any given day and produce a meaningful profit and loss statement as you would in a retail business. So many farmers make decisions on purchases and sales with imperfect knowledge that gets them into trouble.

It may be tough for some farmers to switch from a go-for-broke philosophy to one of survival. The change has occurred too rapidly. They are left with long-term leases, high mortgage payments and other obligations that can't be turned off and yet their incomes won't support those earlier commitments.

Don Tilmon who is a farm management specialist for the Delaware Cooperative Extension Service is talking survival to farmers wherever he goes. He lists 15 factors that farmers must consider if they want to survive.

There is no magic in his list - just practical thought-provoking statements and questions that are in tune with a survival mentality. Most of them revolve around cutting costs.

He's telling farmers not to commit to payments that they are not sure they can meet - payments for tractors, land rent, fertilizer, pesticides and on down the list of agricultural inputs.

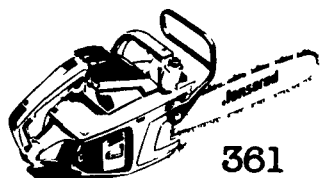

While this kind of advice might worry farm suppliers, it's

State's new fertilizer law now being enforced

HARRISBURG — An amended version of the Pennsylvania Fertilizer, Soil Conditioner and Plant Growth Substance Law is now being enforced by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Plant Industry. The Act, which passed the General Assembly unanimously, was signed by Governor Dick Thornburgh in December 1984.

The law increases registration fees for Specialty Fertilizer, Soil Conditioners and Plant Growth Substances from $15 to $25. At the same time, the law eliminates the registration requirements for brands and grades of commercial fertilizers.

The amended version stipulates that fertilizer must now contain a minimum of 97 percent of its guaranteed Commercial Value. The law permits a 10 percent deficiency on primary units up to a two unit maximum. For example, a corn starter mix labeled 8-32-16, must test at 7.2-30-14.4. (While 10 percent of 32 units is 3.2, the law permits a maximum tolerance of only two units).

The law also provides a reduction of the penalty factor from 10 to five times the amount of the deficiency. Lawmakers have included a civil penalty section for violations of the act.

For further information concerning the law, write the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Plant Industry, Feed, Fertilizer and Lime Division, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408 or phone (717) 787-4843.

Farm Talk

realistic. After all what implement dealer wants to sell a tractor and then have to repossess it six months later when the farmer defaults? Or what fertilizer salesman wants to place a large order only to find out a few months later that the fertilizer is on the ground and the farmer has gone out of business. It's pretty hard to repossess fertilizer.

So Tilmon is saying to farmers that they should look around this winter, take a hard thoughtful look at everything they are doing. With survival as the primary objective.

Some farmers will have to swallow hard before they give up a piece of rented ground that's been part of the business for many years. But if the rent is too high, Tilmon says give it up.

He's even suggesting that a farmer might be better off to sell off something, machinery or land to ease a cash flow problem and return to solvency. Or maybe a farmer should consider a different crop mix. Something that requires lots of labor and not too much machinery or land.

Tilmon and many other agricultural economists across the country are helping farmers redirect their thinking away from the good times philosophy of the 1970's toward a more realistic survival in the 80's and beyond. None of the forecasters I've read say anything about another good times period for several years to come. In the meantime, the survival philosophy will serve most farmers well.

Several years ago, W.T. MacAllister who was an extension farm management specialist at the University of Delaware talked about living on less. He forewarned the hard times ahead and challenged farmers and others for that matter to think about a future that was not quite so rosy.

His forecasting was pessimistic, not much fun in you were a rising young farmer with lots of potential. That living on less philosophy didn't exactly make him the toast of the town. But surely as he enjoys a well earned retirement he draws some satisfaction from the correctness of it.

Fish farming offers new help in seafood shortages

ITHACA, NY — Quickly, name five or six farm products. Traditional responses might include fruits, vegetables, grains, meat, milk, and eggs.

Equally good answers would be oysters, mussels, trout, salmon, and catfish. Fish and shellfish are also "farmed," according to a seafood nutrition specialist for Cornell Cooperative Extension. Her work at Cornell University is supported in part by the Sea Grant Program of Cooperative Extension.

Glenna Ryan says that fish and shellfish farming — part of the so-called "blue revolution" — may become a more common agricultural concept in the near future.

"Aquaculture" is not a new idea. The Chinese were farming fish thousands of years ago. For the American food industry, however, it is a comparatively new idea, one that offers definite potential after the technological and legal kinks are worked out, says Ryan.

Aquaculture, in brief, means raising in "captive" species of fish and seafood that normally grow and are harvested in the wild.

Natural or man-made ponds and lakes, tanks, concrete raceways, submerged cages, and rafts supporting dangling ropes are examples of the types of apparatus used to raise fish and shellfish. The technology of aquaculture goes far beyond the problem of where and how to house the fish, though. It is a technology that many people are trying to perfect.

"There's a new interest in aquaculture because our demand for certain types of seafood exceeds the supply that is naturally available," Ryan says. "Aquaculture can help us meet the greater demand."

Aquaculture can achieve another important goal for the seafood industry — stronger quality control of its products.

"Through the new technology we can control the various factors that determine the quality of fish and seafoods — age, feed, genetics, predators, water quality, and water temperature," Ryan explains. This can help insure a uniform, high quality product not always available from fish and seafood harvested in the wild.

It is the same potential for greater control that presents one of the main problems of aquaculture. A fish farmer requires detailed knowledge of all the factors at play in the life-cycle of a fish in order to provide an optimal environment for growth. In comparison, wild stocks are subject to the laws of nature.

Biology, and a need for greater information in this area, is not the only problem facing aquaculture. There are also tremendous legal considerations.

"Ownership of certain bodies of water and the right to the land underneath them is the central legal issue of aquaculture," Ryan says. It involves diverse groups of people — fishermen who harvest from the wild, vacationers and residents who use public or private beaches, government agencies, and aquaculture promoters — all of whom may claim a conflicting usage of the same body of water.

Despite these problems, aquaculture is going forward. Nearly all the rainbow trout and catfish and 40 percent of the oysters consumed in this country are products of aquaculture. Approximately 11 percent of the total U.S. fish and seafood harvest of 1983 was produced on "fish farms."

"Agriculture not only gives riches to a nation, but the only riches she can call her own." — Johnson

Indeed, farming can be a richly rewarding profession. But it can also be a very risky one. For the farmer is subject not only to the changes in the marketplace, but to those of nature as well.

We at Bank of Lancaster County salute all of you who have made farming your chosen field.

We know that from time to time you may need help in keeping your operation operating. At such times, you need a banker who understands farming from the ground up. That banker is Bob Badger, head of our Agricultural Loan Division. For years now, Bob has been helping area farmers "grow" with loans for machinery, livestock, construction, mortgages and other operating expenses. Visit Bob at our Strasburg office, or give him a call and he'll visit you.

Grassroots America sets meeting dates

WILMINGTON, Del. — Grassroots, the new on-farm information and management service, is now holding special meetings to let farm operators practice hands-on use of the new videotex system.

Meetings are being held in almost every community to keep groups small and offer individual help with questions and use of the system. Registrations for the present schedule are mostly in, but

William A. Rathbun, communications director for Grassroots America, Inc., says some vacancies exist.

Rathbun says that anyone not as yet registered may attend a nearby meeting by calling toll free 1-800-441-2128 (except in Delaware, call 1-302-652-2414). He points out that attendees are eligible for a drawing and the chance to win a $5,000 computer system, geared especially for the farm operation.

All farm operators and their families are eligible to attend by calling the 800 number. Meetings are set for morning, afternoon or evening - each about 1 1/2 hours; registrants will be notified of time of day for meetings for those where no time is listed as yet. Meetings are as follows and listed by state.

Virginia meetings are: Feb. 19, 9 a.m., Holiday Inn, Ashland; Feb. 21, 8 a.m., Pilot House, Toppings; Feb. 26, 8 a.m., Quality Inn, Leesburg; Mar. 7, 8 a.m., Pilot House, Toppings; Mar. 12, 6 p.m., Italian Kitchen, Mechanicsville; Mar. 14, 8 a.m., Holiday Inn South, Petersburg; Mar. 21, 1:30 p.m., Owl Restaurant, Parksley; Mar. 26, 9 a.m., Holiday Inn, Ashland; and Mar. 28, 8 a.m., Quality Inn, Leesburg.

West Virginia: Feb. 28, 8 a.m., Golden Corral, Charleston.

Maryland meetings: Feb. 21 and Feb. 26, 1:30 p.m. Howard Johnsons, Millington; Feb. 28, Holiday Inn, Aberdeen; Mar. 5, Mariner Inn, Easton; Mar. 7, Mariner Inn, Easton; Mar. 12, Quality Court Inn, Cambridge; Mar. 14 and Mar. 20, Sheraton Inn, Salisbury; Mar. 26, 1:30 p.m., Sheraton Inn, Frederick; and Mar. 28, 1:30 p.m., Holiday Inn, Hagerstown.

Pennsylvania meetings: Feb. 19, 9:30 a.m., Doylestown Inn, Doylestown; Mar. 7, 7 p.m., Holiday Inn, York; Mar. 14, 9:30 a.m., Nottingham Inn, Oxford; and Mar. 19, 9:30 a.m., Quality Inn, Lebanon.

New Jersey meetings: Feb. 21, 9:30 a.m., Holiday Inn, Somerville; Feb. 26, 9:30 a.m., Sheraton Inn, Freehold; Feb. 28, 9:30 a.m., Holiday Inn, Bordentown; Mar. 5, 9:30 a.m., Millville Motor Inn, Millville; Mar. 12 and Mar. 21, 9:30 a.m., Hightstown Hilton, Hightstown; Mar. 26, 9:30 a.m., Holiday Inn, Bordentown; and Mar. 28, 9:30 a.m., Millville Motor Inn, Millville.

Delaware meetings: Feb. 19, Blue and Gold Restaurant, 1:30 p.m. Georgetown.

Farm users of Grassroots use a converter and their own television set to call up marketing and management information plus news and weather. Most popular services today, according to Rathbun, are the many exclusive farm newsletter and grain market data. News letters include Doane's Market Watch, Thompson's Grain Trends, Commodity News Service, American Soybean Association reports and many others. Futures market transactions are updated every 10 minutes. All information is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

U.S. Chamber endorses Reagan's Farm Bill

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Chamber of Commerce has welcomed President Reagan's new farm proposal "as a bold and sweeping initiative designed to bring long-needed reforms to government farm programs and restore prosperity to the nation's farms, ranches and rural communities."

Stuart Hardy, the Chamber's agricultural specialist, termed the new proposal "the most innovative, far-reaching measure put forward by any President since Franklin Roosevelt's landmark Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933." Just as in that earlier proposal, the Reagan bill recognizes the need for fundamental changes in government policy and calls for bold remedies in the face of a deeply troubled farm and rural economy, the Chamber official added.

Many provisions of the new legislation are consistent with current Chamber policy, Hardy noted. Specifically, the Chamber supports the need for flexible, market-clearing support prices and the elimination of production controls. The Chamber also endorses the basic principles of equity, consistency, long-term market orientation and the need for a gradual, orderly transition.

"The economic hardship facing many farmers today underscores the failure of existing farm programs to maintain conditions of prosperity for American agriculture," Hardy said, adding, "A policy of 'more of the same' will only dig a deeper hole. Farmers desperately need a new direction, and the Reagan bill provides that direction with a long-term, market-responsive strategy geared to greater competitiveness in the global food economy."

Guernsey Breeders to meet in Md.

GRASONVILLE, MD. — Martha E. Synder will be the guest speaker at the 64th Annual Meeting of the Maryland Cooperative Guernsey Breeders Association, Inc. to be held Saturday, March 16, 1985 at the Grasonville V.F.W.

Ms. Synder, the Executive Secretary of the Maryland Agricultural Fair Board, will be talking about "Promotion in Agriculture". Seth K. Schnebly, of Clear Spring, Maryland will show a slide presentation on his trip to England and the Isle of Guernsey.

Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. and the business meeting will start promptly at 10 a.m. A short business meeting is planned for the morning session.

Robison elected to fair post

HARRISBURG — The 73rd Annual Convention of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs has elected Clyde Robison, R.D.3, Coal Center, as its president. Clyde has served many agricultural organizations over the years, including the Washington County Fair.

Elected to the office of First Vice-President is Donald E. Lanius of R.D. 3 York, the representative of the York Interstate Fair. Second Vice-President is John E. Lyon, R.D. 3 Russell, from the Warren County Fair, and Third Vice-President is Larry A. Krome, Gilbert, from the West End Fair.

Continuing as Secretary-Treasurer is E. Neal Mack, of Troy. Assistant Secretary and Newsletter Chairman is Fr. John

W. Mignot from Reynoldsville, Pa.

The Keynote Speaker for the event was Wayne Gallagher, the General Manager of the Texas State Fair. His excellent presentation encouraged fairs to put quality into their fairs. He stressed the importance of presenting quality agricultural exhibitions which are fun, educational and geared to the entire family.

Other speakers at the convention included Penrose Hallowell, secretary of Agriculture; R. Budd Dwyer, Treasurer of the Commonwealth, Catherine Heisse, Acting administrator of the Pennsylvania Fair Fund.

Various round-table discussions and seminars were held on a wide variety of subjects including ride safety, sales tax, exhibits, gate policies, and off season usage, to name a few.

A.E. Bayer was named the Fairman of the Year. Bayer is a veteran show manager from the Carbon County Fair, Lehigh, Pa. He was instrumental in introducing a horse show to his fair in 1955, which is now one of the major parts of the show. He served as president of his fair, former president of the Pennsylvania Showmen's Association and was a member of the Executive Committee of the Pennsylvania State Association of County Fairs for the past eleven years. He also served as the official visitor for Region

Elected to serve on the board of directors for the next two years are the following:

Anne Clark, Tioga County Fair; Chester Elliot, Hookstown Grange Fair; Faye Fulmer, Plainsfield Farmers Fair; Rolland Herring, Fayette County Fair; John Holbert, Bedford County Fair; Mary Hunter, Clinton County Fair; William Ibbes, Stoneboro Fair; Arthur Knauf, Butler County Fair; Fr. Mignot, DuBois Gateway Fair; J. Donald McMullen, Indiana County Fair; J. Donald Moyer, Westmorland County Fair; Jack Snyder, Clarion County Fair; Beverly Snyder, Venango County Fair; Dr. C.J. Umholtz, Gratz Fair; Frederic Wagner, Crawford County Fair; Don Adams, Juniata County Fair; Frank Long, Sinking Valley Community Farm Show and Dave Tory, Potter County Fair.

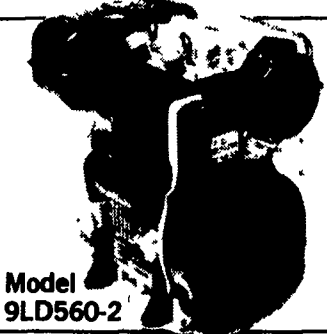

The 1986 convention will be held at the Host Farm in Lancaster, on January 23-25.

Premier Jersey sire passes on

PLAIN CITY, Ohio — One of the first highly proven "production" sires to win the Premier Sire award at the National All-American Jersey Show was put to sleep on December 20, 1984. Housed at JLG Custom Collection in Oakdale, Calif., and offered through Select Sires, Inc., FAVORITE SAINT consistently sires show-winning type cattle with the potential for profitable production.

Born in January 1974, 7J123 SAINT was bred by Cedarcrest Farms, Faunsdale, Ala. He has over 3,000 daughters on his January 1985 USDA Sire Summary. Many of these SAINT daughters have been sale toppers and National Show winners across the U.S. At the 1984 North American International Livestock Exposition, SAINT earned the prestigious award of Premier Sire. This award decisively made him the Premier Sire of the Jersey breed for 1984.

Many outstanding SAINT daughters and granddaughters exist today. Many of his sons are currently being proven through the Select Sires' young sire program (PGA) as well as other A.I. studs.

"If only I had known..."

We've all had to say those words at one time or another.

Those are also the words you say when you've lost some of your hard-earned income—just because you didn't know a few small, but significant facts or because you didn't have the right answers to the questions every good farmer needs to know before he makes a decision.

Now, Grassroots,® America's most comprehensive agricultural video-tex information service, is available to help farmers get the right answers to their questions—at the right time.

Smart farmers know that accurate, timely agricultural information can spell the difference between profit and loss. Now that Grassroots is available there's no excuse for not knowing exactly what you need to know to manage your farm more productively, more cost effectively—with less effort.

If you need to know more—Plan to attend one of the Grassroots demonstration meetings scheduled below. You could win a free IBM-XT computer worth $5,000 just for attending. No purchase required. It's simple to make a reservation. Just call toll-free: outside of Maryland 1-800-638-3860, in Maryland 1-800-492-2886.

Grassroots makes a smart farmer even smarter.

ProTek™

"I'd call this a major scientific discovery for dairy feeding."

When you can reduce protein in the milking ration by 15 to 20 percent while maintaining milk production, that's efficiency! And that's exactly what new ProTek™ feeding is all about.

This new technology of protein treatment can greatly improve protein utilization by dairy cows. And do it consistently. That's because ProTek is a unique new process rather than just another reformulation of protein sources. It's an exclusive process developed by Central Soya Research. Patent is pending.

Contact us now and find out more about this exciting new breakthrough in protein efficiency.

Experts see no silver lining in grain prices

PARK RIDGE, IL. — Despite steady growth in the world demand for feed grains, U.S. producers of grains and soybeans have little cause for exuberance over the next couple of years, according to three experts who addressed an American Farm Bureau-sponsored grain outlook seminar here.

One exception might be a short-run prospect for a 20 to 25 cent per bushel price improvement in corn that will be required this summer to attract needed corn out of the farmer held reserve and Commodity Credit Corp. storage, said Dr. William Uhrig, Purdue University agricultural economist.

Uhrig, who has addressed each of the four annual AFBF grain outlook forums, said he expects a good corn crop this year, with planted acres up about two percent from 1984.

He encouraged farmers to participate in the government feed-grain program, saying an annual average price of $2.75 to $2.85 per bushel would be required to make it more profitable not to be in the program.

Uhrig said bids for harvest delivery of 1985 crops is below the cost of production and below the loan rate for corn.

Uhrig and the other speakers, Dr. Robert Wisner, Iowa State University and Darwin Stolte, president and chief executive of the U.S. Feed Grains Council, agreed that loss of export market shares is a primary concern to U.S. producers.

Bleak export prospects may continue until there is some moderation in the strength of the dollar relative to foreign currencies, economies in developing countries grow stronger and U.S. commodities again become competitive in world markets.

Discussing the outlook for soybeans and oil seeds, Wisner said "the good news is on the supply side, with a modest increase in supply and an expected five percent drop in planted acres. Also, domestic demand has shown a rather strong recovery early in the marketing year, but is likely to moderate for second half."

But with exports currently running 11 percent behind a year ago, Wisner said, if the annual average price is to reach his projection of $5.85 per bushel, beans will have to average 10 cents a bushel higher for the last half of the current marketing year. That is nearly $2.00 per bushel below 1984 average. January soybean prices were 27 percent less than October, 1980.

Soybean prices usually respond to a short crop, so when that occurs, Wisner said, producers should look for pricing opportunities for a couple of years' crops.

If 1985 production reaches the 1.85 to 2.0 billion bushels, prices at harvest time, with a modest increase in stocks, could push below the current $5.85 per bushel price, he said. However, soybean prices have increased through the planting season 71 percent of the time for the past 15 years, so a top price of $6.40 to $6.50 a bushel could be possible for a very brief period around planting time.

Darwin Stolte, president of the U.S. Feed Grains Council, a producer and industry financed promotional organization, pointed to a four percent annual growth in global demand for feed grains even through the depths of the worldwide recession experienced in recent years.

He said U.S. feed grain exports grew a billion bushels from 1970-75, another billion bushels from 1975-80, reaching 72 million metric tons, 80 percent of it corn, by the end of 1980.

Stolte said he believes there could be another "bubble" in demand in 1987 and beyond. "Our country has to decide whether it wants to participate in that trade explosion," he said.

By 1990 world population will expand by nearly a half-billion people, Stolte said. Objectively, there is opportunity for another billion bushel increase in grain sales by 1990.

Eckel sees Farm Bill as positive step

CAMP HILL — The effort of the Reagan Administration to make farm programs less political, and to move toward a more "market responsive agriculture" has drawn the praise of Keith W. Eckel, president of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association (PFA).

"The severe farm credit crisis should be addressed immediately and independently of any long-range farm program legislation," Eckel said. "Farmers experiencing the severe credit crunch need immediate attention because of their inability to adjust to disappearing equity through falling land value, high interest rates and low commodity prices."

"We need a period of time (not less than five years) to move back to the market place for all farm commodities."

"In order to keep government at arms length, the government farm program must be market responsive," the farm leader stated. "We need to get our signals to produce or not to produce a product, from the market place, not government."

"There's hardly a year goes by when government doesn't interfere with the market place to enhance its own political ends," Eckel said. "Farming is a business and decisions about it should be made on financial considerations."

The concepts expressed by the administration in proposed farm legislation are a step in the right direction, Eckel stated.

"The farm bill should deal with the method of operation for agriculture over a long period of time," Eckel remarked. The administration proposal would be in force for 15 years versus the normal four-year cycle.

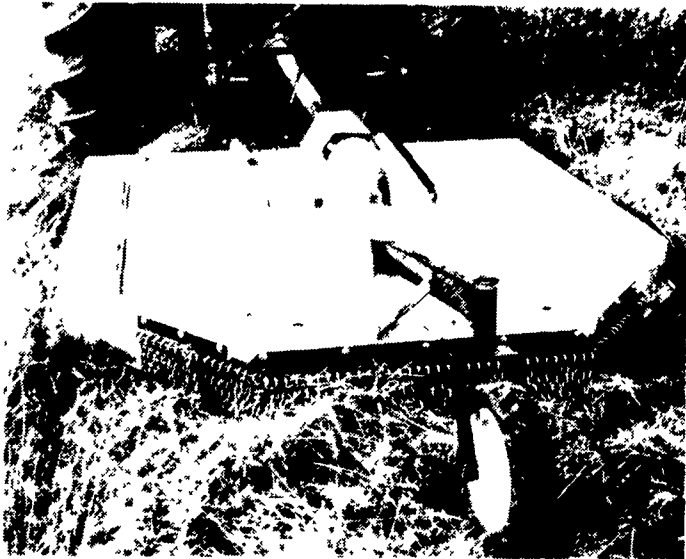

"Farmers must make long term financial commitments for land and machinery which require many years of capital investment," he said.

"Agriculture in Pennsylvania and across the nation is a family business," he explained. "In order to make any financial arrangement to bring other family members into the business we must have some assurances that government is not going to mess up the picture again."

The rootworm insecticide built tough enough to last all season long.

Now there's BROOT™ from Union Carbide. It's the corn soil insecticide specially formulated to deliver the full-season rootworm control you need for higher corn yields.

Down deep, no other rootworm insecticide looks like BROOT™...

Unlike conventional soil insecticides, new BROOT is formulated into unique roll-compacted granules. Together with finely-ground gypsum, the active ingredient in BROOT, trimethacarb, is blended evenly throughout each and every granule.

Or works like BROOT™...

Because of this unique formulation, each granule of BROOT gradually releases its active ingredient throughout the rootworm season.

Or handles like BROOT™...

This advanced formulation also makes BROOT soil insecticide easier to handle. It flows smoothly and evenly out of the hopper box. And BROOT is not abrasive to your application.

Here's proof.

Results from performance trials throughout the Corn Belt prove that BROOT soil insecticide provides the kind of protection you need for top corn yields.

In testing to date, BROOT has been a consistent performer in terms of root ratings and yield response. That's why BROOT is included in university recommendations for effective rootworm control.

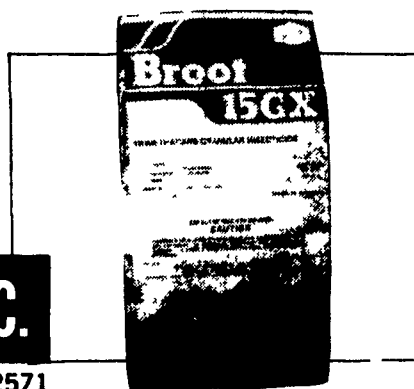

So ask your dealer about new BROOT 15GX. He knows that it's more than just another rootworm insecticide. And once you try BROOT, you'll know it too.

We breed success.

Kleen Leen® is pleased to announce the addition of our new Whiteline Boar Herd to the five established Pennsylvania Kleen Leen Production Herds. Kleen Leen continues to serve the genetic needs of Keystone area pork producers with larger litters, faster more efficient gains and good yielding carcasses.

We have enough confidence in our health program to offer the strongest written warranty in the industry. It helps assure that animals will arrive on your farm free of specified infectious diseases. The health warranty gives you specific guarantees concerning Infectious Atrophic Rhinitis, Mycoplasma Pneumonia, Lice and Swine Dysentery. Read our agreement of sale for complete details. Of course, all swine are tested free of brucellosis and pseudorabies or come from validated free herds.

Here are the latest results from Ken and Polly Case, a commercial operation in Milton, Pennsylvania. These results are on Whiteline Gilts bred to Landrace or Blackline Boars on the Purina Hog Program since the unit started in production.

Total Litters Farrowed	76 litters
Total Born Alive	796 pigs
Average Born Alive	10.47 pigs/litter
Total Weaned	700 pigs
Average Number Weaned	9.21 pigs/litter

Stop by and ask about the Kleen Leen Crossbred and Purebred Boar and Gilt Lines.

Artificial Insemination is also available.
